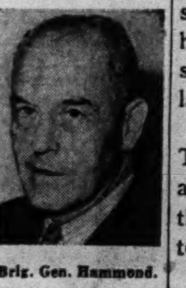
A complete exhibition of the heavy tools of war the United States and other allied nations are now using against the axis will be opened in Tribune square at noon today under the sponsorship of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the army ordnance department.



Brig. Gen. Hammond.

Army men say the show will bring together the most inclusive display of army ordnance ever massed. The exhibits have been placed in Nathan Hale court to the north of the tower, in the lobby of Tribune Tower itself, and in the Tribune parking lot between the tower and the Chicago river.

Open 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

The exhibition will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily for one month. There is no admission charge.

The opening of the show this morning will be broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual network at 12 noon. Music will be furnished by the band from the Aberdeen proving ground. Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell Jr., chief of ordnance; Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, Chicago ordnance district commander, and Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak.

From the capital Gen. Campbell yesterday sent this message:

"THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE-army ordnance department exhibition of ordnance material offers the people of the Chicago area an unequaled opportunity to see for themselves many types of the world's finest weapons for the world's finest fighting men."

18,000 War Plants.

Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, head of the Chicago ordnance district, pointed out that the midwestern district has 18,000 plants busy making ordnance.

On the eve of the opening, the show had the blessings of many other than ordnance men. For example, Norman B. Collins, administrator of the state war savings staff, had this to say:

"THE TRIBUNE-army show offers material value to the war savings drive, not only in showing the public the weapons of war and building morale but by creating a feeling in the minds of the people that the least they can do is to finance this war and these weapons thru the purchase of war bonds."

While the show is massive, its interest lies in small items. For instance, how do tank men see from their heavy steel casings? In the World War I. tank, only "antique" piece in the display, the two men who drove it over no man's land in the last war had to rely on quarter inch wide slits. To keep them from banging their heads against the steel sides they had only light pieces of spring metal, just as their seats were of steel covered with thin pads.

Tanks Use Periscopes.

But the two modern tanks, the 16 ton M-5 light tank and the 30 ton M-4 medium tank, have periscopes, whose six inch wide openings permit the tank men to see about 3C degrees, not much less than the eye itself takes in. The periscopes are mounted so as to revolve completely, giving the tank

A People's Triumph

(An Editorial)

It is impossible to exaggerate the sense of pride and satisfaction that filled American hearts when the people learned of their triumph in the house of representatives on Friday. They greeted the news as a second Declaration of Independence.

As has happened over and over again in the long history of representative institutions, a political conflict of overwhelming significance came into focus in a debate over an appropriation bill. In this instance the house was considering the grant of 3 billion dollars to OWI, OPA, and 16 other recently created agencies of government.

For a decade and more congress has seldom resisted the dictation of the administration in all such matters, even when the people's representatives knew that to vote more power to the burocracy was to be unfaithful to the voters. Over the years as the alphabetical agencies have increased in number and political power, the task of limiting their scope and directing their policies has become increasingly difficult. The people had begun to doubt whether it was any longer within the capacity of congress to guide and control the burocrats. The war, it seemed, had further weakened the legislative branch.

Last November, under the leadership of the middle west, the whole country turned against the New Deal. The people by their votes said they wanted congress to play its full part in our government. National policies were to be formed in congress in accordance with the Constitution and the people's will, and the officers of administration were to be kept in their places as the people's servants, not their masters. From time to time the new congress had shown symptoms of independence, but never had it acted with such clarity of vision and firmness of purpose as were displayed last week.

The house worked like a skilled surgeon attacking a cancer. The 40 million dollars cut from the bill was of little importance as a measure of economy, but of immense significance as evidence that the house is determined to restore our constitutional system to health and vigor.

All the money asked for the domestic activities of the office of war information was denied. The appropriations committee had voted to whittle the estimate by 37 per cent; the house with greater intelligence and courage determined to remove the whole growth, root and branch. The house saw that there can be no place for a domestic propaganda agency in a government in which the people are sovereign.

The two concepts cannot live together in war or in peace. If the people are sovereign they must have full access to the news of their government. If confusions and conflicts exist within the administration, the facts must not be prettified. Failures should not be suppressed.

Hitler can have his Goebbels to tell the people what he thinks they ought to know about their government and the war, but there is no room for a Goebbels in Washington as long as Washington is the capital of a free country.

The officials of our government speak and write English. Any time they have something to say they can say it themselves, without submitting their words for review to a propaganda ministry. In refusing the appropriation, the house expressed its faith in the intelligence and steadfastness of the people and in the ability of their free press to inform them.

The same kind of thinking resulted in a drastic revision of the office of price administration. Congress is persuaded, as the people are persuaded, that the administration has blundered to the edge of catastrophe. The house did not destroy OPA, but forbade it to grant subsidies that can only promote inflation, and ordered it to replace the theorists in control of commodity prices and distribution with men who have had practical experience.

The people know that war presents difficult economic problems, but they know, also, that the difficulties have been aggravated by destroying precisely those incentives to production that have made this country the richest in the world. An administration that encourages farmers to send lean, half grown steers to market at a time when a beef shortage is feared; that pays bounties for holding land out of production; that upsets established business practices in the midst of war to further a post-war collectivist program; that rations first and inquires later whether there is need for rationing, cannot be trusted with a free hand in economic management. As to OPA, the house spoke the will of the overwhelming majority of the American people.

The American people know now that representative government is a living force. We have heard the sovereign people speaking again in tones of thunder, telling the little men in the Washington bureaus who is boss and who is going to stay boss.

FORD WORKERS STAY AWAY IN FOREMAN STRIKE

Detroit, Mich., June 20 [Special].—Company officials at the Ford operated Willow Run bomber plant said tonight that 50 per cent of the employés were absent from the light Sunday shift as a result of the foremen's strike which began yesterday at Willow Run and at the Ford Motor company's River Rouge, Highland Park, and Lincoln plants.

International officers of the striking Independent Foremen's Association of America gave formal approval to the walkout today and said about 2,700 men had left their jobs in the four plants. They predicted the number on strike would amount to 9,000 tomorrow.

Wife Beaten, Husband Shot by Her Son, 16

George E. Larson, former Lake Forest fire chief, who is in Lake Forest hospital recovering from a shotgun wound which police said was inflicted early Saturday by James B. Waller Jr., his wife's son by her first marriage and a son of Chicago Ald. James B. Waller [43d], yesterday was charged in a warrant with willful assault with intent to murder. Young Waller is 16 years old.

The warrant was sworn out by Larson's wife, Mrs. Sarah Given Waller Larson, who said her son shot Larson as her husband was beating her early Saturday. It was issued by Police Magistrate Edwin Burgess.

The warrant will be served today, Lake Forest Police Chief Frank Tiffany said, and Larson will be placed under guard.

Wife Tells Her Story.

The shooting occurred in the Larson home, 895 North Oakwood avenue, Lake Forest, Mrs. Larson said yesterday, about 2 a. m. Saturday when Larson came home intoxicated, woke her up and told her he wanted to talk to her about a recent trip she made to New York to visit her parents, John L. and Irene Given.

She said she and Larson argued and she tried to persuade him to stop shouting. Finally she arose, put on a negligee and one slipper.

He then rained blows on her face with both fists, she said, and she sank to the floor. "I hollered for Jimmy and Bobby," she told the police, "and I remember Bobby screaming, 'leave my mother alone, Jimmy's got a gun.'" Bobby is Robert A. Waller, 15, another son of Ald. Waller.

Son Fired, She Said.

James fired as Larson lunged at him, she said, and after Larson had torn the gun from James' hands and endeavored to hit him with it, she and the boys fled from the house. A neighbor called police.

Mrs. Larson was "pretty badly battered," Sergt. Frank Metzger said. She is 39 years old and weighs 145 pounds. Larson, who is 43 and six feet tall, weighs 230. Mrs. Larson said she has asked Atty. William R. Behanna of Waukegan to file suit for divorce immediately.

Mrs. Larson divorced Ald. Waller in 1935, on ground of desertion, and was married to Larson in September, 1938.

Larson refused to talk about the shooting yesterday other than to remark: "That kid is crazy."

City Garbage, Street Union Orders Strike

More than 800 street laborers and garbage loaders, members of local 1001 of the Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' union, voted unanimously yesterday to call a strike this morning in protest against what they called unfair treatment of their organization by the city hall official. The strike move affects approximately 2,300 workers.

Frank Esposito.

At a meeting in the Engineering building members were informed by Frank Esposito, union president, that demands that the city reinstate 57 laborers and 12 foremen laid off as an economy measure, along with several temporary permit men, were refused. The union contended layoffs should be confined to the permit men.

Officials Deny Partiality.

City officials, when informed of the strike action, denied partiality and said dismissals had been based on the merit system. Lloyd Johnson, commissioner of streets and electricity, contended the action was taken by ward superintendents who are unaware of workmen's union status.

Anthony Francesco, secretary and treasurer of the union, said Johnson's department had been supplied with two lists when it was informed of the proposed cut in personnel. "One list carried the names of the regular union members," he said. "The other was a list of permit men, appointed thru political connections.

"At that time," he said, "the union demanded that only permit men be released."

Provided Two Lists.

A union spokesman challenged Johnson's statement that the ward bosses did not know which workers carried union cards. "Permit men are all political workers, precinct captains, and the like, who obtained their permits thru recommendations of ward committeemen. When a pay roll cut is ordered, those who failed to deliver the goods at the last election are let out. Meanwhile many of our boys, who have carried their union cards for years, are dropped."

Esposito, in addressing the members, said he would fight laying off of union men so long as one permit man remained on the job.

Esposito said 1,103 men carry temporary permits, a total slightly larger than the union membership.

Planes, Ships Rout U-Boats in 5 Day Fight

LONDON, June 20 (AP).—British air and naval units, protecting Atlantic convoys with counter-attacks against "one of the fiercest and most sustained offensives ever mounted by U-boats," have sunk from two to five of Hitler's submarines and probably damaged several others in a five day running battle, it was announced tonight.

The new successes in the allied drive to clear the Atlantic of enemy submarines were disclosed in an admiralty-air ministry communique.

"During these actions two U-boats were destroyed, three probably were destroyed, and others may have been damaged," the communique declared, saying the actions occurred last month.

The Daily Express naval reporter, W. A. Crumley, said tonight that about 50 U-boats had been destroyed in the last two months.

Tells of Land Based Planes.

Land based planes, including four-engined Liberators and Flying Fortress bombers, teamed with warships and aircraft from one of the new escort carriers to defend the convoys from the U-boat packs.

For five days and nights the battles ranged over hundreds of miles of the Atlantic, but British planes and ships intercepted the undersea raiders so effectively that 97 per cent of the vessels in the convoys reached their destinations. Most of the engagements were fought many miles away from the convoys, the communique said.

The first pocket aircraft carrier to be announced in action was the Bites, formerly an American freighter. One kill was credited to the British destroyer Broadway, formerly the U. S. Hunt, which Britain obtained from the United States in the destroyer-base deal.

The destroyer Hesperus also definitely sank one U-boat and attacked two others which were believed destroyed.

Aircraft Guide Destroyers.

In the communique the battle was described thus:

"The battle began when two of a large number of U-boats, operating in the vicinity of the convoy, were sighted by aircraft of the fleet air arm from the escort carrier Biter.

"The aircraft attacked the U-boats with depth charges and machine gun fire, forcing them to dive after shore based aircraft . . . joined the escort forces.

"Meanwhile naval aircraft were attacking another U-boat. They led the destroyer Broadway and the frigate Lagan toward the enemy. Both ships attacked in turn. The Broadway's second attack was followed by muffled underwater explosions and wreckage of definitely German origin floated to the surface of the sea. This U-boat is considered sunk.

Aircraft Maintains Patrol.

"Meanwhile aircraft maintained continuous patrol over and in the vicinity of the convoys, forcing other U-boats to remain submerged and to lose contact.

"The intensity and variety of the counter-attacks and the continual presence of aircraft ultimately completely discomfited the U-boat packs and the convoys proceeded to their destinations without further interference."

MARINE PLATOON SPARK PLUG, 12, GETS FOUND OUT

San Diego, Cal., June 20 (AP).—For seven months he has been James P. Baker, private first class, U. S. M. C.—but today he's just Jimmy Baker, 12 years old, of Jacksonville, Fla.

Probably the youngest leatherneck of World War II., and sparkplug of his platoon, young Baker was honorably discharged at Camp Pendleton after his age was learned.

Lt. Col. B. B. Coffenberg, commanding officer of the marine barracks at Camp Pendleton, said Jimmy enlisted in June, 1942, by falsifying his age and presenting what he said was the signed consent of his parents.

UNION READY TO GO TO WORK IF HE REQUESTS

Talks Break Down as Truce Ends.

Washington, D. C., June 21 [Monday]—(AP).—With more than 64,000 miners already idle, another general work stoppage began today in the coal fields as wage negotiations between the United Mine Workers and operators collapsed and a strike truce expired at midnight.

John L. Lewis.

Altho the union expressed willingness to work for the government and, in effect, asked Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes to send the miners back to their jobs, mine leaders in the fields said the men would not work without a contract.

Next Move Up to Ickes.

While the union put the next move up to Ickes, government operator of the mines, Ickes took no immediate action and none was expected until he confers with UMW leaders, probably today.

The stoppage—third in seven weeks in the coal mines—has spread to eight states in the eastern coal fields and late reports indicated that thousands of miners in the western states would quit work. The 83,000 miners in Pennsylvania's hard coal fields likewise were expected to join the soft coal strike.

William Compton, Illinois state vice president of the American Federation of Labor Progressive Mine Workers, which is not involved in the UMW wage dispute, said the 18,000 AFL miners would stay at work.

Willing to "Sacrifice."

The UMW policy committee, meeting shortly after negotiations had collapsed, declared the miners were willing "to make any necessary sacrifice for the government."

Ickes did not comment, but Assistant Interior Secretary Michael Straus explained that he took no action Sunday night because any 11th hour move would not have forestalled a possible tieup on the first two shifts today. Sunday is a holiday in the fields and the bulk of the miners are not due to report until this morning.

Ickes had planned to leave Washington for Columbus, O., tonight but canceled the trip when he learned of the union committee's action.

Union Denounces WLB.

The UMW policy committee issued a statement late yesterday denouncing the war labor board and charging it was in a conspiracy with the mine operators to "economically disembowel the miners" by forcing them to sign a two year contract at the old terms.

"No member and no officer" of the UMW, the statement said, "would be so destitute of honor as to sign or execute such an infamous yellow-dog contract. The congress has enacted no statute and the Constitution lacks any amendment to take from American citizens the right to refrain from participation in such a degrading act."

[Text of the committee's statement will be found on page 2.]

Altho the statement did not say so, the implication appeared to be that the UMW was prepared to make a contract with the government but meanwhile would follow its traditional policy of "no contract, no work."

Agreement "Impossible."

Today's session of the negotiators lasted only an hour. When it adjourned the northern and southern groups of operators and the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers association sent a telegram to WLB Chairman William H. Davis and Ickes saying:

"We have been unable to reach any conclusion due to the fact that the United Mine Workers of America are unwilling to make a contract until their claim for portal to portal travel time is satisfied. The directive specifically denies this claim and no possibility of agreement exists."

UNION CHARGES WLB PLOT TO PUT MINERS IN 'IRONS'

Collusion and Vengeance at Parleys Claimed.

Washington, D. C., June 20 (AP).—Text of the United Mine Workers' policy committee's statement today, following collapse of wage negotiations with coal mine operators, follows:

"The wage agreements in the coal industry affecting members of the United Mine Workers of America expire by limitation as of midnight tonight. These agreements have been extended four times since April 1, to protect the public interest and to avoid impairment of the war effort. Futile discussions have intermittently continued.

"The 1943 coal negotiations have been marked by bad faith, collusive dealing, political maneuvering, and private vengeance on the part of the coal operators and agencies of government and individuals in government. It constitutes a black record inimical to public interest, detrimental to public confidence, and designed to perpetuate the economic, social, and political debasement of the mining population.

Conspiracy Charged.

"There has been a continuing conspiracy between the war labor board, as such, and its members as individuals, with the coal operators of the Appalachian area. These coal operators have gladly followed policies and parliamentary maneuvers designed to hold the mine workers at bay until the war labor board, with its governmental powers and influences, could economically disembowel them.

"In all practical respects, the coal operators of the Appalachian area, since the beginning of negotiations in March, have been the puppets of the designing and malicious minds dominating the membership of the war labor board.

"It may be noted that in the more than three months of intermittent negotiations since March 10 the Appalachian operators have not at any time, nor in any instance, made a counter-offer of any character to the wage proposals originally advanced by the United Mine Workers of America.

Union Modifies Proposals.

"In reverse, the negotiating committee of the United Mine Workers have from time to time modified their proposals, until their present position constitutes a mere shell and shadow of their original proposals.

"Today there exists but one major problem preventing settlement:

"Namely, compensation to the mine workers for travel time from mine portal to portal. A federal statute and court decrees legalize such payment. It has been the continuous position of the United Mine Workers of America that the war labor board could not resolve this question because it lacked jurisdiction. The latest decision of the board now proves the truth of this contention, and portal-to-portal pay becomes a negotiable problem subject to agreement by the parties affected.

Adds Insult to Injury.

"The war labor board was not content to announce this lack of jurisdiction. It added insult to injury by writing in meticulous form, in exact phrases, a form of contract for the United Mine Workers of America, with blank spaces to be filled in as to date and signature. In this proposed contract the war labor board reverses its previous position on special items and includes stipulations and specifications designed to compensate the coal operators for the loyalty of their political adherence to the board.

"The board, with calm nonchalance, announces that this contract, which it directs the United Mine Workers of America to accept, will be for a period of two years. In other words, the war labor board undertakes to place political and economic manacles and leg irons on each of the 554,000 members of the union affected for a two year period.

Contract Held Infamous.

"No member and no officer of the United Mine Workers of America would be so destitute of principle and so devoid of honor as to sign or execute such an infamous yellow-dog contract. The congress has enacted no statute and the constitution lacks any amendment to take from American citizens the right to refrain from participation in such a degrading act.

"The action of the war labor board in this respect constitutes an assault on the basic principles underlying the privileges and freedom of American citizens, as defined thru the years by the definitions and decrees of the judiciary.

Terms Called Detestable.

"In refusing to work for the coal operators on the detestable terms which they offer thru the war labor board, we assert the willingness of the mine workers to work and continue the production of coal for the government, itself, under the direction of the custodian of mines since governmental seizure of the properties.

"The mine workers have no favors to grant the coal operators, nor the members of the war labor board, who have dishonored their trust, but will make any necessary sacrifice for the government.

"Accordingly, the executive officers of the United Mine Workers of America are hereby instructed to hold themselves in readiness to confer with the secretary of the interior, who, by Presidential executive order of May 1, 1943, is instructed and empowered 'to do all things necessary for or incidental to the production, sale, and distribution of coal.'"

BRAZILIANS STOP IN CHICAGO ON TOUR OF NATION

Twelve newspapermen from Brazil paused in the city yesterday on a six week transcontinental tour of the United States to study war work. The tour is being conducted by the National Press club in coöperation with the Coördinator of Inter-American Affairs.

Rodolfo Da Motta Lima, editor of a Rio de Janeiro paper, said that Brazil is preparing to send troops into the European area to fight alongside the Allies. Altho Brazil has not declared war against Japan, Lima said its forces will fight in the Pacific "if we have to."

The party will be here until Wednesday. Members will inspect the Great Lakes Naval Training station and the Gary plant of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company. Their next stop will be Detroit, Mich.

NIGHT MEN JOIN WORK STOPPAGE IN COAL MINES

UMW Aid Says None Will Report Today.

Night crews of several Illinois coal mines joined the work stoppage of the United Mine Workers last night and an official of the union said none of the members of the union would report for work today, despite a truce worked out two weeks ago by Gov. Green and officials of the union and the coal operators.

Gene Smothers, secretary to Ray Edmundson, president of district 50 of the United Mine Workers, said in Springfield last night that members of his organization will not go into the mines today.

"They will follow the traditional policy of the miners in Illinois and will refuse to work without a contract in view of the breakdown of Washington negotiations," he said.

Consider Truce Broken.

Spokesmen for the union declared they felt the war labor board itself had broken the truce in refusing to recognize the Illinois agreement for an additional $1.50 per day portal to portal pay.

The Illinois truce or agreement, entered into after Gov. Green brought together Edmundson and George F. Campbell, president of the Illinois Operators association, was to have formed the basis for negotiations for a new contract replacing one that expired March 31.

Campbell offered the $1.50 per day portal to portal pay, but said it must be approved by the war labor board and added that should the new contract with eastern miners contain "wages, terms, or working conditions more favorable to the operators," the Illinois union officials should grant the operators equal conditions.

WLB Refuses Approval.

The war labor board refused to approve the $1.50 portal to portal principle of the agreement, and as a result some 4,200 miners stayed away from Illinois pits Saturday.

Fred Wilkey, secretary of the Illinois Coal Operators association, expressed hope last night that separate contract negotiations with the United Mine Workers would be resumed soon.

Despite the refusal of the United Mine Workers to go into the pits today, William Crompton, vice president of the Progressive Mine Workers of America, affiliated with the AFL, said the 15,000 members of his organization would abide by the Green truce and will stay on the job, at least until expiration of the truce June 30.

SHIP REPORTS CABIN CRUISER ADRIFT IN LAKE

Boats from both the Wilmette and Waukegan coast guard stations left last night to investigate a report by a Great Lakes steamship that the 26-foot cabin cruiser Rene had been sighted adrift about 23 miles east of the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

Mrs. Washburn said last night that he was accompanied by Harold W. Logan of 11940 Stewart avenue, and William Philbrook of 51st street and University avenue. Both are employed by the Wisconsin Steel company.

Mrs. Washburn expressed no concern for her husband's safety. She said the boat was well provisioned and that the men were amply prepared to take care of themselves.

Swims to Safety After Canoe Capsizes in Lake

Dumped from his canoe into Lake Michigan yesterday when a wave struck it at the foot of Bryn Mawr avenue, Everett Fartenar, 25 years old, 1246 Wilson avenue, swam 400 yards to safety, pushing the canoe before him. A bather swam out and assisted him in.

Every Day Do Something to Help Win the War!

Mrs. Grant remembers how joyfully her son, Bill, used to devour her cocoanut layer cake and ginger cookies. He can't now because he's very busy bombing Germany. But she makes them just the same and sends them to the Service Center to make other uniformed boys happy. She buys War Bonds regularly, too, so Bill can return soon!

FRANKFURTER'S HOLD ON COURT LOSING FORCE

Tribunal Shows Signs of New Thinking.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—Since the Supreme court's momentous and far-reaching reversal of judgment within the last six weeks in cases involving freedom of speech, of the press, of religion, and of conscience a widely heard comment among lawyers is that Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter has lost control of the tribunal.

At one time the scintillating little lawyer from Harvard was reputed to have two branches of the government—the New Deal administration and the New Deal Supreme court—under his thumb. For a decade he had been the outstanding power behind the Roosevelt throne. Directly and indirectly thru the scores of law school protégés he got into key positions in the government Frankfurter influenced the President and was instrumental in the development of many radical New Deal innovations.

Considered Dominant Figure.

After going to the Supreme bench in January, 1939, Frankfurter continued to exercise his great influence over the Roosevelt administration. It also soon was bruited about that he was the dominant influence in the court. Many were the stories percolating from the court of the air of intellectual superiority which became the outer manifestation of the consciousness of leadership.

For a time the reports of his ascendancy in the court appeared to be confirmed by the decisions of the tribunal. Frankfurter was generally in the majority and frequently delivered the court's opinion. In the last few months, however, there have been increasing indications that he has lost his hold on the court.

Radicals Saddened.

This development has saddened the radicals and cheered the conservatives, who regard Frankfurter as one of the most powerful figures in the New Deal, whose ascendancy in the court of last resort was a source of danger to the preservation of American institutions. The first foreign born Supreme court justice within the memory of living men, Frankfurter, a native of Austria, has frequently been under fire for views smacking of totalitarianism, as in his sanction of governmental curbing of freedom of speech and conscience, and of internationalism, as in his recent dissenting opinion in the flag salute case.

The chief considerations for the appointment of Frankfurter were that he was the President's close friend and adviser and that he would continue the representation of the Jews in the court in succession to Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis who was about to retire. Compared with Brandeis, however, Frankfurter has proved a disappointment, in the opinion of many lawyers, including members of his own race.

The Gobitis Case.

The fall of Frankfurter was signalized by the court's reversal last Monday of its decision in the Gobitis case upholding state laws requiring school children to salute the flag. In the Gobitis case decided June 3, 1940, Frankfurter wrote the opinion of the court in which he called laws compelling the flag salute "manifestations of specific powers of government deemed by the legislature essential to secure and maintain that orderly, tranquil and free society without which religious toleration itself is unattainable."

That moment was the pinnacle of Frankfurter's influence in the court. All the members of the court stood with him in upholding compulsory salute of the flag except Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone, who wrote a lone dissenting opinion, an opinion which became the decision of the court upon reversal of its judgement. Last Monday, Frankfurter found himself deserted by Justices Hugo L. Black, William O. Douglas and Frank Murphy. Against him also were the two justices appointed since the Gobitis case—Robert H. Jackson, who wrote the reversing decision, and Wiley Rutledge—as well as the original dissenter, Chief Justice Stone. The only justices who remained with Frankfurter were Owen J. Roberts and Stanley F. Reed.

New Deal Repudiation.

Those who hold with Mr. Dooley that the supreme court follows the election returns are inclined to think that Frankfurter, like other New Dealers, is the victim of the country's repudiation of New Deal collectivism and dictatorship manifested in the congressional election last fall.

In the decision of the court a year ago in the Jehovah's Witnesses case upholding the power of local government to license the dissemination of the spoken and written word Frankfurter was one of the majority, tho Justice Reed wrote the opinion of the court, which was divided 5 to 4. Other members of the majority were Roberts, Jackson, and James F. Byrnes. The decision was reversed May 2 last by a 5 to 4 division brought about by the resignation of Byrnes to become economic stabilizer and the appointment of Rutledge who tipped the scales of justice the other way.

"Clear, Present Danger."

In dissenting from the reversal last Monday of his opinion for the court in Gobitis case Frankfurter argued at great length for the power of government to compel school children or any other persons to salute the flag. One phase of his dissent that attracted wide attention was his refusal to accept the application by the majority opinion of the doctrine of "clear and present danger" to the flag salute case. This doctrine was enunciated by one of the great liberals of the court—the late Justice Holmes—tho of late more honored by self styled liberals in the breach than the observance.

"It is now a commonplace," said Justice Jackson, in the majority opinion, "that censorship or suppression of opinion is tolerated by our Constitution only when the expression presents a clear and present danger of action of a kind the state is empowered to prevent and punish."

"To talk about 'clear and present danger' as the touchstone of allowable educational policy by the state whenever school curricula may impinge upon the boundaries of individual conscience," retorted Frankfurter, "is to take a felicitous phrase out of the context of the particular situation where it arose and for which it was adapted. Mr. Justice Holmes used the phrase 'clear and present danger' in a case involving mere speech as a means by which alone to accomplish sedition in time of war."

SEIZURE OF GAS COUPONS RAISES LEGAL QUESTION

OPA Director Declines to Rule on Issue.

Whether the Fond du Lac, Wis., rationing board had a legal right Saturday to revoke the gasoline rations of Illinois motorists in summary hearings was a question that office of price administration officials in Chicago would not answer definitely last night.

Fond du Lac policemen, directed by OPA agents, stopped more than 50 automobiles with Illinois licenses and the drivers were hustled before the local board to prove their right to gas ration coupons in their possession. The board revoked the gas rations of Charles Mulliken of Chicago for "the duration," and of R. W. Heilman, Waukegan, and C. B. McKinney, Winnetka, for six months each. Coupons were confiscated from four other motorists from the Chicago area.

In Doubt on Revocations.

Raymond S. McKeough, regional OPA director, said last night he did not know whether gas rations can be revoked by a board that is not the home board of a motorist.

"It is a legal question, and I would rather not answer it," he said.

Rudy L. Ruggles, acting regional OPA attorney, gave a hedged opinion the Fond du Lac board was acting within its jurisdiction.

"The jurisdiction varies from circumstance to circumstance," he said. "We are interested in seeing that gasoline is used only for purposes for which the coupons were issued, and in some cases boards do have jurisdiction over persons who do not live in their districts. In the absence of circumstances to the contrary, I assume they were within their jurisdiction."

Tells of Washington Order.

Don T. Allen, of Milwaukee, OPA district director who ordered the Fond du Lac seizures, said the board there had a right to hold hearings. He said the affair had been directed by Washington as a one day test.

McKeough said he had not ordered the Wisconsin "test," conducted in his region.

The motorists were stopped in Fond du Lac Saturday between noon and 4 p. m. at Main and 4th streets. Residents of the town remarked that few if any cars from states other than Illinois were stopped. Motorists were asked to show their gas ration books, and in some of them were found loose coupons, which were confiscated.

Late in the afternoon, when traffic in Illinois cars had fallen off, it was rumored that somebody was stationed at the south end of town warning the drivers to detour around the Main and 4th intersection.

PRISON ESCAPE ARTIST TELLS HOW IT'S DONE

Georgia Convict Seized by Chicago Police.

Robert Proszkowicz, 20 years old, who is a hard man to keep in jail, sat in a Racine avenue police station cell yesterday, relating to detectives the details of his three escapes, two from the Georgia state penitentiary at Reidsville. He is the last of 25 convicts who broke out of the prison April 15 to be captured.

Robert Proszkowicz.

Detectives Ralph Miller and Dwight Webb arrested Proszkowicz Saturday night in front of 1101 North Ashland avenue. They also arrested Chester Zanoza, 23, of 1455 Chestnut street, for investigation. The detectives said they believed Zanoza had been harboring Proszkowicz, but Zanoza denied this later.

First Escape Near Macon.

Proszkowicz, who said he had no home, told the detectives that he and three other men, Stanley Jozielec, Bruno Mika and Frank Kappe stole a car in Chicago and drove to Georgia, where they committed several burglaries. They were arrested in Jacksonville, Fla., and were being returned to Georgia when they made their first escape near Macon.

They were arrested again when their car crashed after an 80 mile an hour chase, and were sentenced to 10 to 15 years each in the Reidsville prison.

Placed in Solitary.

Proszkowicz said he had served 9 months in the prison when he and five other convicts obtained a key to a "side door." On a night when a moving picture was being shown, they "walked out," he said, but were captured 16 hours later.

Proszkowicz was placed in solitary confinement, where there were also nine other convicts, all in separate cells. He said that a "man with a wooden leg" smuggled a quantity of graphite and steel cable to him. It was passed along to the other nine convicts.

All of them sawed thru the iron bars of their cells, replaced the bars with soap and scraped green paint off the cell walls to cover the soap so that the severed bars would not be noticed by guards. On April 15, they pushed the bars out, escaped from their cells and waylaid a guard, seizing his keys.

Mika was captured on a freight train in Georgia. Jozielec was arrested by police here May 13, and is fighting extradition to Georgia.

MOST INCLUSIVE WAR DISPLAY IN WORLD IS READY

men complete vision. The periscope eye pieces are covered with inch thick sponge rubber. No matter how sudden the stop, no driver will bang his head against these. Incidentally, the seats also have soft sponge cushion seats and backs.

Little details are what the ordnance department specializes in. The fuse cap of a 37 mm. shell is smaller than a tennis ball, or a tomato, yet it has 16 parts, many of them so small they must be handled with tweezers. Yet, so accurately must these 16 pieces be built that the army ordnance department uses 139 gauges to check them—all to fire a shell. If any gauge shows a deflection from standards, the part is rejected. The completed fuse, the 16 parts and the 139 gauges are all on exhibit in the Tribune lobby.

Big Tank Only "Putts."

As the ordnance exhibits were being completed, army pranksters handed preview visitors a laugh.

"The M-4 tank motor must make a loud roar," a visitor said.

The army men agreed.

"Just how loud?" the visitor asked.

There were the proper clanks of gears shifting and cranks turning. Blue smoke shot out of the exhaust. And from the 30 ton monster came a weak "putt, putt, putt."

"Sounds like an outboard motor on my rowboat," the visitor said.

"That's just what it is," the army man said as his head popped up. "We use that one cylinder motor to charge our batteries when the big motor isn't running. The batteries operate the gun turret."

Use Plane Engine.

When the big airplane type motor which drives the tank was started —the army man had to insert a two foot long crank and wind a spring, which starts the motor—the visitors put their fingers in their ears and backed off. It's as powerful as it is loud. Bury it in mud three feet deep and it will pull itself out, altho its crew may have to put on the tank's "grousers"—the tank equivalent of chains or overshoes.

How high will an anti-aircraft gun reach? What makes a bomb explode? How is a shell casing made? How big are the tires that carry a 96,000 pound gun, the biggest ever put on rubber? And where does the army get its compressed air for such tires?

Could a man carry a 16 inch shell? How can a jeep run across land and then swim across a lake? Is the army ready for chemical warfare if the Nazis or Japs start it? What's the weight of that Thompson submachine gun your husband or son or brother or sweetheart wrote that he carried thru the Guadalcanal jungle? And what chance did he have against a Jap with a .20 caliber gun?

25 Men to Answer Queries.

Twenty-five ordnance officers and men, who were assigned to the Chicago exhibit from the Aberdeen, Md., proving grounds and from the Savanna, Ill., ordnance depot will answer those and any other of the hundreds of questions you will want to ask, and will ask, when you visit the show.

Accustomed to use their hands instead of their tongues, they were doing a little "boning" over the textbooks themselves.

Some answers will be illustrated. Take the question on what makes a bomb explode.

To answer it, the ordnance department has prepared an electric board which shows that there is not one explosion in a bomb, but four, one setting off another.

Bomb Actions Vary.

Smaller bombs, like explosive shells, do damage by spreading bits of the burst ragged bomb casing over a wide area. On the other hand, the 4,000 pound block buster has a relatively thin skin—about ⅜ths of an inch, just enough to hold the explosive charge and bring a clean explosion. Its damage is in the concussion. "Sufficient to kill a man standing in the open a mile away," one ordnance man said.

Some of the tasks the ordnance men have been doing in the last few days have been new to them.

An example is the sergeant cleaning the M-7 tank killer.

"Shucks, in war who's going to care if she looks pretty," he said. "Matter of fact, she'd probably be so loaded down with tents and cans and packs and spades and stuff you couldn't tell what she was."

Then he gave the tank killer the final swipe. Its sides had the sheen of a thorobred.

"But she's going to meet her public now," the sergeant ended, "and she's ready."

This loom, and thousands like it, is more important today than ever.

They used to spin fine fabrics for your MISS SWANK SLIPS. But now they loom larger in the war plans of our country. For they produce cloth for the sinews of war, for the equipment of fighting men.

This leaves considerably fewer looms to spin the rayon for the MISS SWANK SLIPS you love so much for their "anti-wriggle" Straight-Plus-Bias construction.

So, if you can't get the MISS SWANK SLIP you want, remember the loom that's working for war. And try your store again the next week.

CHICAGO EVANSTON OAK PARK GARY

ORDNANCE SHOW SPACE LIMITED; PLAN YOUR TRIP

Loop Workers Urged to See It at Lunch Hour.

Admission to the Chicago Tribune army ordnance show is free. Every one in Chicago and all visitors to the city are invited.

To see the show with least inconvenience a few things are to be kept in mind.

The capacity of the show is limited. Not every one can see the show today, the opening day. However, the exhibition will be open for one month, and there will be ample opportunity for all who wish to see it.

Should Plan Visits.

Loop workers and others nearby should try to see the show in their lunch hours. Housewives and children should come in the morning and afternoon, thus giving the evening and week-end crowds more chance to attend.

Go to Nathan Hale court, between the tower and W-G-N studio. Here the route thru the show stars.

The course to be followed from the court:

Tribune public service office in Tribune tower, opening off the court, and the hall of inscriptions [lower lobby].

Leave the tower by the south door, walk west to Michigan avenue, then south a few feet to the special stairway leading to the Lydy parking lot just north of the river, and enter a big blue show tent.

Enter Parking Lot.

Leave the tent and walk to the triangular Tribune parking lot between the tent and Tribune tower.

From the parking lot another stairway leads back to the upper level of Michigan avenue, where the tour ends.

A first aid tent has been erected to the rear of the main display tent.

Parking will be prohibited on North Water street between St. Clair street and Michigan avenue and will be restricted on Hubbard street. One parking lot adjoins the show tent to the west. Numerous other lots are available off Michigan avenue, both east and west.

COMPLETE EXHIBIT LIST

A diagrammatical drawing on the back page of today's Tribune shows the route to be taken by the spectators as they pass thru the four sections of the exhibition, and also the location of each exhibit. The exhibits, as they are indicated in numbers in the drawing, are:

Nathan Hale Court.

1—A 90 mm. anti-aircraft gun. It weighs about 10 tons, is towed upon four pneumatic-tired wheels, and its barrel has a maximum elevation of 80 degrees. It is said to be effective against planes flying at an altitude of 30,000 feet. Weapons of this type are operated by automatic direction finders in batteries of four. The German 88 mm. shell, which is about the same diameter as the projectile of this gun, weighs 20 pounds.

2—A 40 mm. anti-aircraft gun, the projectile of which roughly is a two pounder. This weapon is of the rapid fire type, handling ammunition in clips of five. Its barrel can be elevated to a full 90 degrees. It is effective against planes at a height of approximately 6,000 feet, and it is towed on four rubber-tired wheels.

3—An M-5 director, employed for the automatic aiming of 40 mm. anti-aircraft guns. This apparatus is wired to one of the guns nearby, and will be shown training the weapon at various times.

4—Another 40 mm. anti-aircraft gun.

In Tribune Tower.

5—A display of several standard machine guns and parts.

6—A 20 mm. aircraft cannon and various small arms, including machine guns, automatic and semi-automatic rifles, and pistols. The aircraft cannon is the American version of the Hispana-Suiza. It is 101½ inches long, weighs 115 pounds without its magazine, is provided with a one inch gas operated recoil, and fires at the rate of about 600 rounds a minute.

7—Enemy equipment. This display includes various small arms and other equipment captured from enemy troops.

8—Conversion engineering display panels. These show by the means of various comparative objects how the army ordnance department, thru scientific methods, has economized in critical metals, labor, and time, without sacrifice of quality.

9—Conversion engineering dioramas, which illustrate by three dimensional colored pictures how the ordnance department is cutting corners to produce superior equipment at the minimum expense of materials and man hours.

10—A display of inspection gauges used in ordnance manufacture. Included in this is a so-called electric multi-check gauge, which measures the outside dimensions of shells at nine different points and gives the results by means of colored lights.

11—An automatic screw machine that makes 20 mm. shell fuse caps from brass rods at the rate of 20 a minute. This will be in operation at frequent intervals thruout the life of the exhibition.

12—Aircraft motor of the radial air-cooled type. It is a 14 cylinder, 1,200 horsepower motor, such as used in Flying Fortresses, and is partly cut away to reveal its mechanism. Separate parts of the motor also are to be on display.

13—Ammunition components. This exhibit includes small cartridges, small and medium sized shells, fuse caps, cases, and numerous other components of ammunition.

Also in Tribune Tower will be seen detached exhibits, such as a 60 mm. mortar, practice bombs, and similar objects.

In the Tent.

14—A .50 caliber air-cooled machine gun. This weapon fires a bullet of approximately 700 grains at the rate of from 400 to 600 rounds a minute. Machine guns of .50 caliber are made for use against ground targets, for anti-aircraft fire, and as arms for planes. Some are air-cooled, others water-cooled. Their mounts vary with the use to which they are to be put.

15—A 4,000 pound aerial bomb, commonly called a "block buster" because of its great destructive power. Bombs of this size are the largest made for the American army.

16—A 16-inch shell of the type used in coastal defense guns. The projectile weighs about 2,200 pounds and has a range of well over 20 miles. It is similar to the shells used in 16-inch naval guns, which are the largest weapons of America's mightiest battleships.

18—An M-4 medium tank [General Sherman]. It weighs approximately 30 tons, is made with a cast steel body and a cast steel revolving turret, and is armed with a 75 mm. high velocity gun, a .50 caliber machine gun, mounted for anti-aircraft or horizontal fire; and two .30 caliber machine guns. The vehicle is operated by a crew of five. M-4 tanks proved to be the best allied tanks used in Tunisia.

19—A high powered 9 cylinder radial tank engine of the airplane type. Motors of this kind are used in the M-4 medium tanks.

20—An M-7 self-propelled gun carrier, commonly called a tank destroyer. Weighing 23 tons, this vehicle, which is mounted on an M-3 tank chassis, is armed with a 105 mm. howitzer and a .50 caliber air-cooled machine gun, mounted for anti-aircraft fire. The treads of the vehicle are of rubber. The platform on which the machine gun is mounted is suggestive of a pulpit, which has caused the vehicle to be called "the priest."

21—A machine gun trainer. It is a compressed air gun, which fires small plastic pellets to the accompaniment, from a loud speaker, of simulated battle noises. There is an automatic electrically operated recoil, which adds to the realism. The trainer will be in operation during the exhibition.

22—An anti-aircraft trainer target. This is the target at which the pellets from the machine gun trainer will be fired.

23—An M-5 light tank [the Honey]. Vehicles of this type are the scouts of the armored divisions. The weight is 16 tons; the armament one 37 mm. gun and two .30 caliber machine guns. A crew of four operates the M-5 light tank.

24—Ammunition display, including bombs, shells, and panels that show what happens when a charge is fired in a gun barrel and what happens within a projectile when the explosion takes place.

25—A two-man tank of World War I. This weighs six tons, and was originally armed with a machine gun or a 37 mm. gun. Its narrow track and thin armor contrast sharply with the track and armor plate of present day tanks.

26—A bomb bay section of a B-26 Martin Marauder, twin-engined medium bombing plane.

27—A 37 mm. anti-tank gun. It weighs 950 pounds and can be towed by any army vehicle, including a jeep. It also can be man-handled in the field for short distances by its crew. Its shell weighs approximately two pounds.

29—A marine tractor. It is operated on the principle of an outboard motor, being attached to a barge or other water craft to move it about. The propeller and rudder can be elevated or lowered to conform to the depth at which the barge or other craft rides in the water.

30—An amphibian jeep, which travels both on land and on water. It consists of a steel boat body mounted on the chassis of a jeep. On land it moves on four powered wheels; on the water it is driven by a screw propeller. It is provided with a spray hood, anchor, boat hooks, a power winch, and life preserver cushions.

In the Triangular Space.

32—A 105 mm. field howitzer, mounted on two wheels. Its projectile weighs about 33 pounds and its range is about seven miles. This weapon has largely replaced the 75 mm. field piece. In fighting the Japanese on Attu Island 105 mm. howitzers were highly effective.

33—A 155 mm. gun, the largest weapon that can be classed as field artillery. It weighs about 16 tons, and its barrel is 25 feet long. It is towed by a heavy personnel carrier in which its crew is transported. The gun fires a shell weighing 96 pounds. The maximum range is more than 20 miles.

34—An M-3 half-track personnel carrier. The half-track makes it possible for this vehicle to negotiate rough terrain.

35—A one and a half ton 6 x 6 truck. The designation "6 x 6" means that the truck has six wheels, all of which are powered.

36—An 8 inch mobile rifle. Weighing 48 tons, with its two trailers, this is the largest single exhibit of the show. The barrel of the weapon is transported on one trailer, while the carriage is transported on another. For firing, the weapon is taken from the trailers and mounted and anchored to the ground.

37—The 8 inch rifle trailer which carries the carriage or mount.

Aurora Residents to See War Equipment Today

MEATLESS DAY IS NOW CUSTOM AT MOST HOTELS

Most hotels in Chicago have one meatless day, usually Friday, every week to conserve their supply of ration points, the Greater Chicago Hotel association reported yesterday.

The ration allowance of meat, cheese, butter, and edible fats for hotels is .93 of a point per person, a reduction of 60 to 75 per cent from the usual serving last December, it was said. Three strips of bacon were said to require one point.

Every day is a meatless day to hotels somewhere in the country, the American Hotel association reported. Tuesdays and Fridays are the most popular days for the fish and macaroni dishes.

STATES URGED TO LEAD POST WAR RECOVERY

4 Governors Tell Views on Roundtable.

State governments must insist upon the restoration of the rights taken from them by the federal government and keep the responsibility for health, welfare, education, and employment, Gov. J. Melville Broughton of North Carolina said yesterday on the University of Chicago radio roundtable.

Gov. Broughton.

Gov. Broughton spoke from Columbus, O., where the national governors' conference will be held this week, with Governors John W. Bricker of Ohio, Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, and Herbert R. O'Conor of Maryland. All agreed that state governments must take the leadership in restoring civilian economy to normal after the war.

Plan Ahead, Bricker Urges.

Gov. Bricker said that with the federal government certain to have a huge war debt, the states and other local governments will be in a much better financial position after the war. "But all states and cities should put their financial houses in order now," he declared.

"There may be federal public works projects after the war, but they must be coördinated with state projects and not superimposed on the states as during the last depression," the Ohio governor said. "There must be no leaf raking or boondoggling projects, but we should look to lasting works like rebuilding roads and constructing airports," he added.

Gov. Saltonstall said the states' function should be stimulating private industry by passing sound tax laws, helping industrial concerns plan for new products and markets, and surveying employment prospects. "We may need state and federal public works for a while during the transition period, but we must look to private enterprise for a sound and basic economy," he said.

Local control of public works is more economical and efficient, said Gov. O'Conor in calling for close coöperation of state governments to avoid economic chaos after the war. State public works should be planned merely to implement private industry in providing full employment, he said, adding that employment is the ultimate responsibility of private enterprise.

In his remarks, Gov. Broughton agreed with Gov. Saltonstall that state governments should coöperate with private industry in solving unemployment problems after the war, but warned against their taking any action that would hamper privately owned endeavors, including agriculture and retailers.

"State governments should not sit back and let the federal government do the post-war jobs," declared the North Carolinan. He said in the past too many governors had run to Washington when they faced a shortage of state funds for public works.

Comment on Talks.

Following the broadcast from Columbus, Professors Louis Wirth and Neil H. Jacoby of the University of Chicago commented on the remarks of the governors.

Prof. Wirth declared that "states rights were a myth" in the field of health, education, and general welfare of the people and that the federal government should establish minimums all states should meet, giving grants in aid to the "poor" states.

Prof. Jacoby said that the federal government threatens the freedom of individual citizens to buy what they need and want and to work at what they choose. He opposed federal planning which would dictate to private enterprise.

'44 POSSIBILITIES MEET, BUT WON'T TALK POLITICS

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., June 20.—Presidential politics is taboo at the 35th national governors' conference here, but it is popping up in hotel corridor gossip. Governors from 36 states and executive representatives from three others are on the arrival list for a three day meeting. Themes of most speeches are on the prosecution of the war, problems of post-war reconstruction, and readaptation to peace time pursuits after the war.

Gov. Saltonstall.

Politics has been frowned on officially. Harrison Spangler, Republican national chairman, canceled his plan to attend to meet the Republican governors. Gov. John A. Bricker of Ohio, the host this year, held that Spangler's visit might impair the nonpartisan spirit of the conference, in which there are both Republicans and Democrats.

'44 Possibilities on Hand.

Some Republican possibilities for Presidential nomination are at the gathering, chief of them being Gov. Bricker and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York. Neither is an avowed candidate, and Dewey has said he will finish his term as governor, but both are regarded by the politicians as men to be reckoned with in the nominating convention.

Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Gov. Earl Warren of California, also possibilities but more of the dark horse type, are here.

State rights and a return to the old established forms of government are one thing on which some emphasis is expected to be placed. On the program, 21 governors are scheduled to speak, 11 of them Republicans, 10 Democrats. The program for tomorrow includes speeches by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Paul V. McNutt, war man power administrator; Chester Davis, war food administrator, and Prentiss M. Brown, head of the price administration office.

Tomorrow night at a state dinner, chief speaker is to be Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff. Another speaker will be Joseph E. Davies, who took a message from the White House to Premier Josef Stalin of Russia and brought back the reply.

Dewey Certain of '44 Policy.

Columbus, O., June 20 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, talking with reporters today, expressed the conviction that the Republican party will formulate a "constructive" post-war collaboration policy for the 1944 campaign that will give no comfort to the "isolationists."

He denounced the Roosevelt administration's anti-inflation policies as "unspeakably bad" and said unless its food policy is changed radically it will be difficult for the United States to feed America properly and to feed conquered peoples once they are freed.

He expressed deep interest in "home front" problems and said that unless food policies were changed and their administration turned over to one man people will go hungry "just as we are now."

"You can't build a peace when people are mad with hunger," Dewey declared. "The whole policy of scarcity was not abandoned until January of this year."

The domestic job during the war has been bad "and there is no sign of it getting better," Dewey continued. "It has been bad for 10 years."

FACTS FROM THE PROUD BACKGROUND OF RACING

WHEN GEORGE WASHINGTON JUDGED HIMSELF THE LOSER

In Colonial Virginia the proudest families looked to horse racing for their main diversion. And neighbor George Washington frequently served as judge of the races.

That's how he came to rule against himself. Washington was judging a race at Alexandria around 1790 when his favorite, Magnolia, was defeated by Thomas Jefferson's horse, Roan Colt.

The history of horse racing in America is rich in colorful incidents of this sort.

They are as much a part of the racing tradition as first families are a part of the racing scene.

It is natural that Chicago shares the nation's pride in this tradition of American racing. Arlington has enriched racing's background by providing famous races, and has pioneered with many of the regulations that safeguard the high standards of sportsmanship. Arlington has helped the sport of kings to become the pleasure of millions.

RUSSIANS CLAIM 276 NAZI PLANES IN WEEK'S RAIDS

New Blows Northwest of Orel Revealed.

LONDON, June 21 [Monday] (AP). —A strong force of Russian bombers blasted parked German planes, hangars, and stores at Bryansk and Karachev behind the pivotal Orel front Saturday night to round out a week which cost the Germans more than 276 planes, Moscow announced today.

Russian plane losses for the week were 94, said the midnight communique recorded by the soviet monitor. The destruction of the 276 German planes in the same period boosted the toll of enemy aircraft to 3,595 in seven weeks, on the basis of Moscow announcements.

New Russ Air Blows.

A special communique told of the powerful new soviet air blows northwest of Orel, and also said that an attempt by 50 German planes to raid Volkhov, southeast of Leningrad, on Saturday night was repulsed, the Germans losing 15 planes compared to two soviet aircraft. The Russians acknowledged damage to a rail line at Volkhov.

Heavy caliber bombs were showered on Bryansk and Karachev by the Russian airmen engaging in those raids, and the announcement said all the raiders returned safely. In this sector at the hinge of the central and southern fronts both sides have been massing men and materials for expected large scale summer field operations.

Bomb bursts were observed among parked enemy aircraft, and many fires broke out amid hangars and stores, accompanied by numerous explosions.

The midnight bulletin did not report any signficant land action yesterday, only scattered artillery duels and reconnaissance stabs at various points across Russia from Leningrad to Rostov. The middle sector at Orel was not mentioned.

Beat Off One Attack.

A noon communique yesterday, however, said a company of attacking Germans had been repulsed in the Sumy area, 90 miles northwest of Kharkov. This disclosed that the Russians still hold a deep salient pointed toward the Bryansk-Kiev railway.

Kursk, midway between German-held Orel and Kharkov, apparently is the Russian feeder point for this salient, which is about 70 miles deep and 90 miles wide.

This salient is valuable for the Russians should the Red army begin a new push in the Orel sector to the northeast—a development which the Germans have been predicting for several weeks.

Several hundred Germans were reported killed during Sunday's fighting, but the major action in Russia still was in the air.

In addition to the raids on German rear bases, the Russians announced that their airmen had sunk a German transport and set fire to an oil tanker and two enemy transports in the Barents sea.

600 Die in Explosion on Yacht Once Carol's

ANKARA, Turkey, June 20 (AP).—Six hundred persons, including many Rumanian and German officers, died in the explosion of the former Rumanian royal yacht Carol II. last week, a traveler who has just arrived from Rumania said today.

DE GAULLE PLANS TO QUIT ALGIERS IF GIRAUD WINS

Aids Hint Climax in Today's Session.

ALGIERS, Algeria, June 20 (AP).—Political intimates of Gen. Charles de Gaulle declared today the Fighting French leader was prepared to leave Algiers for Beirut or Brazzaville if his military reform program failed to win adoption by the French committee of national liberation in the discussions beginning tomorrow.

De Gaullists expressed concern over a possibility that Gen. Henri Giraud, with unexpected support, might continue the status quo in French military affairs.

They argued De Gaulle was the only valid link between the third republic and attempts to establish a unified French overseas régime because he is the only member of the committee who was in the republic's last government. He was undersecretary of state for war when Paul Reynaud's cabinet was displaced by Marshal Petain.

The new threat of De Gaulle's withdrawal followed by 10 days his first "strike" when he refused to attend sessions of the original seven members of the French committee and demanded a committee of 14 members.

Report Formula Acceptable.

A formula for the division of military authority between De Gaulle and Giraud had been generally reported acceptable by both factions.

But De Gaullists said they feared that the plan, if put into effect, would have so many limitations that De Gaulle would be limited in attempts to rejuvenate the army by ousting overage officers and others who once were loyal to Vichy.

De Gaulle will attend the committee meeting tomorrow morning, his close adherents said. The military reorganization is the first item on the committee's agenda. Gen. Georges Catroux visited De Gaulle today and Jean Monnet also was known to have seen him in the rôle of mediator.

Meeting Is a Climax.

Relations between De Gaulle and Giraud have had one crisis after another and the impending showdown on military authority appears to be the climax. If the leaders reach a final agreement, the United States and Great Britain are prepared to recognize the temporary French government.

DE VALERA RULE ISSUE IN IRISH VOTE TOMORROW

Cosgrave Coalition Runs Behind in Betting.

DUBLIN, Ireland, June 20 (AP).—Irish voters will decide Tuesday in their first war time election whether to continue Prime Minister Eamon De Valera in control of the Irish government he has headed since 1932 or substitute a coalition rule, advocated by William T. Cosgrave.

Eamon De Valera.

Preëlection betting favors the prime minister, who was born in New York. The campaign has been vigorous, altho it has failed to stir the Irish as elections usually do. The loss of nine seats by De Valera's Fianna Fail party would swing control to the combined opposition.

Changes Hit Both Sides.

In 1938, the Fianna Fail won 77 seats in the dail eireann and Cosgrave's Fine Gael party captured 45 places. Labor won nine, and seven Independents were elected.

Deaths and some changes in allegiance make the present lineup this: Fianna Fail 72, Fine Gael 40, Labor 3, Independents 8.

The popular vote in 1938 was: Fianna Fail, 667,732; Fine Gael, 428,615; Labor, 128,945, and Independents, 60,693.

About 1,800,000 voters are eligible to pass on the records of 355 candidates for dail seats, which are allotted in proportion to the number of votes cast for each group.

The largest increase in candidates was made by the Labor party, led by William Norton, which has been encouraged by recent successes in local elections. Labor has put up 75 names, sufficient to control the dail if all are elected. In 1938, only 30 Labor candidates were elected.

Agreed on Neutrality.

All parties are agreed that Ireland should continue neutral. James M. Dillon, young Independent dail member, is the only candidate advocating intervention in the war beside the allies.

De Valera and Cosgrave both stumped the country extensively during the last two weeks. The prime minister stressed strongly his desire to continue "safety first" policies. The opposition leader insisted that the nation should have a national government for the duration. De Valera has said he would not join such a government should the Fianna Fail lose control.

Pastor Collects 1901 Pay for Services in Hot Place

Dallas, Tex., June 20 (AP).—In July, 1901, the Rev. Claude Hile, now a Dallas minister, quit as a Texas and Pacific railroad fireman without drawing his pay. Yesterday he walked into the company's offices and said: "I think we both kind of forgot the money you owed me." An hour later a $14.25 check was ready.

REPORT MANY SLOT MACHINES FLOURISH IN NORTH OF COUNTY

Slot machines were reported to be operating in the open again last night in taverns and roadhouses in the north and northwestern portions of the county. One report reaching First Assistant State's Atty. Wilbert F. Crowley said that "there were dozens of machines in operation along Skokie boulevard. Waukegan road is littered with them."

Three weeks ago State's Atty. Thomas J. Courtney sent out police who seized 130 slot machines. Sheriff Peter B. Carey seized 50 of the type sent to county taverns by Edward Vogel and Jack Guzik of the gambling syndicate and said he would continue the drive against slot machines.

Then the sheriff became ill, and it was believed that Vogel and Guzik were taking advantage of his illness to step up the income of their syndicate, reported to be in need of funds to finance the defense of the gang's bosses under indictment in New York for extortion from moving picture executives.

SEIZE EX-FELON FREED ON WRIT FROM JOLIET

Virgil Bourland, about 36 years old, an ex-convict who won freedom from Joliet penitentiary on a writ of habeas corpus June 11, was arrested by Detective Marshall Pidgeon and a squad yesterday when he applied at a postoffice general delivery window for mail. Pidgeon said that a penitentiary capias, committing Bourland for burglary, had been drawn against him at the time he was freed on the habeas writ by Judge James V. Bartley in Circuit court at Joliet. Judge Bartley freed Bourland and two other convicts when they showed that their prison terms had expired before they were returned to prison as parole violators. All were under 1 to 10 year sentences for larceny. Bourland, who said he lived at a hotel at 826 South Wabash avenue, said the prison capias was a "mistake."

Expect Turkey to Name Ministers to Dominions

ANKARA, Turkey, June 18 (AP). — [Delayed.] — Turkey soon will strengthen her diplomatic ties with the allied nations by appointing ministers to Canada, Australia, and the Union of South Africa and also will replace her ambassador to Vichy, an informed diplomatic source said today. Formal announcement of the creation of the new posts in the British empire is expected within a few days.

PVT. KELLEY FITS CRIB AS ARMY'S BABY GOES AWOL

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, June 20.—Without benefit of the promised real baby, Columbia club, newest and largest Red Cross unit here, put on a special program honoring soldier fathers today. There was a crib ready in case the unidentified sergeant who phoned earlier in the week showed up with the baby.

The crib's only occupant, however, was a G. I. who won the booby prize for the service man who looked as tho he must have been a beautiful baby. He was Pvt. Robert I. Kelley, marine, of Detroit, who was asked if he had been a beautiful baby.

"Hell, no!" Kelley roared.

Main event was a baby photograph contest which ended in a three way tie. In the runoff, first prize went to Arnold Thomas Bratcher Jr., son of Sergt. Bratcher of San Fernando, Cal., who has never seen his 7 months old youngster. Second prize went to 2 year old William Kurt Schonert of Rockford, Ill., whose dad could not attend, while 8 months old Virginia Anne Straussner of New York took third prize.

NEGRO SEIZED AMID THREATS OF 200 IN LOOP

While a crowd of 200 persons milled and threatened at Clark and Washington streets yesterday, police arrested Lee Revis, 48 years old, Negro, 228 North California avenue, after he had bitten the finger of Frank Laske, 32, of 4868 North Ashland avenue, motorman of a Clark street car. Cries of "lynch him!" were heard, and a sailor struck the Negro during the mêlée.

Laske told police that Revis boarded his car near Wrigley field where police learned he had attended a Negro baseball game. Laske said Revis insulted passengers and caused trouble. Finally, Laske related, he attempted to put Revis off the car at Clark and Washington streets and the Negro attacked him, tearing his shirt and dragging him off the street car.

Police rushed Revis to the central station at 11th and State streets as the crowd gathered. Laske was treated in St. Luke's hospital.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, June 20 (AP).—Lieut. Gen. Bernard C. Freyberg, whose New Zealanders were in the van of the troops that outflanked the Mareth line and aided in the final defeat of axis forces in Tunisia, has returned here for consultations with the government.

U. S. BOMBERS RAID JAP BASES AT NAURU, KAHILI, AND BALLALE

AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, June 20 (AP).—Liberator bombers raided Kahili, Japanese air base on Bougainville island, Friday night, South Pacific naval headquarters reported today.

Billy Mitchell medium bombers also raided Ballale, starting fires on that island base in the Shortland group. Other Mitchells strafed six barges in Wilson strait. Navy Catalinas and Liberators attacked Japanese positions on Nauru island. Large oil fires were started and a considerable amount of damage was caused in the dispersal area and among the living quarters.

IDENTIFY BODY OF BOY, 15, WHO FELL OFF TRUCK

The body of a boy which had lain unclaimed in a chapel at 1735 Wabansia avenue since last Friday was identified last night by his parents as that of Arthur Larson Jr., 15 years old, 2544 Cortland street. Nearly 100 persons viewed the body yesterday before Shakespeare avenue police brought the parents to the chapel.

The youth was killed when he fell from the tail gate of a truck in front of 1800 North Ashland avenue. He was carrying a sandwich in his pocket and wore blue overalls and a white shirt. Coroner's physicians said he died of a skull fracture evidently suffered when he struck the pavement.

The parents appeared at the Shakespeare avenue police station last night to report their son missing, and Lt. John Rochford, who took a description from them, remarked the similarity to that of the dead boy. The parents said that the boy had been working on a delivery truck to earn money for clothes so he could get employment on a farm this summer.

SUFFERS MINOR BULLET WOUNDS IN TAVERN FIGHT

Joseph Yocius, 27 years old, 5907 Emerald avenue, a screw machine operator, was shot in the arm and chest yesterday but not seriously wounded in a tavern at 812 West 59th street.

Lt. Michael J. Cleary of Englewood police said that Miss Frances Ryan, proprietor of the tavern, identified Robert Nugent, 45, of 6101 Green street, as the man who fired at Yocius, who had been knocked to the floor during a fight. Nugent had entered the tavern with a companion, John Sullivan, 46, a laborer, she said.

Yocius told police that he and a friend, William Payette of 5813 Emerald avenue, saw the two men in an argument with Miss Ryan and that one of them struck her. Yocius and Payette then stepped into the fight, he said. Lt. Cleary said Sullivan had been arrested a few hours before when he had been involved in an accident while driving Miss Ryan's automobile. Nugent, he said, operates a tavern at 6145 South Halsted street.

War travel gets first choice... that's why we have to say "no" to old friends sometimes

If you're not always able to get your favorite space on your favorite Milwaukee Road train, it's because wartime demands on the railroads are so heavy. When all the lowers are gone, it's because they've been assigned to travelers who bought their tickets before you—or because members of the armed forces or vital production groups are on the move.

If you have to sleep in an upper, or ride in a crowded coach, it's due to conditions beyond our control. We're doing everything we can to supply everyone who travels on our railroad with satisfactory service. However, there is a shortage of passenger cars and, at present, priorities do not permit us to obtain material for new equipment.

If you're delayed en route, remember troop trains have to be high-balled through and special freight trains have to speed war materiel to places where most urgently needed. War traffic has right of way and occasionally disrupts advertised schedules.

The Milwaukee Road appreciates your patience and your recognition of the difficulty and importance of our job. When you ride with us, you'll find us, as ever, anxious to make your trip comfortable and pleasant.

★ Victory Travel Code ★
1 Don't travel unnecessarily. 2 Travel in mid-week. 3 Cancel reservations promptly if plans are changed. 4 Choose the slower, less crowded trains. 5 Travel by coach rather than by Pullman. 6 Carry a minimum of luggage. 7 Don't take a "traveling around" vacation—make it a one-trip affair.

PILOT ROAMS 16 DAYS AFTER HE CRASHES IN SEA

Wisconsinite Is Aided by Solomon Natives.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, June 4 [By Air Mail].—A navy fighter plane pilot who parachuted into the sea off the mid-Solomon islands after a collision with another fighter told today of fighting stormy seas in a rubber raft and living on crabs, mussels, and fern leaves. Negro islanders befriended him during the 16 days it took him to get back to Guadalcanal.

He is Lt. [j. g.] William R. Maxwell of Wausau, Wis., member of a Grumman Wildcat squadron based on Guadalcanal. On May 2 the squadron was high over the Japanese air base at Munda, New Georgia, as a covering force for bombers when Maxwell's plane collided with one flown by Lt. Comdr. Raymond W. Vogel.

The tail of Maxwell's plane was cut off by the propeller of the other ship, and he jumped immediately. Inflating his one-man raft upon hitting the water, Maxwell climbed in. While he was bandaging wounds on his chin and right leg six Wildcats roared in low over the raft, then turned back for Guadalcanal. He was alone, within easy range of Jap aircraft or ships.

Bails Raft All Night.

"Soon after the planes left storm clouds rolled over me and the sea roughened," Maxwell said. "Just before sunset it began to rain and blow. I was still weak and a little scared. All night it rained. Between the rain and the high seas I was forced to bail all the time, but even then there was always at least three inches of water in the raft.

"For the next 48 hours I rowed toward a small island south of New Georgia. It was Tetipari. Once a fish struck at my hand. Later I lost one, then the second of my little oars.

"On the night of May 4 I got close in to shore, paddling with my hands. I tried to go thru the surf, but it must have been 50 feet high. It turned me upside down, then threw me onto the coral, cutting my hands badly."

Recovering his raft, Maxwell slept on the beach that night. The next morning he decided to cross the island in order to get to Rendova, another island west of Tetipari. The crossing, made with the raft lashed on his back, took four days.

Maxwell sighted Rendova across a narrow channel on May 10. The next day he fashioned a pair of oars from driftwood, and on May 13 he set out for Rendova in the raft. The trip took about five hours, and again upon landing the raft was upset and Maxwell was tossed into the surf.

"I was under water for about 45 seconds," he explained. "When I came up gasping I heard someone shouting. Then I saw two natives in a canoe 50 yards offshore."

Natives Give Help.

The natives took Maxwell to the south shore of the island. There he was given water and taro [a native food concocted from roots].

The next day the natives took Maxwell to a village nearby, where he was given more taro and pineapple, and a hut in which to sleep.

"After eating I talked with the chief's son," Maxwell said. "He was a mission school graduate, much interested in America. He had a small map of our country, so I showed him where my home was. Later he brought in another chief—I don't remember his name, only that he was a Seventh Day Adventist. We talked for hours."

On May 15 the islanders took Maxwell to another island. On May 18 a Catalina flying boat, flying under a screen made up of eight of Maxwell's squadron in their fighters, landed and picked him up. Within an hour he was back on Guadalcanal.

Success in Asia

Chinese gains located.

CHUNGKING, China, June 20 (AP).—The capture of four strategic points along the Kutu river north of Tungting lake and south of Shasi in the continued rebound of Chinese forces in the battle of the upper Yangtze was announced by the high command today.

Changtiensu, Tienchengwang, Huiliuwang and Chaokhuyuan, across the Yangtze from Shasi, were taken Saturday, and Japanese remnants were wiped out, the communique said.

At the same time an outbreak of new fighting in the Canton area of Kwangtung province in the south was announced. The communique said one Japanese column several thousand strong was being engaged in severe fighting as it attempted to advance from Canton. A second column striking northeast of Canton was driven back after losing more than 100 dead.

JEWELER STRUCK BY STREET CAR IN LOOP IS DEAD

Howard Molyneaux, 48 years old, a jeweler living at 700 Willow street, died in Henrotin hospital last night of injuries suffered when he was struck by a street car at Dearborn and Madison streets.

William J. Crosson of 735 South Kedzie avenue, motorman of the car, and Howard Dewalt, president of a Pittsburgh, Pa., hardware firm, who was standing near by, told police that Molyneaux jumped in front of the car. Hundreds of persons watched as firemen and policemen jacked up the street car to remove Molyneaux.

BOMBERS BLAST HUGE SCHNEIDER ARMS FACTORY

British Lose One Plane in French Raid.

LONDON, June 20 (AP).—Heavy British bombers struck another "concentrated and effective" blow at Hitler's war potential last night when they roared more than half way across France to rain two and four ton blockbuster bombs on the huge Schneider armament works at Le Creusot, 170 miles southeast of Paris, it was announced today.

[A dispatch from Berne, Switzerland, said that an air raid alarm was sounded there early Monday, indicating that the R. A. F. may be crossing the Alps for another attack on northern Italy. Alerts also were sounded at Zurich and Basel]

The air ministry reported that visibility over the sprawling 750 acre iron and steel works was good and that the bombers, which made a round trip of at least 700 miles, wrought maximum destruction on the plant, which has been pouring heavy guns, armor plate, and locomotives into the German war machine.

The Le Creusot plant of Schneider & Co., more than a square mile in area, is the largest arms factory in France and is comparable to the great Krupp works at Essen in its value to the Germans. It is the largest and most important of all the plants of the Schneider cartel.

Chicagoan on Raid.

Flyers returning from the raid reported that bright moonlight and flares added greatly to the effectiveness of the bombing. Almost no night fighters were encountered, they said, and anti-aircraft fire was light.

The lone American on the raid, Sergt. J. Moulesong of Chicago, a member of the R. A. F., said he saw two bombs go thru the roof of a large shed. Moulesong is the rear gunner of a Halifax.

"We arrived right at the beginning of the attack," he recounted. "Lots of other bombs were going down as we turned for home and, looking back three minutes after the attack started, I saw great clouds of white smoke coming up from the plant."

Other flyers reported numerous explosions among vital buildings, where even before the war 10,000 armament workers were employed. The air ministry said the Nazis were known to have been busily repairing damage done in the Oct. 17 raid on the works.

Attack French Air Field.

Boston bombers escorted by Spitfires attacked the air field at Poix this afternoon. An enemy aircraft was destroyed. Earlier Typhoons and Spitfires attacked and damaged enemy shipping off the Dutch coast. Four British fighters were reported missing.

Three were reported missing from last night's attack. Two Nazi fighters were destroyed.

While the main body of the raiding force concentrated over Le Creusot, the air ministry said others swung off to bomb an electrical transformer station at Mount Chanin, about five miles from the Schneider plant. This station supplies most of the Schneider works' power.

The Vichy radio reported Le Creusot was "heavily attacked" and that "important damage to buildings and casualties were reported." A Paris broadcast said 40 were known to have been killed in the blasting and "many more are buried under the ruins."

Both Berlin and Vichy declared, without confirmation from allied quarters, that American bombers also participated in the attack.

48 JAP PLANES RAID DARWIN; 22 LOST, DAMAGED

6 Bombers Crash; 3 Fall in Flames.

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, June 21 [Monday]—(AP).—Spitfire fighters destroyed nine Japanese planes and damaged 13 more which raided Darwin, Australia, the noon communique reported today.

The Spitfire interception was described as the most successful to date in that area. Six bombers and three fighters were seen to crash. Twenty-eight bombers participated in the raid, escorted by 20 fighters.

Allies Lose 2 Planes.

"Our fighters successfully intercepted the attack in force near Cape Gambier, destroying or damaging a total of 22 enemy planes," the communique said. "Of these, nine, comprising six bombers and three fighters, were definitely seen to crash; three, comprising two bombers and one fighter, were falling in flames; ten, comprising eight bombers and two fighters, were losing altitude and smoking after being shot out of combat.

"Two of our planes are missing. Damage and casualties on the ground were minor."

Four engined allied planes struck heavily again at enemy airdromes at Rabaul, New Britain, dropping 31 tons of bombs. The night attack was directed against Vunakanau, Rapopo and Keravat airdromes. The latter is a new one. The bombs fell in the dispersal areas and many fires were started at each airfield and "heavy destruction to parked aircraft was indicated," the communique said.

"At Vunakanau, the entire dispersal lane south of the runway was left in flames visible 50 miles away," the communique added. "Heavy anti-aircraft fire was encountered. Enemy night fighters were ineffective. All our planes returned."

Allied attack planes, with fighter escort, bombed and strafed the airdrome at Lae, New Guinea, destroying an enemy fighter caught on the ground and starting fires near the runway.

STORY OF LAST FIGHT ON ATTU; VILLAGE TAKEN

BY WILLIAM L. WORDEN.

ATTU VILLAGE, Attu, May 31 [Delayed] (AP).—The battle of Attu ended today with the capture of Attu village, last remaining Japanese occupied sector of the island.

All organized opposition ceased last night as American patrols moved to the foot of the Chichagof corridor and into the ruins of the old Aleut village. The remainder of the American front line reached the village today.

A few Japanese parties, believed to number only some dozens of men, remained unaccounted for. They were being hunted down by United States patrols.

At its end, the battle was an anticlimax. No important Japanese opposition was in evidence after the failure of an attack by about 50 men on an advanced American position in Chichagof corridor yesterday and the subsequent suicide of survivors.

Few Dead in Village.

Altho the valleys leading to Attu village, particularly Chichagof corridor, were strewn with Japanese dead, and other hundreds lay where they fought to the last in fox holes on the snowy slopes above the village, few dead were found in the village itself.

The Japanese in this area were not entirely out of ammunition when they died. Many bodies were found loaded with full clips for rifles and machine guns—but here in the village, there was almost nothing. The men who attacked our lines carried with them literally the Japs' last desperate hopes—and the last of both the rice and ammunition.

I have learned that these men were given an order to attack and keep on attacking for as long and as far as they might. They apparently had no orders about what to do in case the attack was stopped.

American Major Killed.

The first dead man I saw in the battle area yesterday was an American major with whom I had lunch the day before. He was a pleasant, soft spoken man, who laughed about how brave he had been on maneuvers in California, how frightened he had been at the sound of the first Japanese sniper's bullet on Attu. He lay where he had been crawling toward a Jap snipers' fox hole; his gun was still in his hand.

Ahead of him there were half a dozen Japs, most of them in fox holes, some lying where they had fallen and rolled down the slick slopes. Some few toward the top of the ridge were bent forward in the position I learned to recognize as typical before the day was over. These men, seeing defeat was only a question of time, had made the last dramatic gesture—they had pulled the pins on their own hand grenades, tapped them sharply against the steel of their helmets, then clutched them in both hands and held them close against their chests or just under their chins. The result was fast, but not pretty.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

E. M. P. writes: "I'm 26 years of age, married, no children. For the past seven years I have been employed as manager of one of the branches of a firm engaged in packing and shipping [wholesale] of oysters and sea food products. My draft board has me classified 1-A, but I contend that our industry is essential and I am entitled to deferment. The board insists I have to be in the producing end and not on the distributing end. Are they right?"

ANSWER: Your activity is covered in activity and occupation bulletin No. 6 [food processing] which lists fish and sea foods as among those whose production and processing is considered essential. Among the essential occupations listed for this field, which may be considered for deferment, are managers, superintendents, etc., who are actively engaged in supervising, directly or thru subordinates, various operating departments of a food processing establishment, or supervisors who are directly responsible to such managers, superintendents, etc., for the efficient functioning of such departments. However, nonoperating personnel concerned with distribution, clerical, legal, tax, and other nonproduction phases of such occupation can not be considered for deferment.

E. J. D. writes: "I named my wife beneficiary and my children contingent beneficiaries of my national service life insurance. Now she is sueing for divorce by consent. Will she still receive insurance benefits, or will the children receive it?"

ANSWER: As soon as your wife is divorced, she ceases to be in the class of eligible beneficiaries, but your children, having been named contingent beneficiaries, will receive all the proceeds if anything happens to you.

H. E. B. writes: "I have been retired to inactive status in the officers' reserve corps due to a permanent disability acquired in line of duty in the south Pacific. I have had 24 years of service in the reserve and when the board retired me, they ruled my total and permanent disability was incurred in line of duty. Am I entitled to retirement pay? If so, to whom should I apply?"

ANSWER: You should have received full instructions with your orders of retirement. Send a certified or photostatic copy of your orders to the Finance Officer, United States Army, Washington, D. C., or go to the nearest army headquarters and let the finance officer or adjutant take care of the matter for you.

11 'DOG MARINES' FREE 15 HUMANS FOR COMBAT JOB

[The following story written by Sergt. John F. Reilly, New Hampton, Ia., marine combat correspondent, was distributed by the Associated Press.]

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC [Delayed.]—(AP).—War dogs used to guard the shores of this outpost have proven their efficiency, and in some cases their natural instincts have shown them to be able to detect unusual things before human beings sensed anything out of the ordinary.

Trainers of the war dogs assert a well trained dog in many instances does a better job of guarding than a human sentry.

Dogs Free Marines.

Platoon Sergt. Willard Layton, Chulla Vista, Cal., dog trainer here, says war dogs may well be called dog marines that free marines to fight.

Racine likes to tell about the time that P-40, a chunky German shepherd, turned out the dog keepers and marine guards by barking loudly and incessantly. The dog was found gazing intently out to sea, but the humans could neither see nor hear anything unusual, so they tried to silence P-40. The dog, in spite of reproof, kept barking.

An hour later the dog's insistence on giving the alarm was justified when a Japanese fish float, used by the Japs to support their nets, washed ashore. The cheap, green glass float blended so well with the ocean it was imperceptible to human eyes, but P-40 in some manner had spotted it long before it washed up on land.

Trained to Attack.

The trainers and keepers, always taking an intense and personal interest in the dogs, reward meritorious acts such as P-40's by declaring an advancement in dog rank ratings for the war dog. But P-40 lost his chance for advancement by killing a sergeant major's cat before his promotion was approved.

The dogs are all trained not to allow friendship to interfere with duty. I petted a beauty, named Lorrie, one day as Pvt. Racine transferred her from one guard post to another. Next day I went back alone to pet Lorrie, but the dog lunged, broke her chain, and charged toward me. I

Second Lt. Ernest H. Moor, Lakewood, N. J., supervisor of the dogs, heard Lorrie snarling. He yelled the signal for "cease attack," and Lorrie, looking very pleased with herself, trotted over to him.

Second Lt. Moor told me that had I moved, Lorrie would have grabbed me, and warned "You shouldn't have tried to pet her. If you leave her alone, she'll leave you alone."

IRRESISTIBLE FORCE...

This is a war weapon the world has never seen before, the massive composite of American war production, 1943 model. It includes fast merchant ships, completed from keel laying to loading in a matter of days . . . armored planes winging away from assembly plants by thousands and tens of thousands . . . more trucks and tanks and guns and shells "made in America" than all the output of the savage races arrayed against our Free World.

To deliver to the reading public industry's important message about its great service to the war effort, leading producers in our "arsenal of democracy" place more Industrial Advertising in The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin than in any other newspaper in America.

THE EVENING BULLETIN CARRIES 35% MORE INDUSTRIAL ADVERTISING* THAN ANY OTHER NEWSPAPER (MORNING, EVENING OR SUNDAY) IN THIS COUNTRY.

And with good reason . . . The Evening Bulletin has the largest evening newspaper circulation in America. It is read by four out of five people in Philadelphia. It reaches top-flight executives and wage earners alike in one of America's biggest and busiest Work Centers! It is the leader of all Philadelphia daily papers in 66 advertising classifications, including total advertising. It has been the No. 1 newspaper of Philadelphians for 38 consecutive years.

PHOTOS PROVE OUR GUN POWER BEST—F. D.'S SON

Elliott Tells of Work as Head of Unit in Africa.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, June 20 (AP).—Col. Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son and commander of allied aerial photography service in North Africa, said today: "The allies stand head and shoulders above the Germans in heavy bombardment and we have the pictures to prove it." He spoke to a group of 300 American soldiers at a forum for those on furlough.

"I came into the army as a radio expert and wound up as a photographer," he said. "I had never fired a machine gun in my life so they put me, first thing, to testing power turret guns."

Still Doesn't Like Africa.

Soldiers nodded sympathetically as Roosevelt asked: "Remember that sheet we used to fill out giving our preferences for overseas service? I put Hawaii first, the Philippines second and the West Indies third," he said, "so I found myself in Newfoundland. Just when I got to like the cold countries, they sent me to Africa. And I still don't like Africa.

The photo reconnaissance pilot is "not a glamor pilot," Roosevelt said. "He doesn't shoot down enemy aircraft. His ability is judged by his luck in keeping out of the enemy's way and bringing home the pictures that were asked for."

The colonel described the exploit of Pilot Capt. George Humbrecht of St. Louis, Mo., that won the distinguished flying cross recently.

Finds Self Among Enemy.

"He was coming back from a mission with pictures when he let down in an overcast and found himself among 31 Messerschmitt-109s and seven Focke Wulf-190s which were on the way to bomb his home field," Roosevelt said.

"The Germans jettisoned their bombs and attacked Humbrecht but he managed to keep away from them for 10 minutes while calling the field for fighters to come up and help. Finally two Germans made passes at him from each side and filled his ship with 10 cannon shells. Humbrecht landed sideways with a dead stick."

JAP THREATENS CLUB CHEF WITH GUN; ARRESTED

A 19 year old Japanese who had been released from the Rohwer relocation camp in Arkansas to take a job as a waiter at the Idlewild Country club near Flossmoor, was arrested by county highway police yesterday after he had threatened a chef at the club with a pistol.

The Jap, who gave his name as Emerson Kodani, was charged with assault with a deadly weapon. The complaint was made by Paul Yeamabe, also a Japanese, who said Kodani menaced him with the pistol after he had fired the waiter.

Kodani denied he had a pistol when County Policemen Eddie Foley and George O'Rourke called at the club to investigate the matter. A search of the Jap's room disclosed a .32 caliber pistol, which Yeamabe identified as the gun Kodani had in his hand at the time of the alleged assault. Kodani then told the officers he had purchased the pistol from a Negro in Chicago.

FOUR ROB TAVERN.
Four armed robbers robbed Al Mariotti in his tavern at 2552 South Western avenue, and his chef, Mrs. Marie Apel, 2523 South Claremont avenue, early yesterday, and took $141, cigarets and cigars valued at $50, his watch worth $40, and $50 from Mrs. Apel's purse.

BERWYN SOLDIER DIES IN CRASH OF BOMBER; CHICAGOAN IS INJURED

Rapid City, S. D., June 20 (AP).—Seven men, including one from Berwyn, Ill., were killed and four, including one from Chicago, were injured when a four engined army bomber crashed near the runway of the Great Falls, Mont., air base Saturday, Maj. Ellis E. Eno, commander of the Rapid City army air base, announced today.

Lt. J. H. Ulrich.

The ship was on a routine training flight from the Rapid City base at the time, Maj. Eno said. A board of officers has been appointed to investigate.

Among the dead were Sergt. William G. Norlag, Berwyn, and Sergt. George N. Scanzoni, Livingston, Ill., while among the injured was 2d Lt. John H. Ulrich, Chicago.

Iowa Man Killed.

EXPECT ALLIED BLOWS THRUOUT MEDITERRANEAN

Dardanelles Is Called Key to Victory.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 21 [Monday].—News from all sides of the Mediterranean sea point to the same thing—an imminent allied follow-up to the British and American victory in North Africa and the capture of Pantelleria and the other islands off Sardinia, Sicily, and the Italian mainland. The nature of the operations has not been revealed, but significance is attached to the statement of the Russian minister to Australia that the zero hour is near for coördinated offensives by the soviet with combined allied sea, air, and land forces in the Mediterranean.

Military experts are suggesting that the Dardanelles in this war will be "the key to victory." Thru these straits, it is emphasized, aid can be sent directly to Russia now that the Mediterranean is open to allied shipping and British and American forces can link up with the Russian military power in an all-out assault on the axis and its allies.

Report Reds at Gibraltar.

That such an operation is not unanticipated by the axis is made clear by the fact that newspapers here are giving space to Paris broadcasts that 16 members of the Russian general staff are now at Gibraltar where the Germans also report a new concentration of allied shipping including some 60 merchantmen, tankers, and transports.

The Daily Express this morning published an interview its correspondent, Charles Foley, at Ankara had with the Turkish premier, Sukru Saracoglu, who was praised for having signed the treaty of alliance with Britain. He quoted the Turkish prime minister as saying he "counts on continued coöperation with the allies."

Continue Assaults on Italy.

Meanwhile, the political and air war are continuing with unabated intensity against Italy. Italy has denied reports she is willing to discuss peace terms and has sent envoys to Algeria. Rome reports the wholesale evacuation of southern Italy.

BOMBS BLAST 2 ITALIAN PORTS AT TOE OF BOOT

Syracuse, Sicily, Is Also Hit by R. A. F. Planes.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, June 20 (AP).—Docks and other supply apparatus on both sides of the strategic Messina strait, separating Sicily and the toe of the Italian boot, were blown to bits in new allied aerial assaults yesterday.

Events across the Mediterranean indicated that the Fascist régime was girding itself for desperate resistance to allied offensive operations. Southern Italy, Sicily, and Sardinia appeared heavily garrisoned by troops and air forces of Italy and Germany.

Allied bombers from the middle east command and the northwest African air force hammered this ring with relentless power. A Cairo communique announced that Liberators threw nearly 250,000 pounds of high explosive and incendiary bombs on the harbors and supply installations of Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni, east of Messina strait, while an allied headquarters communique said R. A. F. Wellingtons shook the port area of Syracuse, on the Sicilian side, with two-ton blockbusters in a moonlight attack.

Harbor Is Plastered.

"At Reggio Calabria the southeast section of the harbor was plastered, the bombs causing a considerable amount of smoke, altho clouds partly obscured the area," said the Cairo communique.

Malta's naval planes attacked motor torpedo boats and ships off Sicily's east coast and raided railway targets in Italy.

Supporting Berlin and Rome radio broadcasts for the first time in a mention of a heavy flow of allied convoys in the Mediterranean, the Italian communique today spoke of "intensified enemy shipping on the North African route" and said Italian torpedo planes were making repeated stabs at the allied movements.

A ship of 10,000 tons was sunk and two others totaling 17,000 tons were damaged off Bone, Algeria, the Italian communique said, and axis bombers were said to have attacked the harbors of Bizerte and Pantelleria "with striking results." The Italian claims were not confirmed by allied quarters.

Fight Off Six Bombers.

Allied headquarters reports said American Spitfires and Warhawks patrolling above Pantelleria drove off and scattered axis raiding forces. Six Italian Macchi fighter-bombers, escorted by eight German Focke-Wulf 190 and Messerschmitt 109 fighters, were forced to dump their explosives in the sea and take flight for Sicily.

The Wellingtons on the night before concentrated their attack on the built-up area west of the canal and north of the harbor station at Syracuse. The moonlight enabled the bombardiers to draw a good bead on their targets and a huge fire was started.

The Cairo communique said hits were seen near the railway station and on railroad sidings at Reggio Calabria, but the dense smoke shut off further observation. Other bombs were seen to fall near a ship in the straits. The ferry terminal area and railway sidings at San Giovanni also were heavily hit.

Headquarters of Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle's strategic air force announced credit for a victory by Staff Sergt. Lawrence Brouillette, Galesburg, Ill., who shot down a Macchi-202.

Allied quarters denied rumors that Italian envoys were in Algiers or elsewhere in North Africa to sue for a separate peace.

CANADIAN UNION VOTES AGAINST GENERAL STRIKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., June 20.—Threats of a general strike in Ontario failed to materialize yesterday when more than 500 Canadian Congress of Labor trade unionists decided instead to appoint a committee to coördinate efforts to secure labor's objectives. The phrase "general strike" was used often at the meeting but delegates heeded advice of Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the C. C. of L. who warned: "A general strike is what Howe, munitions minister, wants so he can put the clamps on labor." A general strike at this time would be "suicidal," Conroy said.

Report Agreement in Chile-Bolivia Wrangle

LA PAZ, Bolivia, June 20 (AP).—The newspaper La Razon said last night it had learned from an authorized source that Chile and Bolivia had reached an accord in principle after direct negotiations over Bolivia's efforts to obtain a seaport.

[The question of a Pacific outlet for land locked Bolivia has been a sore point between Bolivia and Chile for almost 60 years, and resulted in the long standing dispute over the Tacna Arica territory.]

Train Bound for Chicago Sidewiped in Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 20 (AP).—Traffic on the main line of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad was interrupted for 10 hours early today when a Chicago bound Baltimore and Ohio passenger train and a freight sidewiped in the southern part of Pittsburgh. None of the 650 passengers on the B. & O. train was injured, but both sections of the Diesel engine and the baggage car were derailed. Five freight cars were knocked from the track.

How much should a loan cost?

Personal Loans

THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE are paying two and three times more than they have to . . . simply because THEY DON'T KNOW THE FACTS ABOUT LOAN COSTS!

SEE HOW MUCH YOU CAN SAVE

Amount of Loan	$100	$200	$300
	Total Costs
A typical loan plan	20.84	39.52	57.12
At Merchandise Bank	5.50	11.00	16.50
YOU SAVE	$15.34	$28.52	$40.62

*Savings shown apply to co-maker loans repaid in 12 monthly instalments. If on your signature alone, savings are somewhat less, but in any case are at least half the cost of the typical loan plan.

Don't make the mistake of thinking an interest rate of 3% per month gives you a cost of $3 per year for a $100 loan. Figure it out yourself this quick, easy way.

Take as an example, a $100 loan to be repaid in 12 monthly instalments of $10.07 each (a typical loan plan). In 12 months you pay back $120.84. But you borrowed only $100. Therefore, the difference—$20.84—is the cost of your loan.

BANK RATES LESS COSTLY

On your signature only, the cost is only $8.00 at Merchandise Bank—a savings of $12.84. With one co-maker, the cost is still less—only $5.50. By either plan you save nearly enough to make two monthly payments . . . and the payments are less.

You don't have to take time off your job to apply for a loan here. Complete arrangements made by phone or mail.

Call Whitehall 4500—or if convenient come in personally—weekdays until 4 p.m. or Saturday until noon.

OUR EARLY ESCAPES FROM EUROPEAN INTRIGUE.

A mission to the new American republic could have held out few attractions to the European diplomat assigned to it unless his curiosity was intelligent and his taste for the society of exceptional men discriminating. Even when Philadelphia was the seat of a government regarded by Europe as problematical and capital of a union considered ephemeral, only second rate men were sent as ministers and they were loath. When for the established comforts of Philadelphia the mud of Washington was substituted credentials to the government of the United States must have been a blow to the pride and a trial to the flesh.

These second rate men, nevertheless, found exceptional opportunities of which they took advantage. We can explain what happened in those days better than we can give satisfactory accounting of influences and consequences continuing in our own day. The colonial status had been only recently shaken off when representatives of the old world first came to conduct relations with a new country which a few years before had been subject to decisions reached abroad and policies decided there.

The new country in shaking itself down and adjusting itself to the bonds of union was riven by violent partisanships, divided by conflicting interests, by geographical and economic barriers, and was far from agreement on basic political principles. Mr. Merry, the British minister, was a gentleman more likely to be concerned by President Jefferson's pele mele system of going into dinner than by greater affairs of state, but even he must have opened his eyes when he was approached by Federalist New Englanders proposing, with his government's assistance, to withdraw from the Union and form an alliance with Great Britain, and also by the former Vice President, Mr. Burr, suggesting that for a half million dollars the western territories could be separated from the east.

Mr. Merry's government had entertained hopes that the American adventure in independence would prove disappointing if not calamitous. The unruly offspring might find good reason for reattachment. To persuade the western people in the territories that their government could not protect them the British had incited the Indians to attack the frontiers, forcibly retaining posts in American territory for that purpose. Mr. Merry's dispatches to his government were cheerful.

These Americans had a doctrine which was strange then and hasn't yet lost all its novelty. They had a theory asserted as a truth that governments were not sovereign. The people were. The government was a servant. Citizen Genet, the French Republican emissary, accepted the doctrine quite literally and appealed to the people against the government to oppose England and fight Spain. Fauchet, Genet's successor, established different relations with the government and was able to report to Paris that Edmund Randolph, attorney general and then secretary of state, had made certain "precious confessions." Unfortunately for Randolph a British ship took the dispatches on a prize and forwarded them to Hammond, the British minister in Philadelphia, for use, first, if possible, to make the secretary favor the Jay treaty which he opposed or, failing in that, to ruin him by giving the messages to President Washington, which was done. Randolph, confronted, resigned.

Casa Yrujo, the Spanish minister, progressed further in one direction than any other foreign agent in the young United States. He had the commander of the American army on his pay roll, Gen. James Wilkinson. It wasn't much of an army and he was less a general, a Falstaffian creature of bombast, timidity, cupidity, and duplicity. "Wilkinson is entirely devoted to us," the Spanish minister wrote his government. "He enjoys a considerable pension from the king." He was hired to protect Spanish interests in Louisiana while the Spaniards incited the Creeks to raid Georgia. Something of a miracle was needed to bring the young republic out of its pin feathers. One of the miracle workers was Napoleon.

"Damn sugar, damn coffee, damn colonies," said Napoleon and turned away from yellow fever, the San Domingo blacks, the graves of Leclerc's army, and from Louisiana. "On the sea, mon cher," he said to his brother, Lucien, "you know well enough that we must lower the flag, we and all other continental nations. America may one day, I do not say." America wanted the Mississippi and New Orleans. Americans were the only challenge to British sea power. Give them Louisiana—for 60,000,000 francs. "This accession of territory," said the First Consul, "affirms forever the power of the United States, and I have just given England a maritime rival that sooner or later will lay low her pride."

The First Consul did not overesteem the power he was bestowing on the very much disturbed young republic exposed as it had been to European intrigue, but he was not just or wise in his long term view of the adroitness of British diplomacy. He did not foresee an American air force in India, an American commander in chief in Australia, or American sea power converging in the direction of Singapore.

AN OFFER.

THE TRIBUNE is able to speak with more authority on the newsprint situation than many other newspapers because for 30 years it has been making the paper on which it is printed. The mill of the Quebec and North Shore Paper company at Baie Comeau, Que., which makes paper for our sister newspaper, the New York News, is the most modern in the world. At the parent mill of the Ontario Paper company, at Thorold, Ont., were originated many of the modern improvements in newsprint manufacture.

The threatened paper shortage arises wholly from a shortage of the raw material—pulpwood. The Tribune's mills make a ton of paper with 15 per cent less pulpwood than is required for the same purpose by less efficient mills. In addition, our papermakers know how to save another 5 per cent by reducing the weight of the paper sheet. All that is required to accomplish this saving is that the treasury department revise its regulations, which at present set a minimum weight for newsprint admitted duty free to the United States. Lightening the paper sheet and the institution of our economies in those plants that do not avail themselves of them now would obviate any possibility of a newsprint shortage.

Paper manufacturing is, of course, normally a competitive business, but in these days of stress we will be glad to share our methods with the whole industry. Our advantages, it may be noted, are not based to any large extent upon patents, but principally on the superior know how of the men who manage Tribune mills. The services of our organization are freely offered in the present emergency to any one in the newsprint industry who wants to learn how to make paper more economically.

THE COAL CRISIS.

Coal miners started walking out of the pits on Friday night the moment they got the news that the war labor board had rejected the portal to portal formula by which it was sought to disguise a wage increase. There is every reason to fear that the work stoppage will be general by today, when the truce declared two weeks ago by John L. Lewis will have expired.

This cessation of coal mining, which if continued will paralyze our whole industrial system, is intolerable. Public feeling in the matter has reached the stage where the most repressive measures will be widely approved, even tho they may ignore and override such merits as the miners' case possesses.

The suspicion will not down that this is exactly the situation toward which President Roosevelt and his war labor board have been working. The pronouncement of the labor board on portal to portal pay has the flavor of injured pride that has characterized the board's actions since Mr. Lewis first flouted its authority.

Every one with the interests of the nation at heart must agree with what the board says about the necessity of preventing inflation, and about the injury that the miners themselves will suffer if inflation increases. Yet these sentiments could be applauded more freely if the board itself had adhered to them more closely in dealing with those labor leaders who are not bitter political foes of the President.

We do not understand what the board meant when it said that the portal to portal issue is a matter for a lawsuit, and we are quite sure that the miners do not understand it. True, the board did not say directly that the subject should be excluded from collective bargaining, but the suggestion that it be taken to the courts certainly implies this. The miners undoubtedly feel that pay and working conditions form the very heartwood of collective bargaining, and in this, of course, they are right. The suggestion of a lawsuit smells of pettifogging.

Perhaps there will be a last minute settlement within the industry, and perhaps the President and the labor board will not sabotage it. Otherwise only one road seems open and that is by no means a clear one. It is an appeal to the patriotism of the miners. It must be made to them as a group, thru Mr. Lewis and not over his head, for there is little doubt that they accept his leadership. Some one must say to them and him something of this sort:

"We know that you miners believe you have a just case and that you are being treated unjustly. We will not even argue its merits with you, but we ask you to swallow your sense of injustice and stay at work. We know that this is a great deal to ask. We cannot even promise that you will be better treated in the future, altho we will do our best to see that you are. This is your country and many thousands of your own sons are fighting for it. We ask you to accept in a spirit of patriotism the privations you say you will suffer."

The problem is, who is to say it? President Roosevelt should, but he has disqualified himself by his partisanship, as have all of his subordinates. It will be difficult for the leaders of congress to say it, for the New Dealers among them are tainted by their connections with the administration and many of the others have antagonized organized labor by voting for the anti-strike bill. Nevertheless, congress is the representative of the people of the nation, and it should speak for them. The coal strife must be ended.

CALIFORNIA KLUXERS.

Marcia Winn of THE TRIBUNE reports the existence about Los Angeles of a Native Son counterpart of the Ku Klux Klan, pledged to the task of preventing the return of any Japanese, including the native born, to that region after the war. This we can well believe, because it is in the tradition of California history.

Since the abolition of the African slave trade in 1808, no part of the country has had as vicious a record as California for importing alien labor and then abusing it because it fulfilled too well the purpose for which it was imported—that of undercutting the wages of native labor. The successive waves of Chinese, Japs, Filipinos, and Hindus were followed in time by the Mexicans, who were brought into the southern and nuttier half of the state to suffer mistreatment that had a great deal to do with the recent disorders in Los Angeles.

Denis Kearney and his sand lotters had direct spiritual and political descendants in the deputy sheriffs who, during the depression, tried to deny the Okies their rights as citizens to participate in the delights of the Pacific paradise. Ku Kluxism thus comes naturally to the narrower minds of Los Angeles.

After the war we shall have to do one of two things with the Japanese in this country. We can either amend the Constitution to permit statutory expression of racial intolerance and ship every person of Japanese blood to Japan, or we can give them the protection of the Bill of Rights. As we won't do the first, we must do the second. The citizens concerned will undoubtedly want to return to California, and the rest of the country will see to it that they are allowed to do so. It is the Native Sons' problem. They brought them here and they can live with them and like it.

We suggest that Charlie Chaplin and the rest of the fellow travelers in the movie colony stage a pageant in the Hollywood bowl in honor of the four freedoms as applied, not in Europe or Africa or Asia—but in Los Angeles.

An American flyer who was lost 218 days was teaching the English alphabet to natives when found, and had he been given a few days more he likely would have had a chamber of commerce functioning.—Indianapolis News.

NAMES FOR FIGHTING SHIPS.

After meeting two naval flyers off the famous carrier Enterprise, we decided to learn how that ship got its name. A few looks in the books informed us that the ship Stephen Decatur commanded in his exploits against the corsairs of Tripoli was the Enterprise. Thus the carrier that leads the others in battle honors sails under the glamor of Decatur's toast, "My country, right or wrong," and the marine corps' song, "From the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli."

* * *

A new aircraft carrier is named the Charger, but since the archives of the navy department are not in this column's filing case, we are temporarily baffled. The earlier Charger [there must have been such a ship unless the navy has changed its system] is not indexed in the Encyclopedia Britannica or John Fiske's "American Revolution."

* * *

The British navy seems to be unsystematic in its ships' names, except within classes, but thru the centuries it has achieved distinguished results. It has been strong on admirals whose names are associated with great victories, but the baptismal range has been wide and romantic.

* * *

To illustrate, let us call the roll of British capital ships at the battle of Jutland:

* * *

Note that there are seven names out of classical learning on this list of big ships. But among the light cruisers and other small fry of the British navy in World War I., Greek and Roman mythology seemed to be in command. . . . Yes, indeed, they even had a Pegasus.

YANK IN AUBURNTOWN.

(Tennessee.)

The hills are high in Auburntown,
O, they are thrust up to kiss the sky!
And the cornfields are tilted, and the oat fields are tilted,
Like a quilted patchwork pattern hung up high.

The men are lean in Auburntown, they are lean
And keen of eye. They look at you straight, and stay
The plow, and say, "Howdy, neighbor!"
(They can drive a plow like a bright silver sword Deep in the flanks of the steep red hills.)

There are plain white stones in Auburntown,
Where hushed green hollows hold the hallowed dead.
And the very ground is steeped in the lore
Of fighting men for miles around.
(Remember Jackson, white-haired scrapper?
Old Hickory sleeps not far from Auburntown.)

Today soldiers swarm over Auburntown,
The armies are playing at war.
Once the armies did not play,
Once they locked here, the Blue and the Gray.
(Who remembers the fated day
When Murfreesboro fell?)

How red are the roses in Auburntown!
And how they cling to the old stone walls,
And how they grace the lowliest place,
And how they are laced over each cottage door

And now, how still are the scented nights,
How still, with the throaty laughter gone
From the big red hills of Auburntown!

Mrs. Pollyanna and the Weather.

"Good morning, Mrs. Pollyanna. Isn't this a beautiful June day?"

"Ach, June! It's either too hot or too cool. I don't like it."

"But July is a nice month."

"Ach, July! Hot and dry. All we do is sprinkle."

"But what about August?"

"Ach, August! Everything drying up and turning yellow."

"But surely September——"

"Ach, September! Either too hot, raining, or too cold."

"But what about crisp October?"

"Ach, October! All life is fading from the earth."

"But November——"

"Ach, November! The most mournful of all. Dark and gloomy."

"But December as a winter month——"

"Ach, December! Snow, slush, ice."

"January?" "No."—"February?" "No."—"March?" "No."—"April?" "No."—"May?" "No."

"But June—O, yes, I guess we covered June. So long, Mrs. Pollyanna." W. L. Hudson.

PRELUDES.

The first strains of a symphony but yield
A whisper of the great, full-throated theme,
The introduction to a book reveals
A slender fragment of the author's dream,
The early birdsong bugles in the dawn
And tight-rolled buds are harbingers of Spring.
Is this that we call life a prelude, too,
To loveliness beyond imagining?

Mary V. Farnum.

An emergency confronted the one and only town florist. An unexpected "rush" order came for a bride's corsage bouquet, after all the suitable cut flowers had been made up to fill several funeral orders. What to do? "Well," soliloquized the resourceful soul, "I will take just one flower from each of my funeral pieces. The bride will be made happy and the sorrowing families will be none the wiser." So ended the emergency.

GOOD TEETH AND THAT MILLION DOLLAR SMILE.

TEETH are vital tools. Moreover, they are features which can make or mar beauty. The smile which displays a row of even, healthy ivories is a personality asset. On the contrary, a mouth filled with irregular, misshapen, discolored, or diseased structures may occasion much mental suffering. Furthermore, early decay may be invited.

The first to appear are the central lower incisors, which announce themselves between the 6th and 8th months. Within two months, the adjacent incisors [lateral] are cut. The first molars may be expected between the 12th and 16th, the cuspids between the 16th and 20th, and the second molars between the 20th and 30th months. These are all temporary. They are called "deciduous" because they drop like leaves from a tree after they have served their purpose.

As a rule, the pioneer of the permanent set is the upper first molar, which emerges between the 6th and 7th years. In the lower jaw during the same interval, the central incisors will show thru. A month later, the lateral incisors make their debut, succeeded by the central incisors of the upper jaw.

The lower jaw frequently is blessed with slightly more activity. The cuspids come between the 10th and 11th year, the first bicuspids between the 10th and 12th, the second bicuspids between the 11th and 12th, and the second molars a year later. The wisdom teeth may break forth anywhere between the 17th and 30th years. In the upper jaw, the first bicuspid may be looked for between the 10th and 11th, the cuspids [also called canine or eye] and bicuspids usually between the 11th and 12th years.

Now, these are general averages and the actual time is variable, depending upon nutrition and sex. Girls progress more rapidly than boys and the taller the child, the sooner the dental apparatus will form. Heredity likewise enters the picture. While food is a primary governing element, we must recall that teeth are living parts altho they cannot repair themselves.

Illness may be responsible for certain malformations. In this connection, we must think of every type of upset which can disturb digestion or alter the normal constituents of the blood.

Teeth must occlude or meet properly. If they are out of line, chewing will be interfered with. The dentist can apply regulating devices which will train the individual teeth to adhere to the pattern that nature intended.

Irregularities may be accentuated by pressure, such as sleeping on the face or with the hand beneath the jaw. With some, the habit of biting the lower lip or the inside of the cheeks may be responsible. Well known authorities include thumb-sucking, while others believe that this is not an important factor.

As we can understand, the early loss of the temporary set may disable the oncoming [permanent] members to withstand quite too much pressure. Teeth require room and when crowded will take the line of least resistance.

The rôle of the orthodontist or expert straightener then becomes significant from the standpoint of personality and of normal jaw function. We cannot dispute the dictum that thoro mastication means good digestion and robust health.

MISNOMER.

S. W. writes: Do liver spots mean that the liver is diseased?

REPLY.

No. Discolorations on the skin—yellow to brown—will appear in many conditions wholly unrelated to liver disease. Freckles from sunlight is an example. Pressure, friction, tuberculosis, or indigestion may be factors.

CANCER AND X-RAY.

REPLY.

In many cases, yes—for example, growths within the bowel, the lungs, etc.

Inflammation or irritation within the bladder.

CURE-ALL!

Coatsburg, Ill., June 17.—Remember the medicine show that dispensed the Old Indian remedy at the town hall in years gone by? Good for hangnails, rickets, lumbago, fallen arches, etc.? The New Dealers have a cure-all, too; the bottle being labeled "subsidy payments" and being refilled indefinitely from John Taxpayer's pockets.

First the prices were in the basement. Remedy: Corn-hog payments, wheat checks, etc., a subsidy payment to decrease production and effect a cure.

The scene changes. "There's a war on." More production for us and everybody is necessary. Remedy: Subsidy payments to increase production.

Now inflation threatens as the demand and purchasing power far exceeds the supply. Remedy: Subsidy payments to producers to keep the price down and prevent inflation.

Maybe it would be just as well to pay the direct increase; after all, we'll furnish the funds for those subsidy payments, and by the time a typical New Deal bureau handles the collection and disbursements the cost will exceed the "roll back" or decrease.

Anyway, we know now what the taxpayer can expect when his burden gets too great. Subsidy payments from the New Deal! It's their cure-all!

W. A. SHANHOLTZER.

CHANGING HORSES.

Elgin, Ill., June 13.—I wonder if any one can be found, even among the New Dealers, who would claim that the British cause was even slightly harmed by their swapping horses when crossing the stream.

Would it not be well for us to follow their example in 1944? Think what it would mean to have as President and commander in chief a man who would put the winning of the war and the welfare of his country ahead of his own self-glorification and gluttony for power! As in the first World war the greatest factor in our success is production by our great industrialists despite the fact that now they are being handicapped by strikes and the catering of Mr. Roosevelt to the labor vote; a handicap they did not have under Mr. Wilson's leadership.

No one now doubts that we will win this war. Our next task is to secure freedom from fear of the New Dealers, who now are and always have been the chief enemy of our republic and the American way of life.

APARTMENTS IN THE STEVENS.

Chicago, June 16.—The Stevens hotel may be a "white elephant" but the color of the elephant should have little to do with its capacity for work.

Assuming that the Stevens cannot be at present furnished for hotel purposes, the federal housing administration should have very little trouble renting out those rooms and suites to tenants who own their own furniture. Under proper handling the government might even make a profit on its investment. There must be thousands of tenants who would benefit by living so close to their place of employment.

HARRY SOLOMON.

NO RAISES FOR WHITE COLLARS.

Chicago, June 17.—In his press conference of June 15, President Roosevelt is reported to have said that the so-called white collar workers never have had raises in pay commensurate with living cost increases and probably never will.

You white collar workers who voted for Roosevelt in 1940 can satisfy yourselves by watching organized labor get theirs.

REALIST.

NO GAS FOR THEIR TRACTORS.

Hamlet, Ind., June 16. — We have owned, operated, and lived upon a 240 acre farm in southern La Porte county, Indiana, for the last 25 years. Under Purdue test in 1942 our corn averaged 116.6 bushels an acre. My husband has managed to get this year's acreage in despite many handicaps. But it looks as tho the weeds will take it before our ration board will issue us stamps for more gasoline.

Our application blank, which should have been mailed to us 20 days ago, came in this afternoon's mail. An hour later I was told our tank which supplies our two tractors was empty. I immediately called the La Porte county ration office asking for some one in authority who would issue emergency gasoline. I asked that they mail the books this afternoon so we could get them in the morning and have our 200 gallon tank filled, explaining that I would mail the application blank in the morning and that it would save us a 50 mile drive as well as valuable time.

Of course you've guessed the answer —the female handed the phone to a second female but both their answers were that "under no condition could they issue any stamps without the application blank." Of course they've never thought that what the farmer does is of any importance. I presume they think the groceries appear on the shelves of the stores via some magic. If it takes them as long to issue the stamps as it did to get the application to us we may as well spend the rest of the summer over at Koontz lake fishing. MRS. ARTHUR B. SPENCER.

HOLLYWOOD CLOWN.

Chicago, June 17.—I have just read with disgust of the antics of an individual in Hollywood, who has made millions of good American dollars in this country and still doesn't deem it necessary to become an American citizen, of which Americans can be very proud. [He calls himself a citizen of the world.]

How this man is entitled to inch block headlines in our local papers, against mere notice of our American boys dying in combat, mystifies me.

It is about time our press woke up to the fact that our American people are more interested in reading about our service men than they are about a moronic, un-American individual.

JOE SPANIER.

MR. McNUTT, MEET GEN. HERSHEY.

Chicago, June 17.—When is "essential" not essential? I am a Chicago policeman of 37 years' experience. My retirement is set for August so I thought it would be well to investigate now other employment. I approached the United States employment agency in Cicero. There I was informed that I would have to wait until the exact date of my retirement as my job is, according to them, "essential."

Now this classification of police work as "essential" by a government agency is most puzzling. Daily draft boards take Chicago policemen to serve in the army. The situation is such that the ranks are being rapidly depleted with no new recruits to fill them up. Why aren't the young policemen essential if a pensioner is considered thus?

E. C. F. C.

DRAFT DEFERMENTS.

Chicago, June 15.—Administration of the selective service act has never been distinguished by fairness, but I doubt if its inequities ever were more pronounced, or more easily rectified, than they are at present.

The inequities arise out of that theoretical condition called "necessity" to war industries or industries supporting the war. There are many such industries—more companies are in this class today, in fact, than are not. Men in these companies may be deferred 6 months, 12 months, or 18 months [depending upon the patience and stupidity of local draft boards] if their employers request such deferment.

Some employers take full advantage of this provision. Every one in their employ, from the president down to the newest office boy, is "necessary," and therefore deferable. Other employers, endeavoring to coöperate with the spirit of the selective service act, refuse to defer any employés, regardless of position. The results are absurd. Young married men without children, holding down clerical jobs paying small salaries, are deferred as necessary while older married men with children, occupying much more important positions with higher salaries, are not considered necessary and therefore are nondeferable. Frequently the two men may be working for competing firms within the same industry.

The remedy, of course, is the abolition of the entire concept of necessity. Few people are necessary to any organization, and those few are well above 38. Draft provisions should be simplified. Men should be inducted in the following order—unmarried men first, childless married men second, and married men with children last—and the members of each group should go in the order of their draft numbers, with no nonsense about who is and who is not necessary, and how much "necessity" is required to make a draft dodger.

COL. PELOUZE, MILITARY, CIVIC LEADER, IS DEAD

Manufacturer; Long in National Guard.

Col. William Nelson Pelouze, president of the Pelouze Manufacturing company, director in several other large organizations and prominent in military and Illinois National Guard organizations since 1883, died last night in his Lake Geneva, Wis., home. He was 77 years old.

Col. Pelouze, who followed the military tradition set by his father, Gen. Louis H. Pelouze, was a particularly successful manufacturer and had wide real estate holdings here and in other parts of the country. His father was a graduate of the famous West Point class of 1853, which included Generals Sheridan, Schofield, and McPherson.

Born in Washington, D. C.

Col. Pelouze was born in Washington, D. C., and was graduated from the Michigan Military academy in 1882. He came to Chicago after his graduation and in 1894 organized the Pelouze Scale company and became its president.

In 1908 he organized the Pelouze Heater company, combining both companies two years later into the Pelouze Manufacturing company. He was still active as president of the organization at the time of his death.

Captain of cadets at Michigan Military academy, Col. Pelouze was commissioned captain and adjutant of the 2d regiment of the Illinois National Guard a year after his arrival in Chicago.

He served as captain of Company H of the 2d regiment in the Union Stock Yards strike in 1887. He became a major in the 2d regiment in 1888 and in 1893 was made assistant adjutant general of the 1st brigade of the National Guard. He saw service in the Spanish-American war and in the railroad disputes of 1894 as a National Guard officer.

The late Gov. Frank O. Lowden commissioned him colonel of the 1st infantry, Illinois reserve militia, on March 15, 1918.

On Plan Commission.

Col. Pelouze was director of the Harris Safe Deposit company and the Consumers company, past chairman of the Illinois deep waterway commission and past president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

He was a member of the executive committee of the Chicago Plan commission and a member of the Illinois Centennial commission. He built several Chicago office buildings, including the Pelouze building which formerly housed all United States army officers here, the Pelouze Manufacturing company and a third building, all in the vicinity of East Ohio street and Michigan avenue.

Col. Pelouze is survived by his widow, Helen Thompson Pelouze, and a daughter, Mrs. Bruce P. Adams, 2211 Greenwood avenue, Wilmette. A brother, Frederick Pelouze of Arizona, also survives.

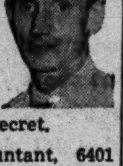
THE QUESTION.

Who do you think can do the better job of keeping a secret—a man or a woman?

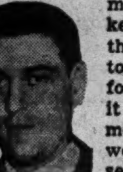
WHERE ASKED.

The Pullman building, 206 South Michigan avenue.

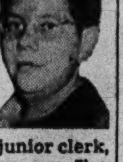
THE ANSWERS.



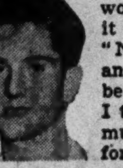
Wayne A. Moore, mechanical inspector, 10221 Vernon avenue—Even in simple family relationships I'd trust men before I would women. I don't think any of them would maliciously betray me, but they start to talk and before they realize it they have unintentionally given away every secret.



Jerome Mann, accountant, 6401 West 23d street—Right now I think men and women are keeping more secrets than they've ever had to before. In fact, before this war is over it wouldn't surprise me at all if women would learn to keep secrets.

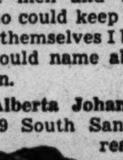


William R. Konetski, clerk, 10404 South Homan avenue—There are only two women in my life who share my confidences . . . my mother and my grandmother. But even those two can't resist telling each other if I don't get to the other one first.



W. Norman Johnston, junior clerk, 3751 Lowe avenue—Whenever I've overheard snatches of women's conversations it usually begins with, "Now don't let this go any farther" or "Just between you and me." I think a secret is too much of a temptation for them.

Helen Starr, office worker, 5333 Van Buren street—There are a few girls that I would trust to keep a secret just as well as any man I know. But the trouble is there are only a few. If I were to list the men and women who could keep things to themselves I believe I could name about twice as many men.



Alberta Johannesen, office clerk, 8159 South Sangamon street—If I really want to keep a secret I trust it only to myself. As a rule I don't confide in too many women because most of them know all the other girls and it's a big temptation for them to talk.

NEGROES URGE F. D. R. END RACE STRIFE IN SOUTH

Rap Knox for SPAR, WAVE Ban.

A resolution asking that President Roosevelt put an end to discrimination against Negroes at army camps in the south and to stop the imminent spread of rioting and bloodshed thruout the nation, was unanimously adopted at a mass meeting of the National Negro council and the Chicago Citizens Committee of 1,000 held yesterday in the Metropolitan Community center, 4100 South Park way.

The group asked that the President authorize, as his personal representatives, five leading Negro clergymen to visit Camp Van Dorn, Mississippi, and Camp Stewart, Georgia, and investigate conditions.

List Three Chicagoans.

Those named by the group were Bishop David Henry Sims of Philadelphia, Dr. D. V. Jemison, president of the National Baptist convention, Selma, Ala., the Rev. W. S. Braddon of Chicago, an ex-army chaplain; the Rev. Harold Kingsley and the Rev. Joseph Evans, also of Chicago.

"The heads of our government in Washington have not gone into the matter of this racial strife sufficiently, especially at a time where stoppages will seriously hamper our efforts to win this war," Edgar G. Brown, director of the national Negro council, said. "We should be given our equal rights as set up in the Constitution."

Radio Talk Urged.

Brown urged that President Roosevelt make a nation-wide radio address and point out the imperativeness of preserving peace, goodwill, and racial understanding on the home front as against the axis rumors and propaganda.

The meeting concluded with a vote of condemnation for Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox for his failure to permit Negro women to join the SPARS and WAVES. "This discrimination is very much against our rights and steps should be taken to eliminate this disapproval of our young women," Brown declared.

The Negro council and its affiliates, according to Brown, represent 5,000,000 Negroes in the United States.

Negro Soldier Killed.

El Paso, Tex., June 20 (AP).—A Negro soldier was killed and a white soldier was critically injured today in fighting which Fort Bliss authorities said was incited by false reports of race rioting in downtown El Paso Saturday night.

Fort Bliss authorities announced that Pvt. Paul V. Brown, 367th searchlight battalion, was shot and critically wounded by a Negro, one of a group of Negro soldiers incited by the rumor, when he tried to take Brown's gun away from him. The army authorities further said that a white sentry shot fatally a Negro, Pvt. Otis Gardner, 394th artillery.

2 Hour Fight in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., June 21 [Monday] (AP).—A two-hour fight between white and Negro youths on Detroit's near east side in which a score were injured was quelled shortly after midnight today by 200 policemen, aided by more than 400 uniformed servicemen. The fighting began at Belle Isle bridge, leading to the popular summer bathing spot, and when it spread to nearby Gabriel Richard park, adjacent to the naval armory, a call for police reserves was issued.

AAA TO EXECUTE ABOUTFACE ON FARM SCARCITY

Midwest Parley to Chart Expanded Output.

Washington, D. C., June 20 [Special].—Agricultural adjustment administration functionaries of the north central states will assemble Thursday in Milwaukee to hear about the government's new farm philosophy—all out production in place of planned scarcity.

Discussing plans for the meeting, an annual affair usually held in Chicago but shifted this year because of hotel accommodations, agriculture department officials said its theme will be a spreading of the word among members of the New Deal farm burocracy that they must execute an abrupt about face in the direction of their efforts.

Speakers from Washington, D. C., will be headed by J. S. Russell, assistant to Chester C. Davis, war food administrator. Leroy K. Smith, newly appointed north central states AAA administrator, will preside.

AAA Directors to Attend.

In attendance will be AAA directors of the 10 major cornbelt states, state agricultural extension directors, and others concerned with administration of government farm policies in the middle west.

New Deal farm leaders here are making no secret of the fact that the meeting will serve as a swan song for the "economy of scarcity" era during which little pigs were slaughtered and farmers were paid for not producing. No official announcement on the subject has been made, but analysis of AAA plans for 1944 makes it evident that farm benefit and parity payments are pretty much out of the picture.

Those attending the Milwaukee meeting will be told their job is to launch a drive to get every idle acre of land into production, it was said.

Testimony Indicates Plan.

Features of the plan include the distribution of millions of dollars of public funds for the purchase of seed and fertilizers and the use of other millions to provide above-ceiling prices for farm products, testimony on the agricultural appropriations bill has revealed.

New Deal farm leaders have indicated the overall cost of the production program will be about 388 million dollars. The program to be outlined at the Milwaukee meeting is expected to show a proposed allocation of 138 million dollars for seed, fertilizer, and other farm materials to be granted farmers, 125 million dollars in dairy feed subsidies to encourage milk production, 100 million dollars for soil conservation, and 25 million dollars for administration of the war food administration.

The Washington men will be seeking the farm belt's reaction to administration plans for placing sharp restrictions on livestock production by early 1944 in order to conserve the feed grains for human consumption rather than to use them for the production of meat.

The meeting will end Saturday.

Subsidies Lashed by Live Stock Official.

Subsidies and the price roll-back program which go into effect today under orders of the office of price administration are inflationary, and theories followed by the OPA will have to be adjusted to a more workable and sensible program if the American public is to get meat at any price, it was asserted here yesterday.

This charge was made by P. O. Wilson, secretary of the National Live Stock Producers' association and chairman of the Live Stock and Meat council. He said processors and live stock producers are opposed to the program.

Wilson asserted that so-called savings to consumers in the price roll-back mean nothing because the OPA program already has so reduced the available supply of beef there will be little left for the consumer to buy at the rolled back price.

Asserts Production Reduced.

"The uncertainty and chaos caused by this program and by OPA bungling during the last year have served to reduce the actual tonnage production of meat in this country and delay the whole meat producing process," Wilson said.

"Farmers are not striking but they are protecting their life savings. When they find it is not profitable to feed cattle under the prices permitted by the government, they switch to some other line of business just as any average American citizen would do. Thousands upon thousands of farmers have left farms and found their places in defense and other industries. As a result we have a critical meat shortage at this most important time."

Wilson insisted the subsidy, commonly referred to as a subsidy to the producers of live stock paid to them thru the processing industry, is in reality a subsidy to consumers at a time when the consuming public's purchasing power is at its highest level.

Sees Purchasing Power Boost.

"A subsidy to this group at this time will increase its purchasing power, which is inflationary in itself, the very thing that the government is trying to avoid," Wilson charged.

"Live stock producers and farmers are taxpayers. They know that funds to pay the subsidy must come from taxpayers. They are opposed to any unnecessary governmental expenditures, particularly in time of war, and they classify this subsidy as absolutely unnecessary."

Eight points were stressed in resolutions sent by directors of the Illinois Manufacturers' association to Senators Brooks and Lucas and to Illinois members of congress opposing the roll-back program and subsidies for meat and other foods.

The association contends the subsidy policy is unsound in principle, based on expediency, and represents a dangerous precedent which will involve increasing abuses; that it will place an additional tax burden of $400,000,000 on the taxpayers now and eventually will cost 2 billion; that the program will not cause real reductions but will injure all consumers by increasing inflationary trends, and that it will reduce production.

FARMERS WARN OPA RULE PERILS CATTLE FEEDERS

Illinoisans Demand Relief from Price Squeeze.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—Three Illinois cattle feeders, who came here seeking relief from government price regulations, warned today that their industry is facing disruption because price fixers refuse to allow them a margin of profit sufficient to enable them to continue in operation.

Asserting corn belt cattle feeders are being squeezed out of existence between maximum prices allowed for corn and those for beef, they said that unless beef prices are raised it will be impossible for them to continue to supply the market with choice beef as compared with the coarse product which comes directly from the range.

Cattle feeders purchase stock, usually from western ranges, fatten it in feeding lots, and market it as beef. The stock usually consists of young steers and heifer calves.

Farmers Share View.

The three are Henry Longmeyer of Greene county and Harry Tomlin and Strother G. Jones of Sangamon county, who said in an interview they came here at their own expense last week to confer with OPA and food officials in an effort to get first hand information on prospects for easing present restrictions. They said that before making the trip they talked with farmers and feeders in their area who handle approximately 50,000 head of cattle a year and found that all have the same views on the administration's food program.

Longmeyer, Tomlin, and Jones are three of the largest cattle feeders in Illinois. Longmeyer feeds around 2,000 head a year and Jones approximately the same. Tomlin usually handles around 1,000 head annually. All three feed all the corn they can raise on their farms and in addition purchase thousands of bushels from cornbelt growers. Longmeyer and Jones purchase about 80,000 bushels of corn a year in addition to what they raise themselves and Tomlin buys around 40,000 bushels.

Want Assurance of Margin.

"We don't like what the OPA is doing to us, and we are trying to get some assurance that we will get a margin on corn fed beef necessary to protect our investment in livestock and equipment," Longmeyer said.

"We feel that feeder cattle being fed at the present time will average only $15 per hundred pounds at the farm, taking last week's market as a barometer, due to the controversy over roll backs and subsidy payments.

Loss on Each Steer Likely.

"This means the cattle will not bring over the original cost at the stock yards or, in other words, it means a loss of about $25 on each steer for 120 days of feeding. Our trip was made to find out whether corn belt feeders are to get the red or green light—whether we are going to have to fold up or whether we will be able to keep on supplying choice beef the year around."

All three agreed that a critical situation is developing in the corn belt which will have serious effects upon a basic source of war time food for fighting forces as well as for civilians. They warned that the movement of cattle to the feed lots already is slowing up and that feeders are disinclined to make further commitments pending a solution of their problems.

Feeding Costs 50 Cents a Day.

As an example of their present difficulties, they said an 800 pound steer from the range costs 15 cents a pound at the present market, or $120. Corn feeding for 100 days would increase the weight to 1,000 pounds and at a market price of 15.8 cents—the maximum under OPA ceilings for dressed beef—the steer would bring $158.

The cost of feeding is roughly 50 cents a day, which would increase the cost to $170 for the fattened animal, leaving the feeder with a loss of $12 on a steer fed 100 days.

Tomlin said the three were told by OPA officials with whom a conference was arranged by Rep. Sid Simpson [R., Ill.] that the government does not encourage the raising of corn fed cattle, preferring, instead, to have cattle sold for slaughter directly from the range.

He said this practice would glut the market during the fall and early winter months with inferior beef when the grazing season is terminated by frosts, while corn feeding is a continuous process and spreads the supply over the whole year.

Strange Talk, Says Illinoisian.

One OPA spokesman was quoted as saying that a feeder is "foolish" to pay more than $12 a hundredweight for feeder cattle and the agency has no sympathy for any one who buys to produce choice beef selling above the maximum of 15.8 cents a pound.

"That's strange talk from government officials who have been leading farmers to believe that beef was wanted and needed," Jones asserted.

The three cattle men and Rep. Simpson also conferred with Grover Hill, assistant secretary of agriculture, and Norris Dodd, chief of the agricultural adjustment administration under Food Administrator Chester Davis. They said both officials were sympathetic to their complaints but offered no definite solution. They were informed a meeting of government food officials is to be held this week, at which time the problem of the cattle feeders is scheduled to be taken up.

WPB Urges Public to Save Brown Waste Paper

WPB officials are urging the public to save all forms of used brown paper—old brown containers, brown bags and wrapping paper—to help relieve the critical shortage of pulp. Brown waste paper will be used to make blasting kegs, cartridge containers, victory containers, and other essential military equipment. Flatten out boxes, stack loose paper in neat bundles. DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Bob Becker

June 20, 1943.

IN UTILIZING crows for human food the big problem is not how they can be cooked or how edible they are when served, but how to catch them in large numbers.

As far as the crow's year around diet is concerned, this bird eats lots of corn, the vegetable food that is responsible for the desirable flavor of its flesh. Sportsmen rave about corn fed mallards along the Illinois river. The crow is another corn eater. It visits the fields to glean waste grain left after the harvest just like the mallards do in many states.

The crow's diet is all right and there are millions of crows, but catching them in numbers is the big problem. This year shooting them is just about out of the picture because of the shortage of ammunition. Anyway, the bird is so wary that comparatively few hunters can get within easy range of them unless they have learned how to build blinds and use decoys to get the birds in close. And only the veteran hunters, those who are expert shots, can hit them consistently enough to obtain many of the birds. The average hunter, who in a normal year goes hunting once or twice for ducks or pheasants, is up against a real hunting proposition when he's after crows.

Use Bombing Method.

In some states the most practical system of killing crows in large numbers has been bombing of the roosts. The Illinois department of conservation used to string bombs in hedgerows and trees before the crows came in to roost at night and then explode the bombs after dark. Kills of 2,000 to 30,000 or more birds in one night were not uncommon when the dynamite squad was in operation. We saw one of these bombings in northern Illinois. It's the one effective method of killing thousands of birds at one time.

There is only one other way to catch crows in fairly large numbers. That's by the use of big wire and wooden traps which are successful only in the winter months when food is scarce and crows are massed in large flocks. Originally designed to solve the winter crow problem on the farm, it may be the answer to how to catch crows for food. This trap is made of chicken wire and scantling. The United States fish and wildlife service, which has checked the success of this trap in various parts of the country, recommends the use of it in fall, winter and early spring when the crows are in large flocks and will be attracted by the food and decoys placed in one of these traps, which measure 10x10x6 feet.

Ingenious Trap.

It's an ingenious type of trap with a horizontal ladder in the center of the top. The rungs are spaced so that a crow can drop down into the trap where the bait and decoys attract it. But it can't fly up thru these openings and escape.

Mimeographed plans for making this crow trap will be mailed to any one who sends a stamped, self-addressed envelope to this department, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago, Illinois.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

TWO new egetables have been tried in the sample gardens of the Wheaton farm this season. One of these, tampala, a new type of spinach, is not yet mature. The second, Bibb head lettuce, has proved so exceptional in flavor and texture that the gardener is making plans to save seed from about 25 heads for plantings to be made late this summer and next spring.

Attempts have been made to buy Bibb seed from several stores, but all have sold out of this variety. Because the lettuce has been so outstanding, the gardener's only recourse is to save seed from plants now under cultivation. After the seeds ripen on the stalk, the seed heads will be dried. Some of these seeds will be planted in the open garden about Aug. 1 for autumn consumption. Additional seeds will be planted in cold frames in late August or early September, and covered with glass when there is danger of killing frosts.

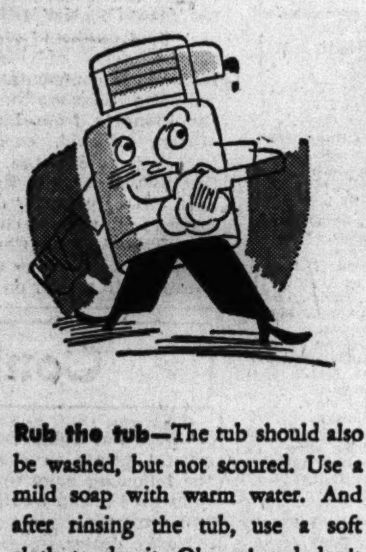
TIPS ON THE CARE OF ELECTRIC WASHERS

"How I keep from Growing Old"

YOU'D never guess my age! But there's only one reason I look so young and work like a brand new washer. That's because my boss gives me special wartime care. She's smart. She knows she can't get a new washer now, so she's making sure I keep working for the duration.



Do as she does—It's very simple to follow my owner's example. The first thing to remember is to clean the washer after using it. Wash, rinse and dry the wringer rolls, also release the pressure to prevent the rubber rolls from flattening.

Rub the tub—The tub should also be washed, but not scoured. Use a mild soap with warm water. And after rinsing the tub, use a soft cloth to dry it. Oh yes! and don't forget to remove the agitator and wash under it, too.

Keep it under cover—When you are finished with the washer, cover it with a cloth to keep it free from dust. And remember, at the first sign of motor trouble, call an expert repair man. You'll save money in the end.

Lady, be careful—Don't drop the agitator because it might chip the porcelain. The metal would then rust and eventually result in a leak. You ought to treat the enamel on your washer like you do the fine finish on your furniture.

Save the cord—Be sure to keep the cord off the wet floor, and never roll the washer over the cord. Remember, too, when moving the machine, that the wringer should be directly over the tub. It will prevent the washer from tipping.

What about lubrication?

Well; it depends on the make and age of washer. No general instructions cover all types: So I suggest that you follow the manufacturer's instructions for lubricating your washer. If you no longer have these instructions; see your Electric Appliance dealer: And you'd better see him right soon; if your washer hasn't been lubricated recently.

Electricity has gone to war—don't waste it!

Good Morning!

Frank Morgan does a sort of "Mr. Tutt" act in this movie. And does it WELL!

You who have read the "Mr. Tutt" stories will recollect that when the old lawyer wants to get away from it all he goes fishing. And DOESN'T get away from it all! Usually finds himself coming to the rescue of some hapless soul who, but for his canny use of the law, would have gone to the bow wows.

Mr. Morgan plays an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme court, whose pet relaxation is duck hunting and who, the minute court is adjourned, starts incognito for a hideout known only to himself and his pretty secretary. . . . AND spends his vacation batting for the young mayoralty candidate of a small town that is lousy with crooked politicians, vicious gossip-mongers and strong arm men controled by the powers that be. . . . The advent of his secretary with certain papers is the axle on which romance soon turns. . . .

The film has a number of unusual situations and quite a few laughs. Mr. Morgan is at his best. Justice Grant exudes dignity—but doesn't let it bother him. He's not afraid to fight rats with rat poison. . . . Porter Hall is skillful and amusing as a judge who doesn't know until too late that he's been entertaining a Supreme court justice unawares. . . . Robert Barratt is smooth as the crooked "in" mayor and Jean Rogers and Richard Carlson are refreshingly young and enthusiastic as the secretary and the candidate. . . . Other rôles are brightly handled.

The film was well directed and isn't too long.

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

A long list of music lovers will receive letters this week from the newly organized Chicago committee of the Armed Forces Master Records, Inc., asking for funds to buy musical libraries for men at sea in ships and in army camps and navy bases in this country and abroad.

The demand for classical music originated among the men in service themselves, and was not started by any organization to "educate" soldiers and sailors. Filling the demand and real need for recorded music is keeping many people busy. The government buys many disks; individuals donate a few, and some organizations, like the American Federation of Music Clubs, collect as many as they can.

The AFMR, however, appeals for money to buy new disks, which are shipped express collect to the point from which the request came. One of its carefully selected regular units costs $75, and consists of 100 disks ranging from Bach to Shostakovich. About 250 of these libraries have been sent out, and about 70 "junior units" of 36 disks have been put aboard ships and submarines.

While committees have been formed in eastern and western cities, the Chicago committee is the only branch serving the middle west. Contributors may specify where they want their gifts sent, and no sum of money will be too small, says Mrs. Arthur G. Cable, who is the Chicago chairman. Headquarters are at 208 South La Salle street, room 510, telephone Ran. 7120.

Committee members are Mrs. William H. Mitchell, George Voevodsky, Mrs. Frank Mayer, Mrs. Thomas I. Underwood, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, who leaves this week for her summer home on Cape Cod; Samuel Luderman, Mrs. Vaughn Spalding, Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, Felix Borowski, and Francis M. Knight.

Contract According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: There are several points in connection with the following hand upon which the interested group would like to have you comment.

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

NORTH

♣ Q 8 6

"The bidding, as it actually took place, was:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	2 hearts
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

"West opened the diamond eight. A low card was played from dummy and East held up the ace, signaling with the diamond nine. Declarer won, laid down the spade king, then finessed to the jack. East won, cashed the diamond ace, then led a third diamond, which his partner ruffed. The heart ace, promptly laid down at this point, defeated the contract.

"Here are our questions: [1] Was North's three spade bid justified? [2] Was South's bid correct? [3] Did South play the hand to the best advantage?"

[1] North's three spade bid was the best action available, despite the fact that a double raise almost always requires four trumps. No better call could be made by North on the second round.

[2] South's bidding was acceptable. South might have answered originally with one diamond, but his actual spade response worked out better—or rather, it should have, had South played his four spade contract more adeptly.

[3] I have already indicated that South did not play the hand to the best advantage. The diamond eight opening was highly significant, and South should have feared the diamond ruff that eventuated. Thus, he should have devoted a greater part of his efforts toward shutting out that ruff. After winning the first trick, he should have cashed the spade king, then led low to the ace, resolutely declining the opportunity to finesse. Then, it would be necessary to return the spade jack, trusting to a 3-3 break of the suit. If the actual break turned out to be 4-2, with either defender having two trump tricks, declarer could not help himself, but he would be in no acute danger, because dummy's heart king would protect him from the run of that suit and, even tho he would make no more diamond tricks, he would have every right to feel that the club suit could be run off solidly. The crucial point, as mentioned, was to get out the trumps so rapidly that a diamond ruff could not materialize.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN the crowd roars "They're Off" at 3 p. m. this afternoon at the Washington Park racing plant in Homewood, the cry will be going up an hour later than usual and Arlington Park race track regulars will be in an unaccustomed place to watch the sport of kings, for the Arlington season is being held at Washington Park this summer. An illusion of privacy is being preserved for members of Arlington's exclusive little Post and Paddock club, which is to have its own quarters at the Washington track.

However, P and P members, long accustomed to motoring to their favorite track northwest of the city, are struggling manfully with Illinois Central train schedules, or automobile routes to Homewood, with the result that few reservations have been made for luncheon at the track. The board of directors of Arlington and the Post and Paddock will be having luncheon at the track restaurant, but since only sandwiches and drinks will be served at the new Post and Paddock, reservations would not be necessary there.

Regulars to Entertain at Lunch as Usual.

The Bert L. Atwaters, Mrs. George F. Getz Jr., the Harry H. Lobdells, Mrs. Benjamin R. Brown, Judge and Mrs. Michael Igoe, and Maj. Ednyfed Williams are entertaining at luncheon today, just as they always have at Arlington on opening day. Arthur O'Connell will be at the club as usual to welcome members to their new racing "home," which is situated right at the finish line. The list of P and P boxholders is much as usual, and once the fans have conquered the train schedules it is felt that the season will go along much as in other years. Post time will be 2 p. m. on Saturdays and holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Coale gave a cocktail party at home in Kenilworth yesterday to announce the engagement of their daughter, Ellen Jane, to H. Mitchell Harper Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper of Winnetka. Miss Coale attended the Roycemore school, Ogontz, and Finch Junior college. She is a provisional member of the Junior league, and is doing volunteer work as a nurses' aid.

Mr. Harper was graduated from the Hotchkiss school and last year entered Princeton university, where he enlisted in the naval reserve. He will report at Cornell university on July 1 for naval training.

Doris Tansill and Fiance, Robert Anderson, Feted.

There is a round of entertaining for Miss Doris Tansill and Robert G. Anderson, who are to be married next Saturday. Miss Mary Adams entertained at cocktails last Wednesday and Mr. and Mrs. James R. Getz gave a cocktail party on Saturday. Mrs. Chauncey Hutchins is giving a dinner party tonight. The Alanson Donalds have planned a dinner for tomorrow, and on Thursday night Mrs. Donald will give the spinster dinner while the bachelor dinner is held at the University club. Mrs. Thomas Furness will give a dinner on Friday night at the Onwentsia.

July 10 is the date set for the marriage of Miss Leslie Jean Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bennett Freeman, and Lt. Thomas E. Deacy Jr. The ceremony will take place at 5 p. m. in the garden

Women Turn to G.O.P., Says Mrs. Suthers

The steadily growing strength of the Republican party is indicated by increased memberships in the party's women's clubs, Mrs. W. Glenn Suthers, president of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs, said on returning to her home at South Hoyne avenue this week-end after a speaking tour of 12 western states in the last three weeks.

The fact that all are paid memberships in the country's 3,600 clubs makes the steady increases important, Mrs. Suthers said. She also listed as an "encouraging" sign the great numbers of business women who are taking an interest in political affairs and choosing the Republican party.

Thruout the west, Mrs. Suthers said, dissatisfaction with the New Deal's domestic policies, particularly the food program, is bringing new people into the Republican party. In the beef country, she said, cattle ready to be sold were eating ranchers out of pocket because of a faulty distribution program, while in other parts of the west people were still being paid not to raise food.

Clock With Feet.

Hollywood, Cal., June 20.—It is difficult to wander anywhere out here and not bump into Chicagoans, all getting brown and out of the topcoat habit and wondering how things are back on Randolph street, how lusty is the advance mosquito crop at Ravinia, and what people think about Defauw.

One Chicagoan, who has attained more local fame as "The Man with the Watches" than as the publicity chief of Columbia studios, which he is, is Howard Mayer. If you run into Mr. Mayer on a quiet corner, he sounds like a delayed action bomb, for he races around with from 10 to 12 watches ticking on his person, depending on whether he is wearing a vest.

Three of these are wrist watches. Two, on opposite sides of the same band, are on his right wrist. One is set on Chicago time, the other on New York time. The watch on his left wrist is set on Los Angeles time. These three, and the war watch which he occasionally fishes out of an inner pocket to determine the time in one of six capitals thruout the world, create the illusion that he is a punctilious man. This is not quite true. He has never missed a train, but he is invariably late to appointments. He admits this sadly and considers it a constitutional vice, but his family and associates view it tolerantly.

Tucked in one pocket is a calendar watch, which indicates each fleeting second, minute, hour, day, week, month, and year of his transient life. It also indicates the phases of the moon, but Mr. Mayer admits a little shamefacedly that you can't see the phase of the moon on it right now as it is a trifle discolored. [If any one doubts, the moon is full, a bomber's moon.] One microscopic watch is set in the top of a fountain pen, and others, ranging from a railroad watch—the most accurate of them all—to a gigantic coach watch, are buried in secret pockets or suspended from chains and leather harnesses. One watch chimes the hour, an attribute which can be very disconcerting to the innocent bystander, and another is an alarm watch and is used as such. It has a merry, gurgling tone.

If by any chance any of these get out of order, Mr. Mayer can replace them with a new and different watch from his assortment at home. Here, in a glass covered table, are 54 or 56, depending on whether he wears a vest.

His wife views the whole collection with amusement. "I don't know why he carries those watches," she says. "He's sort of sane in every other way."

Correction.

Thru one of those misadventures which befall type as well as men, the author's name was omitted from a poem published in this column on Friday, June 11. The poem was "Palmyra," and the author was Martha Wendt, whose work is well known to readers of Front Views and Profiles. We would like to blame this unfortunate omission on the war, a very popular culprit nowadays, but we can't quite make it.

U. of C. Course to Open.

Registration begins at 8:30 a. m. today at the University of Chicago for what promises to be the busiest summer quarter in the history of the university.

Sally Explains Urgent Need for Ice Boxes

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Summer is made doubly uncomfortable for many of our needy families.

If you have an extra ice box in the basement won't you pass it along to some needy family? A 50 pound box would be a great help to Miss W., who is a young shut-in. She is on relief, living in one room and incapacitated by illness. Because of her physical condition, she will be given ice tickets, but because she lacks a box, she cannot take advantage of that privilege. An offer from the south side of the city could be most conveniently handled.

Mrs. B., living on the west side, is a widow and financially unable to purchase a box. Her food supplies have been spoiling rapidly during the last few weeks.

We have other similar requests from all sections of the city.

MacNicol's 'Good Neighbor' Paintings Bring Mexico Near

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One of the most stunning shows of the summer season opens today at the Findlay Galleries, 338 South Michigan avenue. Paintings by Roy Vincent MacNicol have been installed in their exhibition gallery and the effect is tremendous. MacNicol has done many murals and the free sweep of brush and lavish use of vivid color initiated there have carried over into his easel work with marked success.

The paintings are of Mexico, its people, customs, and fruits. They are a brilliant page in the chapter of Good Neighbor writing which our generation is sponsoring.

The pictures have been shown in Washington, where they met with great enthusiasm. Chicago will be equally interested. The effect of the show is somewhat like a trumpet blast of posters; it is impossible to escape even one picture, but the challenge of Mexico which these sultry, torrid creations toss to us is acceptable.

In design and color the artist achieves his greatest success. The individual portraits seem a trifle sulky, a little theatrical; in the figure groups a finer sympathy is loosened and they ring doubly true. This is the Mexico we have seen and enjoyed; these are the Indians who have delighted us, the flowers and fruits which have amazed us.

For a brilliant, exciting introduction to Mexico nothing more sturdy, more authentic nor more appealing could have been devised than these MacNicol paintings. The exhibit will be here just the week; it is well worth seeing.

The men's summer exhibit of paintings has just opened at the Drake hotel to continue to Sept. 9. It is under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts. Adam Emory Albright shows his charming painting of a little girl, "Carpet Rags." E. G. Dannhausen has in "Nature's Mirror" an attractive landscape. Tunis Ponsen has one of the finest pictures in the show in "Farm Yard." Antonin Sterba shows a delightful portrait, "Doris of Pasadena," and Leo R. Weeks offers his superb "Bittersweet."

Chalk drawings inspired by animals or plants on display at the Field Museum of Natural History, the work of children in the grade and high schools of Chicago and vicinity, are on view at the museum. It is a delightful exhibit.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. Gus H., Chicago—I find it a help to give a small paint brush a treatment with furniture polish—the liquid type. Then I can get into all sorts of corners that are hard to reach. To clean coil bed springs I have a dishmop, reserved especially for the purpose.

Mrs. Emory T., Milwaukee, Wis.—I give all our family bathing suits a preliminary laundering before the first plunge into lake or ocean in the summer time. I dip in cool suds, rinse in cool water and dry. I repeat this laundering frequently during the summer. I'm told one should do it after each use. It not only keeps them more comfortable, but keeps out sharp, destructive little mineral particles.

Mrs. Harry B., Chicago—This spring I decided to help myself to some real comfort, so I had my young son of 16 attach rollers to a board about 15 inches square. I have used this as a platform for my scrub pail and other cleaning equipment. It has certainly eased the "transportation" problem of hard to tote articles.

Miss Edna Brown, Springfield—I slice a few bits of onion in ice water and then soak my carrot sticks in the water for half an hour before using. This makes them extra crisp.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Now that the play, "Doughgirls," has opened here, sure it's a hit. It can be told that Warner's has bought the picture rights. I only hope they won't have to wait as long to release it as they have "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "Watch on the Rhine."

The Theater Guild is toying with the idea of making a film of "Oklahoma" with Rouben Mamoulian, who directed the show, also doing picture. Every major studio in Hollywood wants it, but they figure why not keep the profits in the family. Well, why not?

Howard Lang, since the record run in Chicago of "Good Night Ladies" is going into production of "School for Brides." No, he hasn't asked Mrs. Charlie Chaplin to star in it.

Patience Does It.

Gracie Allen was bound and determined to get her murder mystery produced. So, sure enough, her son Ronnie, aged 9, has put one over on his school class and they'll act it out with Grace and George in the audience. Wonder if Gracie will start shouting author.

Paramount's excited about signing Johnny Coy, New York Versailles dancer, for Betty Hutton in "Incendiary Blonde." Already, Metro's tried to borrow him for "Broadway Rhythm." He reports Aug. 1. Even after 14 years of marriage Paul Whiteman doesn't like to start any performance 'til he catches sight of Margaret Livingston in the audience.

Fame at Last.

Michael O'Shea, who made his début in "Lady of Burlesque," finds himself famous at last. The Ashkins of St. Louis named a baby for him. Pinky Lee, whose dancing and comedy was mighty good in that picture, is headed back to Broadway. Victor McLaglen got a baby Austin thru a will and a friend's death. Marjorie Reynolds goes into "Ministry of Fear" with Ray Milland while waiting for the next Irving Berlin-Mark Sandrich-Bing Crosby-Fred Astaire picture, which is almost as far off as the end of the war.

A Hot Time.

Tonight at marine base on Mojave desert I'll have a chance to become acquainted all over again with that branch of the service when I guest on the Vox Pop program with Ray Bolger and Ned Sparks. It emanates from there. It's going to be a warm welcome—120 degrees in the shade, and no shade!

Sorry I couldn't get on to New York to present the Motion Picture Magazine award for the best picture to Sol Lesser for "Stage Door Canteen" on the Guy Lombardo show.

Bebe Daniels doing "Panama Hattie" in London. She and her husband, Ben Lyons, have done a terrific public relations job over there. 'Tis reported Deanna Durbin will soon be blessed eventing. Toney Skeen, Chicago actress, won't come out to work for Warner's unless they guarantee her a house, too. H. Allen Smith had a heck of a time doing a profile on Jimmy Cagney, for with all his digging he couldn't find any dirt on the guy.

Not Good-by.

Walt Disney's farewell at his studio for Alexander P. Seversky brought out a grand group of people. Both men are beloved in our industry, also aviation. Heads of all our air companies were present. The Spencer Tracys with their house guest, Mrs. Kennedy, whose daughter will help Mrs. Tracy's clinic for deaf and dumb children; Irving Cobb's daughter Buffy and granddaughter, who's a beauty; Ina Claire, Sir Charles Mendl, Selznicks, Lubitsch, Hal Wallises—in fact, the town. Seversky surprised when Disney presented him with his own academy award for "Victory Thru Air Power," a tall bronze figure with wings, a sword, and wearing a parachute which flyers of the last war didn't have.

When told that Disney wanted to buy his story, Seversky said, "Do you mean to say they're going to make it with Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse?"

REAL LOVE.

From Lockerbies', Paul went to Sue's home. She came to the door herself.

"Come in, Paul," she said a little nervously. Her father was sitting in the living room. He was polite, but he gave Paul a frosty glance.

Mr. Craft took his newspaper and went out. Paul and Sue sat down self-consciously. Paul felt that what he had to do was difficult, but he had to straighten the record. Like Juanita, he was under compulsion.

"Sue," he said, "in the hospital—that night—when I asked you to stay with us—because I needed you—there was implied in what I said more than I had the right to say. I belong with Isabel."

Sue lifted her head and there was the same frosty look that had so bewildered him the night she had taken him to University Town to go with Elaine's grand-uncle. The same disdain.

"No one has asked anything of you," she said, and her voice was chill. Anger sparkled from her face. "You are presuming. I ask nothing of you. I never have. You owe me no explanations."

Paul stared at her. She had never been more beautiful than she was at this minute. He felt that he had been blundering—and yet she knew what he meant better than she would admit. He understood clairvoyantly that this anger would pass and not sustain her long. But it would sustain her long enough. She was entitled to it. He rose.

"You're right, of course," he said dully. "I have presumed too much. I can only apologize." It didn't seem to matter, he thought a little blankly. Sue had risen, too. Her hands were shaking but her voice was calm and controled.

"You are correct that you belong with Isabel," she said steadily. "I've often noticed that people seem ill-mated, unless you know both well, and then you see that they belong together. I think Isabel fits you perfectly."

"Thank you," Paul said gravely, ignoring the barb in her words. He saw something more. She would not have been displeased if he had loved her in secret and sorrow. But she wanted no avowals, no upheavals. And he remembered strangely that on the night Polly was killed he refused an invitation from Sue. And his reasons had been sound.

But he had never been able to refuse anything Isabel wanted him to do. No reason had ever been valid against Isabel's needs. A sense of conclusion that was complete and authentic came to Paul. This had all been a beautiful mirage which vanished when he approached it. The feeling of an ending brought with it a sharp, strange relief.

Sue was beautiful and she was good. But what had that to do with him? But when on the train that night with Mr. Palton he had decided that he was thru with Isabel he had known a crushing, an intolerable sorrow.

Paul started for Mrs. Richard's little house slowly. And as he walked, the sense of conclusion left him and was replaced with an excited feeling of beginning. His step quickened. He was almost running when he reached her door.

Paul opened the door and went in abruptly. The heating stove was in place. The little room was clean and fresh. Isabel sat sewing by the small table and she looked up at him. Paul stood staring down at her. It came over him in wave after wave—what his marriage meant to him. He had not taken a wife to raise—but she a husband! The things she had learned from him were as nothing to the things she had taught him. He was humbled. His marriage had broken down his stiff-necked pride and his selfishness and small town snobbishness. It had made a man of him. His deep self had cried out to Isabel from the first. It would never let her go. There had never been any choice for either of them.

Her hand came down on his hair and she tilted his head back and looked into his eyes and kissed him hard and quick upon the mouth. No remote dream or ideal this, but love, real and warm!

"Never leave me!" he cried to her. "Never forsake me! It doesn't matter about Juanita, or Will, or Lem—or any one. It doesn't concern us. We're man and wife. We start from here. O, Isabel—I love you."

THE END.

THE STRANGER.

Diego Usted was the only passenger that got off the train at Craik, but then, as far as he could see, there was no reason in the world why any one—even himself—should get off at that station in the portals of an empty mountain wilderness.

Here now, in the April afternoon, he was at his very final destination on top of earth, the spot from which he hoped to step off into another dimension—if any. For he told himself that another three months, or six, would see the end of the entity that was Diego Usted. He would go out with the fall of the year. After five years of very savage warfare, he wanted to die in a hole-and corner.

There was no one here to meet him, tho he had written some days previously. There were only three persons on the platform: the guard, the station porter, and a postman, all oldish men manhandling a few parcels from the van at the other end of the train.

Diego felt stiff, and stamped up the length of a carriage and back again. He was not cold. The air was brisk and had a feeling of youth in it, and the April sun was shining. He did not stamp about for long, for his legs had lost much of their pith, and he felt as empty as a drum. He went across and sat on an iron seat.

The engine was softly hissing to itself. The driver leaned out of his cab, and the porter and the postman, having finished with the van, stood gossiping amiably. The murmuring, soft drawl of their Highland voices just reached Diego. They were in no hurry. This train was at least three hours late, so why trouble about another five minutes. And then, a wisp of green waved, the engine gave a husky snort of whistle, and the train snailed out of the station.

It was then that Diego Usted felt marooned in his hole and corner. Any place he went from here he would go on his two feet—or with his two feet first. He did not mind which.

Now he could view the prospect across the double line of rails, and he lifted his eyes above the trees and looked upon the Highland hills really for the first time.

Beyond the wooded slopes facing him, the great breast of a hill heaved upwards clad in the rusty gray that he knew must be heather. But that was only one hill and not the biggest. Beyond its shoulders was the gloom of distance out of which rose massive peaks; slopes glistened in silver; and far away over a snowy pass lifted one conical peak tinged with gold and faintly washed with rose.

Like any man who looks, for the first time, at the big hills so close at hand he felt a touch of awe. His mother's mountains had moved him, and he felt his heart stir.

"In Glen Affran?" He knew of Glen Affran.

"Will you please tell me if Hamish McLeod lives at this end?" He spoke very good English but used it formally.

"I am, sir." In his own place he was called Diego, and that was not London.

"Gi'e us your hand, Mr.—Usted, isn't it? I'm an old friend o' the family. Ross—Peter Ross the name. I heard of you aften from Big Ellen, and Miari, your mother—protect her!—I knew her since she was that high."

He shook Diego's hand warmly.

"You're longer in the bone than the uncle," Peter Ross said, his chin up. "You'll be taking after the father's side?"

"That is so, Mr. Ross." But not quite so. His father had been short and dark. He himself was dark and lean, but tall—and once, not so long ago, he had been wiry as steel is wiry; but the steel wire in him had sagged down to that internal malaise.

"A strange thing your Uncle Hamish is not down to meet you. But he'll be, never you fear. He knows you're coming?"

He shouted at the postman who was only three paces away. "Hey, Wally! Do you know who we have? This is Wally McKenzie, the Post, Mr. Usted, another old friend."

Wally, the Post, was a small, hardy, weather beaten man and a walrus mustache hid his mouth and most of his chin. He came forward and gave Diego a surprising hand grip, and blew thru the hairs covering his mouth.

"I heard you, Peter. You're welcome to Glen Affran, Mr. Usted."

"Mr. Usted wrote three days ago," said the agent. "Did you take the letter up to Loch Beg, Wally?"

"No then, I didn't." He twirled the gray bag off his shoulder. "Three days, you're saying! It'll be in here among the King's mail."

He broke the postal seals, and brought forth a fistful of mail. He shuffled thru it expertly.

"'A' for the general, Head of the Home Guard—on His Majesty's Service. Ah! What did I tell you? Here we are!"

He held up Diego's letter to Mrs. Hamish McLeod, Loch Beg Bothy, Glen Affran, by Craik. "I ken your hand of write well's my own," said the postman. "You write Big Ellen once in the two months—fine newsy letters." He thrust the letter back in the bag. "I'll deliver it myself the morn as in duty bound."

"If you gentlemen will tell me where my uncle lives———."

"Loch Beg is a long step, sir," said the agent. "The head forester's bothy—your uncle's place—is 14, maybe 15 miles from where we stand, a good road all the way, but stiff."

"I could hire——?"

"Not since the war. I've an old boneshaker of a bike you could manage, and we can send up your bag in the lodge car tomorrow or——."

"Hist speak o' the devil!" interrupted the postman.

There was the smooth powerful purr of a motor engine coming up to the station.

"Ah the lodge car! We'll manage you a lift all right, Mr. Usted," said the postman.

But there was no confidence in his voice. Surely, among a kindly people where cars were few, a lift would be given as a matter of course. Or did the people of Lodge Affran hold themselves aloof from the glen?

The postman moved to a red bicycle and began strapping on his mail bag. Diego sat down again. He might not get a lift, but he could, if necessary, cycle 14 or 15 miles, in spite of the vacuum at his middle. Not so many months ago he had walked and run and hidden and killed for 20 miles in the dark on the rocky coast of Brittany.

Footsteps sounded in the hall, and two people came out on the platform. A man as tall as Diego was in the lead, and the young woman behind him was also tall. They did not see Diego, for they turned the other way at once.

The young woman was already long striding down the platform. Passing the postman she flung him a fine free gesture. "No news for me today, Mercurio?" she said in a deep, easy voice. The postman lifted his peaked cap, and his smile was warm.

The man's back was to Diego, a long, straight back with great width of shoulder under rough tweed. His legs were so slender and short that he looked topheavy. Judging by his upright carriage he was a man in his prime; but his hair belied that judgment.

Times have changed. Advertisers, instead of selling you on their products so that you'll buy more, are asking you, in many cases, not to buy unless you have good reason.

A baby food manufacturer asks me to tell readers about the serious situation in canned baby foods. There has been a big boom in the birth rate with a consequent huge increase in the demand for baby foods. But packers of these strained and chopped fruits and vegetables cannot can more than last year's supply. The potential demand for canned baby foods is something like 250 million dozen cans, and the industry can produce only about 40 million dozen cans.

The moral is this: Don't buy canned baby foods unless you have a small baby. The low point value of these foods has tempted some families to use them "illegitimately" for soups and sauces.

The canned baby food situation reminds me of the current status of corn sirup. Corn sirup is another baby food. There simply isn't enough light corn sirup available to sweeten baby formulas and at the same time substitute for sugar in the family baking. Don't make cakes with corn sirup. If you haven't enough sugar; don't make cake! Producing a crop of healthy, happy babies is far more important than appeasing our luxury craving sweet tooth.

The pressure cooker situation is gradually improving. The latest information I have indicated that 21,600 new cookers will be available in Illinois for home and community canning.

If you are going to have a great deal of canning to do and wish to make application for a pressure cooker, get in touch with the Cook county USDA war board, 2414 West Grove street, Blue Island. The telephone number is Blue Island 4040.

The pressure cooker is necessary for canning any kind of meat, fish, poultry, game, and all vegetables except pickled ones and tomatoes and rhubarb, which contain large amounts of natural acid which help in their preservation.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

[Walinger photo.]
MRS. W. S. ROWLEY.

Just a year ago, Mrs. W. S. Rowley of Evanston telephoned a few of her friends to suggest that they get together to see what they could do for the service men training in and around the suburb. A short time later, 10 of them gathered in the Art center at the Evanston public library and this formed the nucleus of the Women's Service corps of Evanston, which is now marking its first anniversary as an organization.

From the handful of women at this first meeting, the corps has grown to a membership of 75 and most of the members wear two piece uniforms of military blue.

At the outset 15 service men were entertained each week in the Y. M. C. A. in Evanston, where the corps established a canteen. Now, between 150 and 200 are entertained each Wednesday evening. The corps also sponsors parties on Saturday evenings and Sunday afternoons in the Y. M. C. A.

Dancing, games, and entertainment are provided. Young women from the Girls' Service Organization serve as hostesses. The parties are made possible thru contributions from churches, clubs, and civic groups. In addition, the organization maintains a lounge for service men at 608 Davis street, Evanston, and an office at 741 Main street, where knapsack libraries are prepared. A business meeting is held once monthly, when the president, Mrs. Rowley, presides.

The army signal corps has announced a new training course for girls, 17 years of age and older, who are high school graduates. During the 12 week schedule of instruction, the students will live on the campus of Northland college, Ashland, Wis., and receive pay at the rate of $1,275 a year. The course is limited to 150 and will begin as soon as enrollment is complete.

Subjects in the curriculum include radio, radio operating, and telephone training. Upon completion of the course, the girls will be hired as special civil service employés, for the duration of the war plus six months, at salaries commensurate with the level of training attained.

In a typical campus atmosphere, the girls selected will reside in dormitories under the guidance of a "house mother," may choose their own roommates [two girls to a room] and board and room will cost each enrollee, $10.25 a week.

Since Ashland is a summer resort community, sports facilities, including swimming, golf, tennis, and boating will be available when the students are not delving into the intricacies of Ohm's law and other subjects in the course.

Hundreds of women also are being sought by the army signal corps for training and employment as civilian inspectors in factories where the military telephone, radio, and radar equipment is being made under army service forces contracts.

High school graduates are preferred but women with the equivalent of high school and some practical experience will be accepted. The salary during the intensive six week training period will be at the rate of $1,752 annually.

The annual meeting of the Women's Overseas Service league will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at 410 South Michigan avenue. Delegates to the national convention and officers of the Chicago unit will be elected. Miss Celia Howard will preside.

Crocheted Head Band

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A crocheted head band which may be worn for outdoor activity or by women in war industry is a quick and easy needlework trick. The simple band may be crocheted of any type of wool or cotton and is designed to hold the hair in place.

For instructions in crocheting the head band, No. 446, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Thru the Looking Glass

When you use a cream or a creamy lotion try "polishing" the film after it has dried, using a bit of cotton or a piece of tissue. Polish gently, with light circular strokes, a small area at a time. This gives a nice chiffoney effect and takes off any excess powder that might otherwise dust off on clothing or furniture.

A thin film is better than a heavy one for most women because it's easier to apply smoothly and quickly. A darker tint in a light film is apt to look better than a coat in a lighter shade that has to be used thickly to get the right intensity of color.

A seam does add a great deal to the illusion of sheer hose. And the hand drawn seam is one that is always straight! An eyebrow pencil is the favorite implement.

You're exceptional if you don't prefer some kind of protective covering for the skin of the feet. Bare feet in shoes don't feel right. Often the skin of the foot is so sensitive that it will get bruised and bumpy if not protected. Use the little foot coverings that you can buy, or manufacture your own from discarded hose. Foot powder sprinkled generously will add immeasurably to your comfort on a hot day.

If the skin of the legs is horny your ersatz stockings are going to look horny. Smooth down the skin with cream, rubbed in well at night.

And what do you think of this, suggested by an employer of many women: "Wear the cosmetic hose, but for heaven's sake don't TALK about it so much!" He's furious because the women in his employ insist on showing their made-up legs to every one. He reminds us that the idea, after all, is camouflage. Maybe he's got something there.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Children May Not Always Be Even Tempered

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Haven't you often had days when you were "down in the dumps" for no particular reason that you could see? But, after casting about in your mind for a cause, you finally charged it up as an "off" day. Every one you knew, except the most serene perhaps, had times when their spirits were low, when they lost their usual zest for people and things, and when even the bright blue sky didn't look as blue as it really was. We get so after a while that we take this for granted, as far as adults are concerned. But children—

Well, I remember how I used to be surprised at childish unevenness of disposition. I expected a healthy, much loved little child to be bubbling with happiness, or at least agreeable and amenable, day in and day out.

But I soon got over that. I came to realize that children, especially as they grow older, can have "off" days as well as adults—not so frequently perhaps, but they can have them. With that in mind I would try to discern why. But, since a child becomes more and more complex in his emotions and reactions to life, to others and to things as he leaves babyhood behind, my efforts were not always successful. The psychic reason for the rare "off" days sometimes eluded me. But I did discover the physical causes that were often at the root of the unevenness, if I looked hard enough.

For instance, you have a big day ahead and the children wake up cranky in the morning. You then remember they were the same way yesterday and the day before.

You begin to wonder if they're going to lose their sweet dispositions, and suddenly it dawns on you that they haven't had their full quota of sleep. The week-end was far too strenuous with the house full of company; Monday their cousins came; Tuesday was their father's birthday and you let them stay up, and so it went. The result is that they're short of sleep; you're tired too, and this is the way they show it.

Or, they get a little older, and one day you see crankiness appearing, with no apparent reason. You puzzle over it; they look perfectly well and they're not tired. Well, you'll get busy in the kitchen while you think.

You go ahead and serve them a hot, hearty lunch. Smiles and spirits bubble back! And then you realize that they're going thru a phase during which hunger has a devastating effect on their dispositions!

There are other "off" days that you'll be able to tie up with a different physical cause. For instance, dispositions are often touchy or uneven after a slight upset or a real illness. One day's fever, even, will take its toll of their vitality, and they may show the effects of it for several days.

So, if the children are aimless, disobliging, irritable, or difficult to please, look for a physical reason for it. If you find the cause, you can usually find a remedy. If you can't, you at least can make allowances for it. A well, happily loved, and understood child is not prone to "off" days, but he may have them occasionally.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Appreciation.

A word of appreciation to a weary librarian is always treasured, especially when it comes from such a person as the 12 year old patron of the juvenile department at the Woodlawn branch who penned an ode to Miss Peters. Miss Peters, it would seem, is a fitting subject for an ode; she is "so nice and cute" . . . she has "darling little ears" and "radiant hair" and other accessories to poetry amply expressed in the verse by her young admirer. But it is the first two lines which rank with Edgar Lee Masters. The child wrote:

Stands a librarian named Miss Peters.

Inter-Office Communication.

"Pee Wee, the grade B moron who functions [now and then] as our office messenger, asks if Pantelleria is the name of a cigar or a cute pink garment said to be worn by women. Refer to Col. Nosey Parker if he is around."—Goosie Gander.

One for Our Side.

A letter from a mail car: "Have never worked in an office with a bunch of women but find the problem of seating the choosey girls [proposed by the Real Word Expert] good, tho. Running in a mail car between Pittsburgh and Detroit, I find it a job to get a Trib and sometimes miss your column. But, I still maintain that all the columns in the world won't reform working-for-dough women and the others [the home makers]. Ho, hum! Lots of fun with 'em anyhow."—Bob Rice.

Survey.

The latest call for 2 million women in war production work will place more than 5,950,000 women in war production before the end of the year. Douglas Malcolm of the American Express has compiled some arresting figures. Employment of women has increased as much in the two years from 1940 to 1942 as in the 10 previous years. New careers are constantly opened to women. Four hundred have been employed during the last year by the Chicago park district, and efforts are being made to enlist another 400 workers. Women are florists, gardeners, and crossing and service guards. For the first time in this war, women will carry firearms for self-defense, for women outnumbered men, 3 to 1, in the examination of the Tennessee Valley authority for public safety officer trainees.

Los Angeles has an all-feminine staff branch bank; Texas has an all-woman farm bank. Women are studying motor lubrication to qualify as "lubricatresses." Air lines employ women as ground radio operators; girls are studying meteorology; women pilots are being used as instructors in flying; this month sees the first young woman to join the electrical engineers at Corvallis, Ore. One out of every three civilian jobs in the quartermaster's corps is now woman-filled. Women are serving as forest fire fighters in lookout towers—they are taught ground-level spying; Connecticut has more women than men in its signal towers; Pennsylvania and Idaho are adding new recruits. This summer will see many women in lookout towers thruout the country, says Mr. Malcolm.

of the Freemans' Winnetka home.

Shoppers intent on purchasing some of the exquisite gifts offered for sale in Lake Forest tomorrow by the Woman's Exchange of Chicago will have no trouble arriving at their destination, for Mrs. Roy Carney's Lake Forest home, which is being opened for the event, is within easy walking distance of the station. The sale will be held from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m., and since tomorrow is an open day at the Onwentsia club, many of the shoppers will be lunching there.

Mrs. Michael Cudahy Among "Saleswomen."

The exchange's president, Mrs. William M. Spencer, will be coming down from her summer home in Lake Geneva for the sale. Among the saleswomen will be Mrs. Michael Cudahy, who with her children returned to Lake Forest when Lt. Cudahy sailed for the Hawaiian Islands with the navy. They have taken the Gaylord Donnelley house. Others who will help to sell the linen, china, negligees, children's clothes and blanket covers in which the shop specializes are Mrs. Alden B. Swift, Mrs. John J. Borland II., Mrs. John D. Ames, Mrs. Solomon B. Smith, and Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins. Mrs. James Ward Thorne is honorary president of the Woman's Exchange.

Polly, Bruce, and Walter Benson soon will be welcoming a new brother, David, to their nursery. The fourth child of Lt. and Mrs. Bruce Benson [Harriet Fentress] was born last Thursday morning in St. Luke's hospital. Lt. Benson was here the previous week-end but had to return to his army post in Fort Eustice, Virginia, too soon to welcome the newcomer. While he is away, his wife and children are staying in Winnetka with her parents, the Calvin Fentresses.

Marian M. Howells Engaged to Soldier.

Mr. and Mrs. Hasell Howells of Blackstone avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Marian Morgan, to Pvt. William Russell Tipper of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Tipper of Upper Montclair, N. J. The Howells and Tipper families knew each other years ago when the former lived in Upper Montclair, but their children did not meet until young Mr. Tipper came to Chicago to attend the army air forces school at the Stevens hotel. Miss Howells was graduated from Northwestern university. Her fiancé left the University of Pennsylvania to join the army.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Reitz of Chadron, Neb., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Priscilla, to Lt. [j. g.] Theodore Henry Buenger of the navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Buenger of Winnetka. Lt. Buenger, who was at home on leave several weeks ago, now has returned to sea duty. He is a graduate of Princeton and received his navy commission at the naval training school at Northwestern university. Miss Reitz is a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

What's Style at Races? Suit Is First Choice

BY REA SEEGER.

In terms of wartime fashions off to the races means a new flutter of color and a new kind of buying. Few of the racing fans will go by car, so most people will have the fun of decoding train schedules, plus the speed and comfort of traveling by train. For these trips, suits tailored and pressed into streamlined perfection are first choice. Classics in smooth, pale, gold colored silk shantung, cotton, thin summer woolens, and sleek, new dull sheened satins make up the perfect group from which exacting women may make their selections.

Coat dresses rate second choice, smooth affairs with buttons marching down the front and with either very short or long sleeves. Chiffon-linen, total-linen, men's shirting, gingham, chambray and silk, piques and sheer white materials are used for these super comfortable, simply cut coat costumes. Bags, hats, gloves, and belts are the accessories with which to achieve impressive fashion distinction in any grandstand.

Fluttery print dresses, long the special delight of certain women, are available, but the spectacular silk florals are rare sights. Flowered chiffons are and will be far more plentiful, and nothing could be cooler or more flattering for a summer day than such bright colored printed dresses and costumes.

For the occasional cool days the thin wool outfits, combinations of a print dress and a long coat or short jacket lined with the same print of the dress, are still unscratched favorites for any racing meet. White wool skirts with colored jackets, the luxury hand knitted dresses and two-piece suit-dresses in pastels, neutrals like beige, gray, and copper complete the entries for the shoppers looking forward to Chicago racing seasons.

EIGHT TEAMS ASSURED FOR FOOTBALL LEAGUE

Wins 5,000 Meter Race in A.A.U. Meet

New York, June 20 (AP).—Gunder Haegg gave American track fans their first glimpse of the speed and stamina that carried him to seven world records today as he soundly whipped the United States' pride, Greg Rice, in the National A. A. U. meet on Randall's Island.

The gaunt Swede, his long, blond hair flowing in the breeze, set virtually all the pace in the 5,000 meter run and crossed the finish line 35 yards in front of Rice, who suffered his first defeat in his last 66 trips to the post.

Haegg Off Form.

Haegg's time of 14:48.5 was far off his world record standard of 13:58.2 but his seemingly effortless stride captured the fancy of the shirt sleeved crowd, estimated by the officials at 19,000.

Rice, attached to the merchant marine academy at King's Point, N. Y., trailed by 75 yards with a quarter mile to go, and altho he knew he was a beaten man he brought the crowd to its feet with the finishing kick that has made him popular ever since he ran for Notre Dame. The kick cut Haegg's margin almost in half and caused the Swede to open up in the last 100 yards, but there was no catching the flying fireman from Gavle.

The American debut of Haegg naturally was the high spot of the meet that saw all of the net receipts, estimated at more than $70,000 going to the army air forces aid society. Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the army air force, was among the notables on hand to check Haegg's performance.

Davis Wins Two Events.

Hal Davis, Olympic club flyer from San Francisco, and Bill Cummings, Rice institute hurdler, won two events each.

Ensign Cornelius Warmerdam, only man ever to clear 15 feet in the pole vault, did it for the 37th time in taking his specialty at 15 feet. He failed on three attempts to better his championship mark of 15 feet 2½ inches. His world outdoor mark is 15 feet 7¾ inches.

Zoot Suit Hits Dubuque.

It was raining as I came out of the postoffice last night and as I walked along under dripping trees I suddenly got the feeling some one was following me. Glancing out of the tail corner of one eye, I was startled at the long, flapping shadow made by the corner arc light of whomever or whatever it was behind me. Turning abruptly, I said: "Look, you wouldn't by any chance be one of those zoot suiters, would you?" "Hell, no!" came the reply in a high boyish treble. A Twofold Plan.

WHITE SOX BEAT INDIANS, 10-6, THEN LOSE, 7-2

Dietrich Hit Hard in Second Game.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox formally launched a winning streak yesterday, but unhappily it was of short duration. They started it on its way with a 10 to 6 achievement over Cleveland in the front piece of a double header. But in the next game the Indians simply resumed the kicking around of their own best enemy, 7 to 2, for their ninth success of the season in 11 arguments with the Chicagoans.

The defeats put the Sox in an eighth place tie with the Browns. They'd be occupying it in the splendor of solitude except for some mysterious batting power in support of Orval Grove in the opening battle. The Indians had Grove trailing 3 to 0, when his pals came up with a two run third inning, which banished Al Reynolds, then followed with a seven run fourth that eliminated Marvin [Pete] Center and bruised his helper, Al Milnar. After this Grove's fourth victory of the year against no defeats was simple.

Dietrich Fails Again.

In the second game Manager Jim Dykes introduced Bill Dietrich for whom the nine inning route is like a round the world attempt without a ticket. Meantime the Indians introduced Jim Bagby Jr. and the latter was still on the job at the finish with only six hits marring his seventh victory of the year. Dietrich lasted six innings, leaving with a 5 to 2 deficit, two of the runs developing on Michael Rocco's homer. Later there were two more runs off Jake Wade's southpawing, one of them a homer by Ken Keltner. Jim Grant hit the lone Sox homer, his third. It came in the big fourth inning of the first game.

Despite the decline of the Sox attack in the second game, Guy Curtright refused to be a participant. He contributed only one hit in the first battle, but it came in the uproarious six hit fourth inning, then followed thru with two of the six off Bagby. While neither of them figured in run production Guy carried his hitting streak thru 16 successive games.

Sox Fight Back.

Grove got himself into difficulties in the second inning of the first game because of a pass to Heath and a fumble by Grant with none out. A single by Mack sent them home. Singles by Boudreau, Cullenbine and Heath in the third made it 3 to 0, but the Sox responded quickly. They opened their half with a double by Kuhel, single by Turner, single by Grove and pass to Moses before Reynolds had retired anybody. Center was summoned and he stopped the assault with two runs across the plate.

But Center's turn for a pasting arrived when Grant stepped up at the start of the seven-run fourth and plunked his homer into the right field pavilion. Appling went out, but Kuhel singled and Turner, who sprung a charley horse en route, doubled to score Kuhel. The jumpy Boudreau fresh aired Center and brought in Milnar, who walked Grove. Then Moses doubled, Tucker was passed, Curtright singled and after Kolloway's retirement on a grounder, Grant enjoyed a single on a popup that Mack meant to catch but didn't. All this accounted for the seven runs.

Dietrich Falters Early.

Three hits off Grove let the Indians have the pleasure of two runs in the eighth, the Sox scoring once in the same inning on singles by Moses and Kolloway. The only other disturbance was the homer hit into the left field section by rookie Seerey in the ninth.

Dietrich's frailties became evident as soon as he had retired the first Indian in the second game. He walked Manager Boudreau, who took third on a single by Cullenbine and scored when Heath flied to Moses. Hockett opened the third with a single and went to second on Moses' fumble. After Boudreau had furnished a sacrifice, Cullenbine singled again and Hockett scored. Mack's double and a single

CUBS LOSE, 10-9, THEN WIN, 2 TO 1

Second Game with Cards Cut to Five Innings.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 20.—A sympathetic weatherman for the second time in four days came to the rescue of the collapsible Cubs, forestalling the customary eighth inning Chicago faint and giving the tailenders a victory. This weather saved victory today gave Hi Bithorn a 2 to 1, five inning triumph, his third of the year over the champs.

The curtailment was especially welcomed, for in the first game of the double bill before 17,754 the Cubs had suffered their worst collapse of their many foldups this year to lose, 10 to 9, when the Cards made six unearned runs in the eighth. The champs started the whole business after two were out and were helped immeasurably in the flop by three errors by Eddie Stanky, the highly rated rookie. Eddie is supposed to be hard boiled, but if ever a young man had the jitters it was little Eddie.

Bithorn Poison to Cards.

With that good old weatherman functioning so well today, as he did the last day the Cubs were in Pittsburgh, last Friday, it is perhaps the nice thing to show appreciation by saying something about Bithorn's performance before proceeding to details of the horrible spectacles the cellar boys made in the first game here today.

It was his third victory of the season over the Cards and his sixth of the 19 the Cubs have won in the league this year. The Puerto Rican shut out the St. Louisans, 4 to 0, here on April 28 and repeated, 5 to 1, on May 6 in Chicago.

By winning the bobtailed affair here this afternoon the Cubs evened the four game series just concluded. The Cubs would have swept the series, but for the unbelievable eighth inning swoon in the first game and a less spectacular collapse in the eighth inning yesterday. Even so, the Cubs have won 5 of 10 engagements with the champions this year.

Big Foldup in Eighth.

The Cubs made the score 9 to 4 with four runs in the eighth inning of the first game and then came the

Arlington to Open Meeting Today at Washington Park

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago horse racing fans will head toward the south suburban area today for the opening of a long session of sport at Washington Park. From now until Labor day the thorobreds will run at the course near Homewood thru two coordinated meetings, the first 36 days being presented by the Arlington Park organization and the next 31 by Washington Park.

This afternoon's feature event will be the Myrtlewood handicap, a $5,000 stake at six furlongs, which has drawn 11 horses in the overnight entries. The field includes W. E. Boeing's Slide Rule, which has been Count Fleet's closest pursuer in a number of the 3 year old champion's races.

Louis B. Mayer's Thumbs Up has been allotted top weight of 122 pounds. Others in the field are Signator and Pig Tails, which will run as an entry under the Woolford farm colors, Some Chance, Harvard Square, and Bushwhacker.

Run Four Stakes This Week.

In the course of the first week four stakes will be run. The Myrtlewood will be followed on Wednesday by the $5,000 Princess Doreen stakes, a six furlong dash for 3 year old fillies. Thursday's program will be headed by the $5,000 Primer stakes, which will draw some mighty fast juveniles for a sprint of five and a half furlongs. Then on Saturday will come the $10,000 Equipoise Mile, for 3 year olds and up.

During the two coördinated meetings, five $50,000 stakes will be presented. These are the Classic and the American Derby for 3 year olds, and three handicaps—the Stars and Stripes, the Arlington, and the Washington Park. In addition there will be the Arlington and the Washington Park futurities, each with $20,000 added, which usually goes in the neighborhood of $65,000 with eligibility and starting fees.

Programs Attract the Best.

B. F. Lindheimer, executive director of both tracks, has mapped a program in consultation with General Manager John Jackson and Racing Secretary Webb Everett, which has attracted horses of top caliber in every classification. The uniformly high level of daily purses, the minimum being $1,500, will assure good performers in the supporting events on every card.

The crowds will be transported to the track by the Illinois Central suburban trains. Coaches used on this line are placed in the same class as local street cars by the national transportation authorities because they are so constructed that they cannot be adapted for general use on any other track in the country.

To avoid conflict with the regular rush hour traffic on the line, post time for the first race has been set at 3 p. m. for weekdays, 2:15 for Saturday, and 2 p. m. on July 5 and Labor day.

As was the case last year, President John D. Allen of Arlington Park and President Walter L. Gregory of Washington Park have announced that the receipts of July 5 and Labor day will be turned over to war relief organizations.

Handicap Field

ELEVEN horses were named in the overnight entries for the $5,000 Myrtlewood handicap, a six furlong dash which will head today's opening program of Arlington Park's meeting at Washington Park. The field, in order of post position, follows:

GREENBERG TOPS TALBERT, KEEPS NATIONAL TITLE

Detroit, Mich., June 20 (AP).—Seymour Greenberg, the little left hander from Chicago, today joined Bill Tilden, Bryan Grant, and Bobby Riggs as successful defenders of the National Clay Courts tennis championship.

In 33 years of competition, 18 players have won the clay courts, and the 22 year old Greenberg became the fourth to capture it two times in a row by defeating top-seeded Billy Talbert of Cincinnati, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3. Greenberg was seeded second.

The only upset of the tournament came in men's doubles where Earl Cochell and Bob Kimbrell of Los Angeles defeated Talbert and Greenberg for the title, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2. Talbert won the crown last year with William Reedy of Los Angeles, now in the marines.

In the women's doubles final Pauline Betz and Nancy Corbett, both from Rollins college, Florida, defeated Mary Hernando and Mildred Sirwaitis of Detroit, 6-3, 6-3.

The Great Lakes nine, whose scheduled game with the Fort Sheridan soldiers was postponed yesterday, will meet the Cleveland Indians of the American league this afternoon at Great Lakes.

BOSTON SET TO ENTER CIRCUIT IN 1944 SEASON

2 Applications for Franchises Tabled.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The National Football league will operate this season with eight teams and another one on the sidelines, ready to plunge into action in 1944. A franchise was granted yesterday afternoon to Ted Collins, radio news commentator, manager of Kate Smith, and an enthusiastic football fan. Collins' representative, William Shea, a suave, young New York lawyer, said arrangements will be started immediately to set up an organization in Boston. The new team's games probably will be played in Fenway park, home of the Red Sox.

The league tabled until its December meeting two other franchise applications, one by Don Ameche, film and radio star, the other by Charles Murray, Buffalo, N. Y., promoter.

The granting of one franchise and the holding up of two when all had been requested at the same time and under the same conditions puzzled sideline observers. It was reported that the league wanted to study problems, not the least of which was transportation, before breaking major league precedent by going into Los Angeles.

Marshall Approves Franchise.

As for Boston, it was in the league as late as 1936 when George Preston Marshall pulled out of that city in favor of Washington. It was Marshall who yesterday made the motion that the league grant Collins a Boston franchise effective in 1944. John V. Mara of the New York Giants seconded the motion. Also Collins and Shea have had professional football experience, as operators of the Long Island Redskins of the American association, presently a war victim.

There was a report that Frank E. Mandel of Chicago, who withdrew on Saturday an application for a Boston franchise, looked with interest on San Francisco in the event Los Angeles comes into the league.

With the actual number of active teams for 1943 known and the flood of franchise business out of the way, the league proceeded to discuss the 1943 schedule, which calls for each team playing 10 games. For the first time in its history, each team will play the other. The new sectional alignment is: West—Bears, Cardinals, Green Bay Packers, and Detroit Lions; East—New York Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers, Washington Redskins, Eagle-Steelers.

Six Home-and-Home Games.

Six of the 10 games will be a home-and-home arrangement within each division. The other four will be singles against teams of the other division. In past years, the teams have played 11 games each.

The evening schedule session generated the expected period of debate. All agreed that President Elmer Layden has presented a dandy schedule, but most of the cities had individual problems which made necessary revisions in a few playing dates. The main barrier to a happy solution of the schedule was the unavailability of many of the major league baseball parks until October. The season starts in mid-September.

Despite two motions to adjourn, the haranguing over the schedule continued until the early morning hours, with league officials determined to close the business without extending the meeting into another full day. The rival club owners, always watchful of their own interests in getting the right games at the right time and at the right place, showed no inclination to break the deadlock. They ordered coffee at 12:50 a. m. and debated until almost 2 o'clock, when a third motion to adjourn until 10 a. m. was made and carried.

Had the league told Collins to start operating this year in Boston, the coach probably would have been Vern Lewellen, former Nebraska and Green Bay star, Shea said. He de-

WOMEN TEE OFF TODAY IN MEET FOR STATE TITLE

Olympia Fields Host to Stellar Field.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The tenth annual tournament of the Illinois Women's State Golf association will tee off this morning over No. 1 course of the Olympia Fields Country club to ignite two crowded weeks of activity in the Chicago district, since Olympia Fields next week will be the scene of the 47th annual tourney of the National Collegiate Athletic association, while the Salute to Victory event of the Women's Western Golf association will be going on at Glen Oak.

The state tournament has enlisted another strong field, including several players whose presence should sharpen their play in the Western at Glen Oak. Leading the field of more than 75 players is Virginia Ingram of Sunset Ridge, who rallied to win the title from Dorothy Foster of Springfield in a 36 hole thriller at Peoria. Miss Ingram proved she was ready last Friday, when she captured the first open day tournament of the Chicago Women's District Golf association at La Grange.

Seeks Second Title.

Miss Foster, who won the inaugural state in 1934, will return to seek a second title. Other favorites include Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, former western junior champion; Mrs. Lillian Zech Krauss of Tam O'Shanter, present county champion; Mrs. Evelyn Moore of Navajo Fields, former county titleholder, and Mrs. F. P. Hammond of Olympia Fields. Today's qualifying round will determine the match play field of 16 qualifiers in the championship flight, with other scorers playing in subsidiary brackets. The tournament will continue thru Friday.

Tomorrow also will find the Illinois Seniors' Golf association playing the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields in their 20th annual spring tournament. Tournament Chairman William B. Langford already has received approximately 150 entries for the event, which will begin at 9 a. m., continuing at six minute intervals.

Bob o' Link Hullabaloo.

The 22d annual Bob o' Link Hullabaloo, one of the best invitationals in the section, will be transacted over 36 holes again, 18 tomorrow, and 18 Wednesday. A field of 200 is expected.

The 37th annual tournament of the Lumbermen's Golf association of Chicago, oldest trade golf organization in the game, will be held Friday at Calumet.

The Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America and Walter Keller yesterday announced that a special golf clinic, enlisting the services of several of the country's outstanding stars, will be held at Keller's fairways, Addison, Elston, and Kedzie avenues, on the afternoon and evening of July 21.

WITTEK HURLER STRIKES OUT 16 IN 3D TRIUMPH

John Sedgewick, pitching for the Witteks of the Metropolitan Amateur Baseball league, struck out 16 men as his team beat the Goldammers, 15 to 0, in Kilbourn park yesterday. It was the Witeks' third straight victory.

Lefty Wallinger of the Skardas and Bob Smith of the River Grove Nationals were other Metropolitan pitchers turning in good performances. Wallinger beat the Harmons, 3 to 2, and Smith turned back the Liberals, 4 to 3. Weather interfered with the league program, only five of the 14 games scheduled being played. Scores:

Cleveland, O., June 20 [Special].—The Chicago American Giants defeated the Cleveland Buckeyes in a double header today before 8,000, 4 to 2 and 9 to 0. Willie Cornelius pitched the first game, yielding four hits and LeRoy Sutton pitched for the Giants in the second, giving up only two hits.

Hansas Beat Slovaks, 6 to 0, in Soccer Match

The Hansas defeated the Slovaks, 6 to 0, in an International Soccer league major division match played yesterday. The Slovak reserves beat the Hansa reserves, 3 to 1. Other matches were postponed because of weather, among them being the juvenile division games for the Cameron trophy.

Dog Clinic Will Be Feature of Skokie Program

An open air dog clinic, where the average dog owner can talk to a graduate veterinarian about the care of the family pet, will be one of the popular features of the Skokie Valley Kennel club show to be held in Dyche stadium next Saturday, June 26. Prominent veterinarians will be present for this free clinic, the first of its kind ever included in a Chicago Bench show.

Entries for the show close June 20. Officers of the Skokie club said yesterday that, judging by the advance entries, the exhibits of cocker spaniels, dachsund, and Boston terriers will be among the largest in the show. In former years the cocker spaniel, America's most popular breed, has had the largest entry.

THE GUMPS—ANDY TALKED TOO LOUD

College Net Meet Opens Today at N.U.

Forty-nine of the nation's outstanding tennis players will begin play in the 59th annual national collegiate tennis tournament on the Northwestern university courts in Evanston at 1 p. m. today. The opening day's competition will consist of the first round of the singles division. The doubles is not slated to start until Wednesday.

Twenty schools from all sections of the country are represented in the field which, from the standpoint of quality, is one of the best in the recent history of the tournament. FRIENDLY ENEMIES

Cubs Win, 2-1, After Losing to Cards, 10-9

Walker Cooper opened the inning with a fly to Mowrey. Kurowski popped to Hack. Marion dribbled a roller toward third which Hack missed when he tried for a bare hand grab. It went for a single. Ray Sanders walked. O'Dea batted for Lanier, the fifth Cardinal pitcher, and was safe on Stanky's first fumble, loading the bases. Klein tripled to right scoring Marion, Sanders, and O'Dea.

Warneke Goes Away.

Derringer replaced Warneke. Walker sent an easy grounder to Stanky who fumbled, Klein scoring the fourth run of the inning, and the score was then 9 to 8. Musial also sent an easy grounder to Stanky who again permitted the ball to pop out of his glove, after which Litwhiler walked, filling the bases. W. Cooper, up the second time in the inning, ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then singled to left, scoring Walker with the tying run and Musial with the winning run. Kurowski ended the inning with a foul to Heck.

Nicholson's Hitting Nullified.

Morton Cooper, beneficiary in yesterday's eighth inning, became the sixth Cardinal pitcher at the start of the ninth. Dallessandro and Lowrey were called out on strikes and McCullough flied to Musial to end the game.

An especially disappointing phase of the first game faint was the fact it nullified some fine slugging by Bill Nicholson, who knocked two two-run homers long before the eighth inning plunge. The first homer, off Harry Gumbert came with Phil Cavarretta on base, gave the Cubs a 2 to 0 lead. The second, an in the park smash off the 422 foot marker in center, with Stanky on the base, was made off Harry Brecheen, third of the parade of six Card pitchers, in the seventh, and affected a 5 to 2 lead. Kewpie Barrett then precipitated a jam with a run producing balk and before Lon Warneke could restore calm the score was Chicago, 5; St. Louis, 4.

The Same Old Story.

Hack scored in the first inning of the second game on his single, backed up by singles propelled by Cavarretta and Nicholson. Pollet struck out the side in the second inning, but the Cubs got one run, and would have had more in the third inning but for some more of that Cub base running. Hack opened the inning with his second single and when Litwhiler momentarily juggled the ball, Stan tried for second. Marion had the ball waiting for him when he arrived. It was the third time in the series that the Cub captain was thrown out by Card outfielders and it was the sixth time in the series the Card outfielders disillusioned Cubs about their speed ideas. Stanky singled off Pollet's glove and scored on Cavarretta's triple to left, but Nicholson fanned and Cavarretta was out trying to steal home.

Marion, who wasted a double in the third, was the only Cardinal to get on base until two were out in the fourth. Then Litwhiler walked and went to third on O'Dea's single to right and Kurowski singled to center scoring Litwhiler with the second run the Cards had made off Bithorn in 22 innings this season. Hopp then popped to Merullo.

It appeared that the game might be stopped before the legal minimum of five innings. With one out in the fifth Pollet and Klein singled. Then the game went to a legal status when Walker flied to Nicholson and Bithorn tossed out Musial. Then the contest was suspended.

GLIDER WINS IN SHERIDAN SHORE STAR CLASS RACE

Al Bingham sailed the Sheridan Shore Yacht club sloop Glider to first place yesterday in the club's 12 mile race for Star class sloops off Wilmette harbor. Glider covered the course in 2 hours, 13 minutes, and 3 seconds. Don Bergman's Fram was runner-up, finishing 49 seconds later. Carol, owned by Lt. Harold Elliott, U. S. C. G. R. [T.], finished third in 2:14:58. Next in order were Roger Friskey's Rhapsody, Emerson Raymond's Dolphin, and Jack Hayford in Twinkle Ditto.

Australian Tag Matches Top White City Program

Two Australian tag team matches will head Fred Kohler's wrestling show this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Gordon Hessel and Frankie Hart will meet Grunter Lewis and Jack Zeravich, while Ivan Kalmikoff and Charles [Gorilla] Grubmyer will face Dory Funk and Ned Taylor.

Clowns, Barons Victors in Negro Double Header

The Cincinnati Clowns defeated the Chicago Black Bombers, 9 to 2, and the Birmingham Black Barons beat the New York Cubans, 6 to 1, in a double header before 6,000 spectators in Wrigley field yesterday.

MATCHES WIN GAME.

Les Faust pitched the Match Corporation of America softball team to its fifth victory of the year last night in Park Ridge, beating the Commissioner Ericksons of Evanston, 8 to 1.

Dawson, Joyce Top Marigold Card Tonight

Fred Dawson, former Catholic Youth organization champion, will attempt to keep his professional record clear of defeats in an eight round return bout with Jimmy Joyce in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

Dawson beat the Gary lightweight recently. It probably was his hardest test in the money ranks altho one of his nine earlier appearances ended in a draw. Fred, who scored victories in his eight other starts, had to survive two knockdowns to beat Joyce.

Another rematch will be an eight round event between Al Reasoner, Hines, Ill., 135 pounder, and Roy Lewis, Muncie, Ind., boxer, who is a former Chicago Golden Gloves featherweight titleholder. Reasoner knocked out Lewis in their first encounter, but Lewis has trained more seriously for this encore than for any previous match.

by Bagby in the fifth made it 3 to 0.

A single by Appling with one out and a single by Tresh with two out in the fifth enabled the Sox to get into the run column, but this slight creep toward a tie didn't mean anything as the result of a little more bruising of Dietrich in the sixth. Keltner slapped a double to left and Rocco pumped his homer to right, his first one since the Indians called him in from Buffalo. At the end of the inning Dykes decided he had seen enough of Dietrich for one day.

The Sox scored in the seventh because Keltner blundered on Tresh's grounder after Kuhel had singled and stolen second. Keltner compensated for his error by hitting his first 1943 homer to left in the eighth. The Indians scored another off Wade in the ninth on a pass to De Sautels, a sacrifice and a single by Bagby.

BROWNS NEXT FOR SOX

The White Sox will play the Browns tomorrow night but they'll start for St. Louis this morning to be doubly certain they won't be late. The pitching job for the electric light affair will be handled by Johnny Humphries.

As a result of the charley horse which developed in his left thigh while he was running out a double in the productive fourth inning of the first game, Catcher Tom Turner may be on the sidelines for several days.

WAR CONTRACT RENEGOTIATION LAW ASSAILED

Bridges Offers Plan for Bond Buying.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—Sen. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] and Rep. Robert A. Grant [R., Ind.] tonight attacked the government's war contract renegotiation act as making no allowances whatever for cash reserves with which to reconvert industry to the production of peace time goods.

Sen. Bridges.

Offering a solution to the problem, Sen. Bridges proposed that industries working on war contracts be permitted to purchase government bonds with all profits above a certain level, rather than undergo the tribulations of renegotiation and the subsequent loss of profits. The renegotiation act provides for adjustments in prices of war materials as production costs change.

"The cash reserves accrued in these bonds would be earmarked for specific purposes, to be expended at fixed intervals over a period to meet emergencies of reconversion and deflation," Sen. Bridges explained. "Thus, the government would get money now for war needs and industry would have assurance of cash reserves for peacetime enterprises."

Participate in Debate.

Sen. Bridges and Rep. Grant were participants in a debate on the renegotiation question, currently the subject of hearings before the house naval affairs committee, on Theodore Granik's American forum of the air, broadcast from Washington and carried by WGN and Mutual. Subject of the discussion was "Taking the Profiteering Out of the War."

Other participants were Scott Russell, president of the Bibb Manufacturing company, Macon, Ga., S. C. Allyn, president of the National Cash Register company, and Maurice Karker, Chicago, chairman of the war department price adjustment board. Allyn and Karker supported the renegotiation act.

Rep. Grant, a member of the naval affairs committee, said "all of us are agreed that no man should make inordinate profits out of this war. At the same time we must be equally determined that our system of private enterprise shall survive in the difficult period of readjustment that will follow."

Allowance Is One-sided.

He declared that "therein lies the most glaring deficiency in the renegotiation act." He asked why the government should allow conversion into war business as an item of cost but refuse a company permission to set up any reserves for reconversion after the war.

"If present tax rates are not effective to really recapture excessive profits," Rep. Grant inquired, "then why shouldn't they be revised so that they will more effectively do the job? It is a terrific and an awful power to vest in three individuals the right to sit down at the table of American industry and, without any fixed formula, to tell American industry how much money must be paid over to the government over and above the obligations to the tax collector."

Russell said it was unfair to force a company doing government business to renegotiate, while its competitor, doing a private business, sold the same goods to civilian consumers at higher costs.

Allyn Defends System.

Allyn replied he preferred the contract renegotiation setup to a plan whereby his excess profits would pass to the government thru excess profits taxes. He said he did not want his company's financial statements to show that it was making "excessive" profits on its war contracts. He discounted claims that renegotiation leaves a manufacturer uncertain of what his income will be for any period. He said war always creates such uncertainty.

Karker asserted that renegotiation "is the best answer yet devised to that problem which has plagued every war time President of the United States since George Washington."

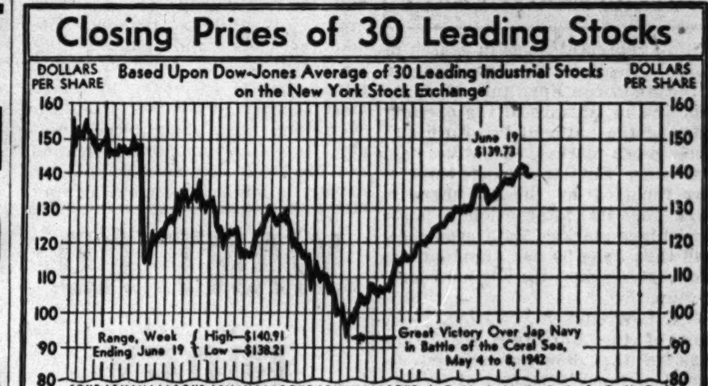
"It is the best safeguard yet developed," he said, "to see to it that the people's money is spent with intelligence and rigid economy."

CLOSED SHOP DISPUTE BLOCKS BUILDING OF NEW AIRCRAFT PLANT

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 20 (AP).—About 250 members of a common laborers union quit work at a 5 million dollar Douglas Aircraft plant today in a closed shop dispute.

W. A. Meyer, secretary of the Oklahoma City Construction and Building Trades council, said the men stopped work because of what he termed a violation of a closed shop agreement. Leo Sanders, the contractor, said he had the rignt to employ nonunion men if the union could not fill his requisition for union members within 48 hours.

Maj. E. A. Cornell, area army engineer, had no comment on the work stoppage, which occurred just two days after he appealed for 800 more men to speed completion of the plant.



Plan for U. S. 'Grab' of Rail Rule Attacked

The Transportation Association of America yesterday assailed recommendations of the National Resources Planning board that railroad transportation facilities be placed under a federal agency for reorganization and modernization after the war.

In a monthly letter to members, the association warned against the possibility that the industry might be taken over by the government and used as a springboard for a vast post-war program of socialized public works.

The board's plan called for making railroad terminals and rights of way a part of the public domain along with highways, waterways, and the air, to be owned and controled by a single federal agency, the letter recalled. The government then would lease back the rights of way to privately owned railroad companies.

"Pretext" Usually Given.

"The public is usually given some plausible pretext for the imposition of political nostrums," it said. "There was the demand for 'security,' growing out of the depths of the depression; there were the 'ill housed and the ill fed.' The government came forward with one experiment after another to 'fill the gap left in an economic system which private business failed to plug up.'

"But, now the planning board anticipates a new 'emergency.' It finds that transportation in America is about to 'break down,'—that financing from private sources will not be available after the war. This is a pure assumption to fit the recommendation. Only the government itself can bring about such a set of conditions."

Corporate Method "Used."

The association also charged that the federal government is making use of the "'corporation method' to exercise the full benefits of government resources and power, yet circumventing the controls which are placed by congress when granting federal authority to government departments." Proponents of deficit spending find the government corporation the best tool for the purpose of whittling away and eventually destroying private industry, it asserted.

"Almost without notice burocracy can use these corporations to promote inflation [while politicians are giving lip service to its control]: can pyramid the cost of government at will, and can displace private enterprise wherever it stands in the way of the 'planned' program."

WORKING FORCE CLIMBS TO PEAK NEAR 61 MILLION

New York, June 20 (AP).—The National Industrial Conference board said today total employment rose to a record number of 60,900,000 in April with nearly 900,000 of the 1,300,000 workers added during the month going directly into farm work. Most of the other recruits entered military service, the private research organization said.

Industrial employment declined by more than 160,000, and the increase in factory employment was the smallest since Pearl Harbor. Despite the increase to 9,900,000 in farm employment, the total remained 250,000 less than a year earlier and about 750,000 below the level of 1937-1939. The total also was less than during World War I.

Compared with April, 1942, fully 7½ million more persons were employed in the corresponding month this year.

ENLIST BANKER AID IN HELPING SMALL BUSINESS

Washington, D. C., June 20.—Brig. Gen. Robert W. Johnson, chairman of Smaller War Plants corporation, announced tonight that the support of the American Bankers' association had been enlisted as part of the effort to give little business a larger part in the war and civilian production programs.

Gen. Johnson made public a letter from W. L. Hemingway, president of the A. B. A., which said that bankers would be glad to assist in the program, and that he had asked the coöperation of state bankers' associations. The association is arranging to have SWPC officials appear at state banking meetings to explain details and operations of the plan.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO TAX—3.

When deduction or withholding of the income tax from pay checks begins, it will not be a 20 per cent bite from the gross amount of the taxpayer's wage or salary for the period. Every one is allowed certain personal exemptions and credits for dependents, and the withholding is based on the net amount of earnings after allowance for these items. For example, a married man earning $50 a week would not be subject to a 20 per cent deduction from $50: his exemption as a married man would be $24 for the week, and the 20 per cent withholding would be figured on the remaining $26.

The personal exemption from withholding is $624 per year for a single person, $1,248 for a head of a family or a married person claiming all of the exemption, and $312 for each dependent [other than the first for a head of a family].

Pay roll Period	Single person.	*Married or family head.	Dependents.
Weekly	$ 12	$ 24	$ 6
Bi-weekly	24	48	12
Semi-monthly	26	52	13
Monthly	52	104	26
Quarterly	156	312	78
Semi-annually	312	624	156
Annually	624	1,248	312
Daily	1.70	3.40	0.85

*A married person may claim all or none of the exemption allowed both spouses or it may be split evenly between them.

In some cases an individual's exemptions might be such that he would not be subject to the full 20 per cent withholding, yet he might be subject to withholding at a lower rate. The new law provides that there shall be a minimum withholding of 3 per cent of the excess of each wage payment over the victory tax withholding exemption. The latter exemption, which is the same for all taxpayers, regardless of family status, is as follows on the basis of the pay roll period:

Weekly	$12	Quarterly	$156
Bi-weekly	24	Semi-annually	312
Semi-monthly	26	Annually	624
Monthly	52	Daily	1.70

[Tuesday's Investors' Guide will discuss the employers' optional methods of computing the withholding deduction, and the tax rates used in connection with the pay-as-you-go law.]

BARRETT MOVES AGAINST RAISED SUBURBAN FARES

Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett said yesterday that he will file in Superior court today motions to dissolve injunctions which have protected 10 per cent suburban fare increases for the Illinois Central and Chicago and North Western railroads since Jan. 4.

The OPA filed similar motions last Friday, and counsel for the two railroads were given until next Thursday to file answers.

TAXES DEVOUR NEARLY ALL '42 EARNINGS GAIN

First Quarter Profit This Year Rises.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 20.—Increased federal taxes almost completely wiped out a 35 per cent rise in corporation earnings last year, and stockholders took a 10 per cent cut in dividend payments, the department of commerce reported today. For the first quarter of 1943, however, it was estimated that corporation profits increased 18 per cent despite the high taxes.

Tynan Smith and Robert Sherman of the division of research and statistics, bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, reported in the June issue of the Survey of Current Business that corporate earnings before taxes rose from an estimated 13 billion 938 million dollars in 1941 to 18 billion 748 million last year.

Gain Cut to 1 per Cent.

Most of this big increase was absorbed by taxes, however, leaving a gain of less than 1 per cent in net profits, they reported.

On the basis of present corporate tax rates, profits after taxes for the first quarter of this year amounted to 1 billion 821 million dollars, approximately 18 per cent more than in the first three months of 1942, Smith and Sherman said.

The transportation group of companies had an increase of 130 millions in profits after taxes last year over the 345 million estimated profits of 1941. Moderate gains registered by the communications group and others also helped offset the decline of 106 millions from 1941 levels by the nation's manufacturers who had net profits of 4 billion 428 millions last year.

War Industries Gain Most.

Manufacturing and transportation, the two groups employed most directly in serving war needs, recorded the sharpest gains in profits after taxes during the first quarter of 1943. Most durable goods producers, except iron and steel companies, registered substantial increases. Earnings of the automobile industry before taxes were up 41 per cent over the first quarter of 1942.

The report attributed part of the decline in dividend payments last year to the large payments of preferred stock dividend arrears during 1941 and the subsequent return to the regular dividend rates during 1942.

To the holders of Poli-New England Theatres, Inc. First Mortgage Bonds dated as of November 15, 1933, due November 15, 1958:

STEEL DEMANDS RISE THO NEEDS OF WAR CHANGE

Coal Mine Strikes Peril Output of Pig Iron.

Cleveland, O., June 20 (AP).—Steel mill schedules have tightened further, tho various consumers have been forced to modify operations because of reductions in some lines of ordnance, the magazine Steel reported today.

"Cancellations and suspensions in some war programs are being offset by increased consumption in others," the trade publication said, "and qualified observers believe the stringency will grow, especially in view of increased needs when the invasion of Europe is under way."

Coal strikes have made the pig iron situation uncertain, the magazine said. Altho coke production is at capacity, many blast furnaces would be shut down by another extended stoppage because they are operating on such a close margin on supplies.

Ships and Planes Top Demand.

"Ships and airplanes continue to furnish the backbone of demand for steel and top all other war requirements, with extension of these programs scheduled to continue," it said.

"While shipbuilding centers heavily on plates it also takes considerable tonnage of light shapes and is a factor in many other materials—wire rope, pipe and tubing, sheets, strips, and bars. The extent to which subcontracting and prefabrication is used in ship work is illustrated by a recent award by an eastern ship yard of 40,000 tons of prefabricated work to subcontractors in its area. This class of work puts heavy burdens on welding and flame-cutting departments.

Backlogs Extend into 1944.

"The tight situation has filled mill books generally thru the third quarter, with backlogs extending beyond, in some cases long range programs specifying into next year. In cases where [war] program changes leave gaps on books other demand immediately fills in."

National ingot production climbed two points last week to return the estimated operating rate to 98½ per cent of capacity. The Pittsburgh district regained 7½ points to 97½ per cent of capacity, Wheeling advanced 4 points to 90, St. Louis 2 points to 95, Birmingham 5 points to 100, Cincinnati 5 points to 93, and Detroit 4 points to 87. Eastern Pennsylvania lost 1 point to 94, and Cleveland ½ point to 94½. Rates were unchanged in the Chicago and Youngstown districts.

ACCIDENTS BAR NEW RECORD FOR ORE SHIPMENTS

Cleveland, O., June 20 [Special].—Hopes that the Great Lakes fleet would haul a record total of 14 million tons of ore this month and reduce the early season deficit of 8 million tons have been abandoned, vessel owners disclosed today. Operators said they would be satisfied if the total equaled the 12,557,059 tons brought down to steel mills in June, 1942.

A series of accidents and adverse weather conditions retarded the flow of ore last week. The big freighter George M. Humphrey sank in the Straits of Mackinac after a collision with the D. M. Clemson, which was badly damaged.

Complying with the office of defense transportation order to shift all bulk carriers into the ore trade, operators transferred about 12 vessels from carrying grain trade last week, but the accidents prevented any sizeable increase in the carrying capacity of the ore fleet.

SWIFT WORKERS WILL GET $5,220 IN PRIZE AWARDS

Fourteen thousand Chicago employés of Swift & Co. have been invited to attend a ceremony at 4 p. m. tomorrow in Comiskey park, 35th street and Shields avenue, at which the company will present $5,220 in prizes to workers who have contributed noteworthy suggestions since Jan. 1 for improvements at the packing company plant.

It is the first time in the 17 years that the suggestion plan has been operating at Swift & Co. plants that the program has been held outside the stockyards. H. H. Swift, vice chairman of Swift & Co., and Mayor Edward J. Kelly will speak and L. W. Bermond, Chicago plant manager, and H. H. Donohew, general office manager, will present prizes for the 400 acceptable suggestions.

Entertainment, including circus acts and a baseball game between a Navy pier team and the Swift All-Stars, will precede the presentations.

WPB SUSPENDS PRIORITIES FOR ELECTRIC FIRM

J. S. Jacobson company, electrical supply firm, has been denied priorities rights for three months beginning today the war production board's regional Chicago office announced. WPB said the company filled orders for 1,334,175 feet of insulated copper wire not covered by proper preference ratings.

German Control of Swiss Held Watch Maker Blow

Indianapolis, Ind., June 20 (AP).—Henry Schmidt of Springfield, Ill., said today that Germany's "stranglehold" on Switzerland, Sweden, and Norway has handicapped United States watch manufacturers in obtaining needed parts, and materials. Addressing the Watchmakers' Association of Indiana, he said also that Germany collects $1 for every watch Switzerland ships to the United States.

HOME FURNISHINGS SHOWS OPEN TODAY; BUYERS ARRIVE EARLY

Store representatives in search of merchandise have been checking in at the American Furniture Mart for two days in advance of the opening today of the national furniture and home goods market, executives said yesterday. Similar advance interest was reported by the Merchandise Mart for its international home furnishings market. Both events extend thru June 30 and supplant the two week markets usually held early in July.

Col. Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the Furniture mart, emphasized the showing received approval of the WPB office of civilian requirements and is held to be in accord with the office of defense transportation's policy of eliminating unnecessary travel.

Hundreds of retailers came in advance hoping to get choice selections, many of them in severe need of merchandise, particularly in war plant areas, the show management reported.

John C. Goodall, general manager of the Merchandise Mart, said equitable allotment of merchandise to retailers had been possible only thru mutual understanding of war time problems.

Shortage May Cost the South Its Corn Pone

Corn pone, a staple in the diet in the south, may become scarce if the corn marketing stalemate is not ended soon. Other food products made of corn, such as grits and breakfast corn flakes, also may become difficult to obtain, headquarters of the American Corn Millers' association disclosed yesterday.

"It is a desperate situation," said Harry Hunter, secretary of the association. "Many mills will have to close in a matter of days unless something is done to bring out the supplies needed by the industry."

Make Variety of Products.

Members of the association mill corn meal, grits, and flakes, and also manufacture products used by brewers and by foundries engaged in war work.

Suggestions have been made that the government reduce hog prices to a level more in line with the corn ceiling price, raise corn ceilings to a level with hog prices, or take the ceiling off corn. Diversion of corn to live stock feeders has been blamed for part of the severe shrinkage in supplies for refiners.

Manufacturers and distributors said there was a possibility of a serious shortage in breakfast cereals made from corn. Because more cereals are being consumed than before the war, most manufacturers were said to have had difficulty in meeting increased demands even before the corn supply situation became acute.

Don't Blame Farmers.

With a ceiling price on corn and a "floor" under hogs, processors of corn products said they did not blame farmers for using corn for feed or holding it for higher prices. Some read political significance in the situation, as being an attempt to straddle the fence of higher prices for farmers and lower food costs for labor.

The calling of government loans last week was said to have had negligible effect on deliveries of corn to processors and millers. Many farmers were reported to be paying off the loans and holding the corn, or refinancing the loans thru private bankers.

Number of Stockholders of General Motors Rises

New York, June 20 [Special].—The number of stockholders of General Motors corporation was 414,247, the second highest on record in the second quarter of 1943, compared with a peak of 414,852 a year earlier and 414,184 in the preceding quarter. There were 392,725 common stockholders on May 13 and 21,522 holders of preferred stock on April 5.

Broader Use of Pigskin as Leather to Be Sought

Washington, D. C., June 20 (AP).—Wider use of pigskin in shoes and gloves to increase leather supplies will be canvassed by a "task group" of packers, tanners, shoe manufacturers, and hide dealers appointed by the WPB to determine what is necessary to obtain more leather production from the 80 million hogs slaughtered annually. Only small amounts of leather are produced now because pigskin usually is left on the meat as rind.

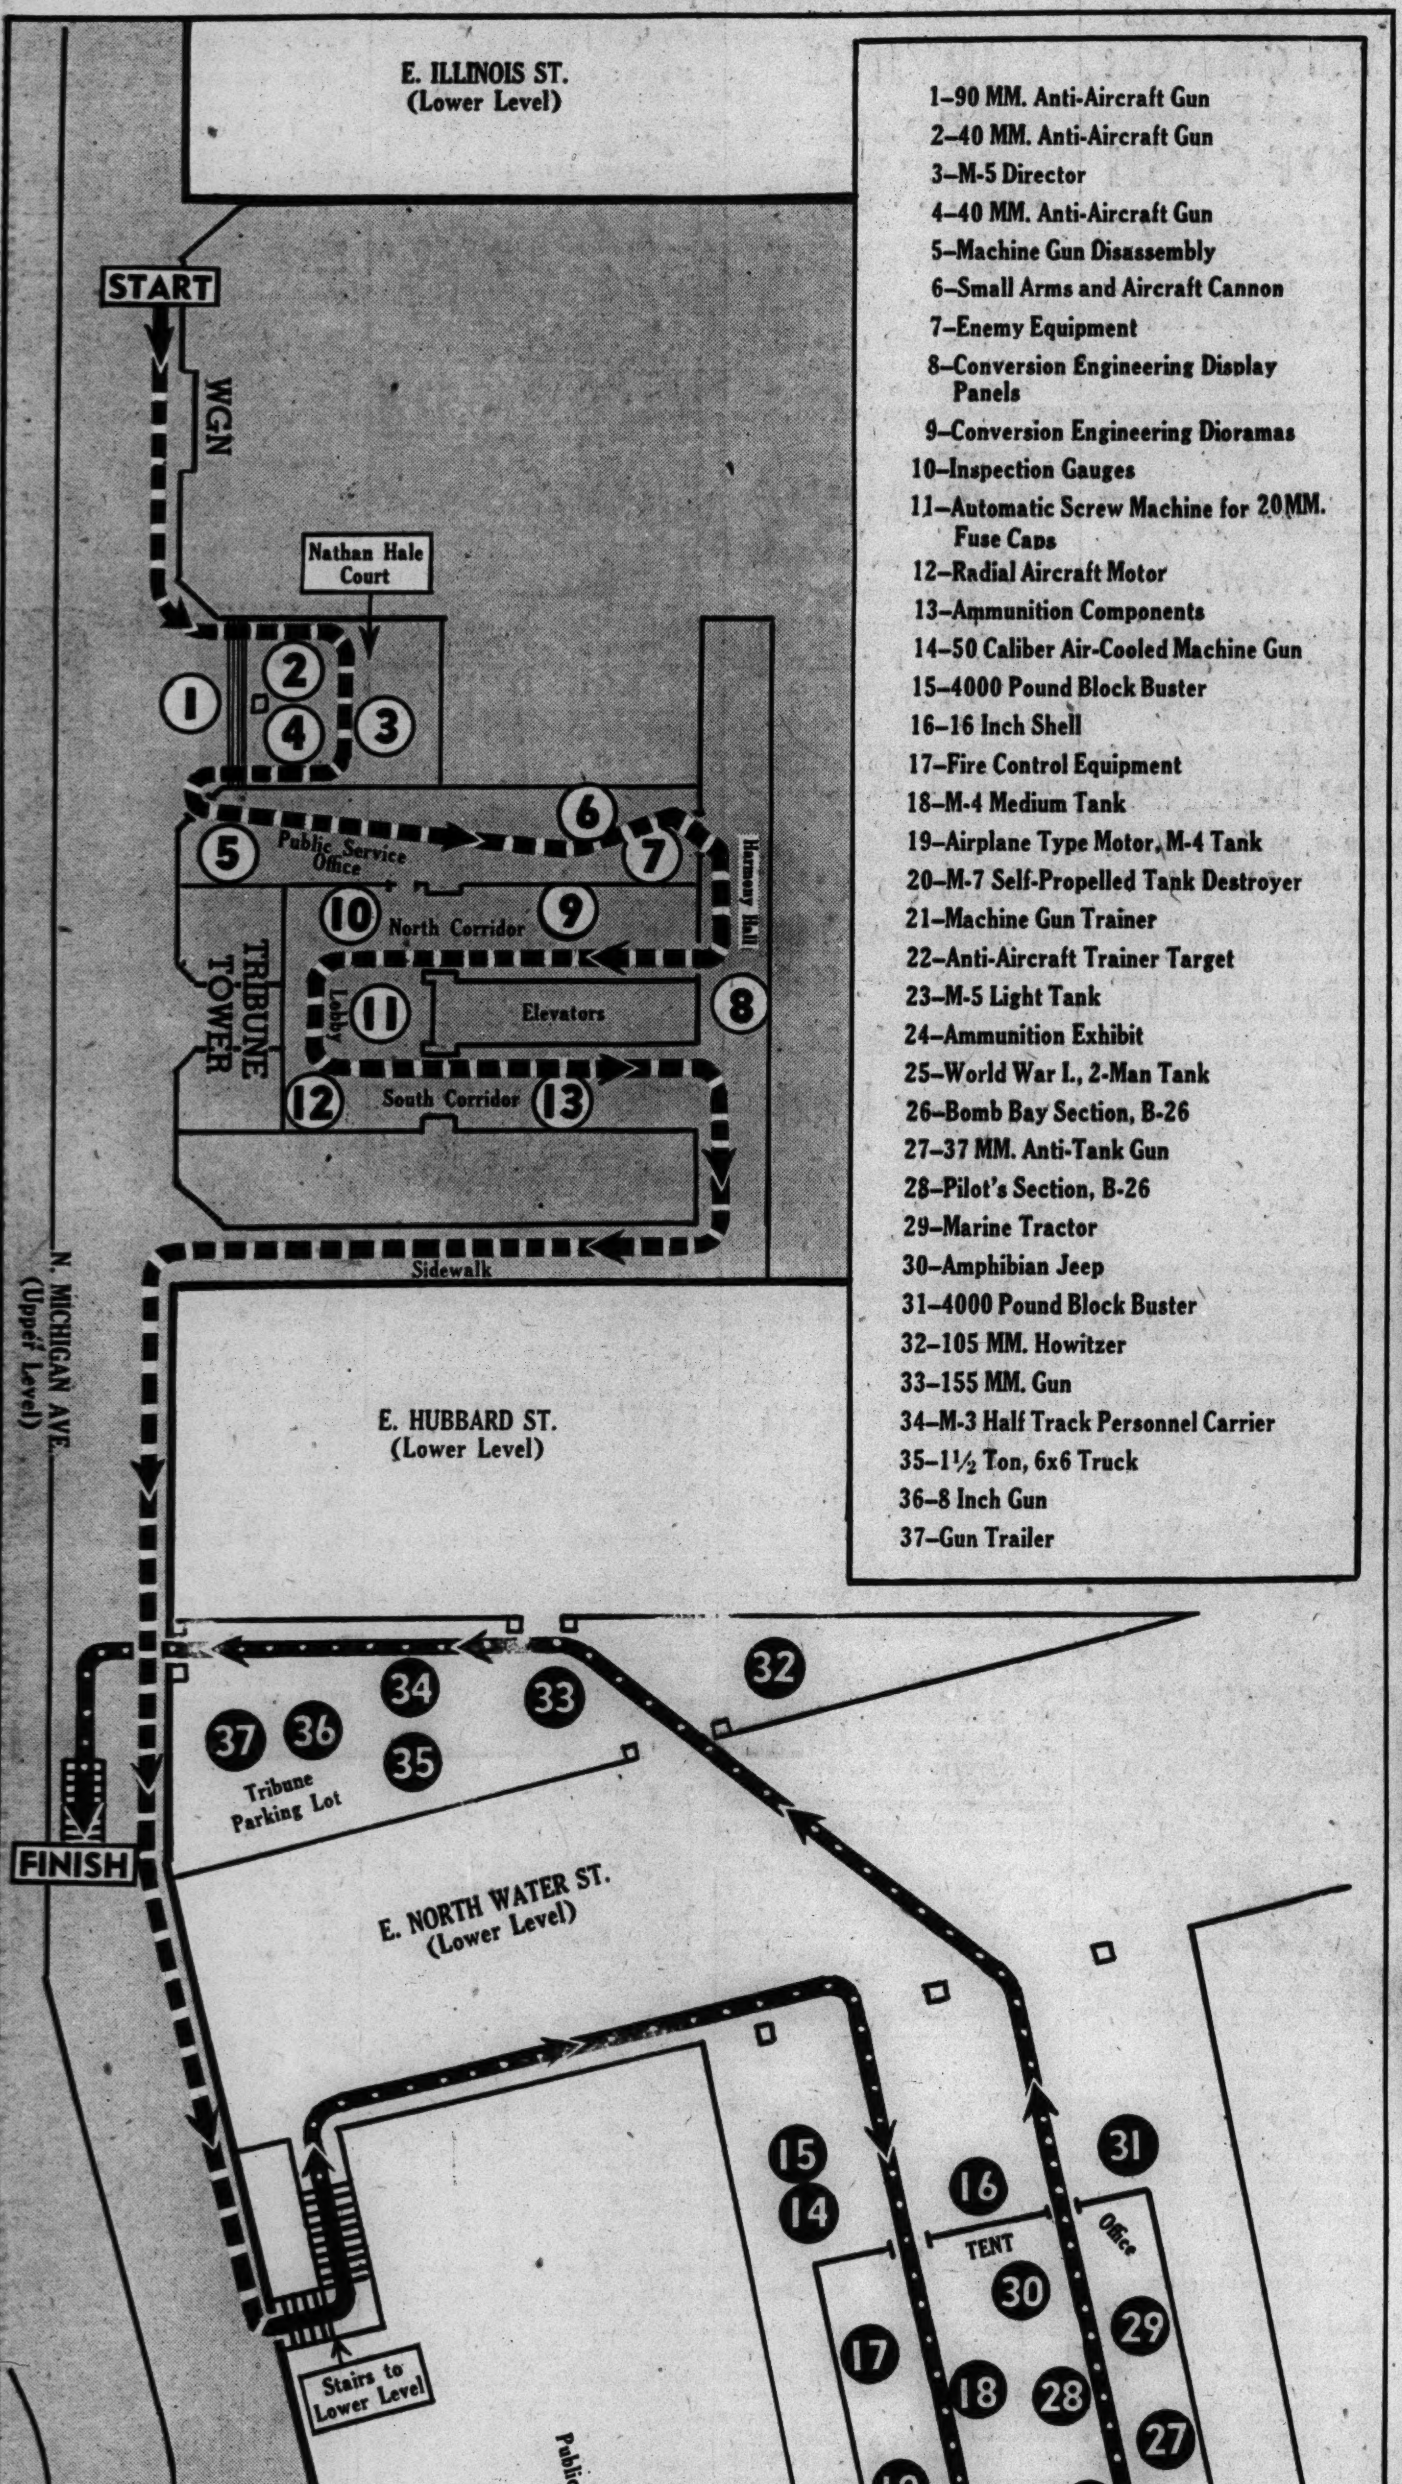
Army-Tribune War Show Opens Today—Weapons of All Types Will Be on Display for Public

GUIDE TO EXHIBITION—CLIP IT OUT



A diagram of the army ordnance department-Tribune display of many of the weapons with which our men are fighting. It opens at noon today in and around Tribune Tower. Clip out this diagram and save it. It will facilitate your passage thru the exhibition. The starting and finishing points are indicated and the location and identification of the various weapons is shown thru the use of numbers. The exhibition will continue for approximately one month. The ordnance pieces on display range from gigantic artillery rifles to small but potent machine guns, bombs, and tanks. There is no admission charge.
